The BEAUTIFUL NOSE

By Lillian Russell

THE nose, though so necessary to the face, seems to labor under the misfortune of being generally turned into ridicule whenever it forms the subject of discussion.

There have been, however, many excellent writers who have treated the human nose worthy of their serious consideration, and even of eulogy.

Artists have always regarded the well formed nose as essential to personal beauty.

The nostrils, which form so prominent a portion of the nose, have a powerful effect on one's expression. The breathing through them and their structure formed for alternate contraction and expansion, in correspondence with the motions of the chest, form an index to the condition of respiration when affected by emotions.

The Grecian or straight nose holds first place for beauty and intellect. Warwick, in his "Nasology, or the Science of Noses," defines them as follows: The Roman or aquiline nose, the Grecian or straight nose, upturned or wide nostrilled nose, hawk nose, snub nose, and celestial or turned up nose.

He has omitted the button nose and the nose which Solomon, in a strain of exonerated flattery, compares to "the tower of Lebanon which looketh towards Damascus."

Bad Habits Make Nose Hideous.

Men may glory in large intelligent looking noses, but a beautiful woman must have a small nose, straight and neither long nor short, narrow nor wide.

People generally think that the nose needs little attention other than cleanliness. That is not sufficient. The nose requires a great deal of attention. Among refined nations and even in the fashionable world the nose is regarded as one of the most important features.

The nose, with the air passages connected with it, always presents mistreatment and interferences, whether it be with fingers, tweezers or too vigorous blowing, exciting it with stimulants or checking it up with irritating powders. In the last, both the form of the nostrils and the tone of voice suffer.

Nothing can do much to beautify the noses of their children by attention to cleanliness and the absolute prevention of nose habits—sniffing, picking, pulling, and rubbing.

A beautiful nose may be made hideous by bad habits. Red noses are generally caused by stomach disorders and bad circulation. Any exercise which circulates the blood and causes perspiration will remedy a red nose.

The tiny hairs that grow just inside of the nose should never be pulled out with tweezers. It should be remembered that they are not idly placed there by nature. Their purpose is to filter the air we breathe.

There is a great deal of truth in the saying that the nose is the key to the face. It is the key to the face, and the face is the key to the soul. The nose is the key to the face, and the face is the key to the soul.

However, the power of the nose as far as possible, should never be sacrificed to the pursuit of a perfect nose. It is better to have a nose that is not perfect, but that is healthy and strong, than to have a perfect nose that is weak and diseased.

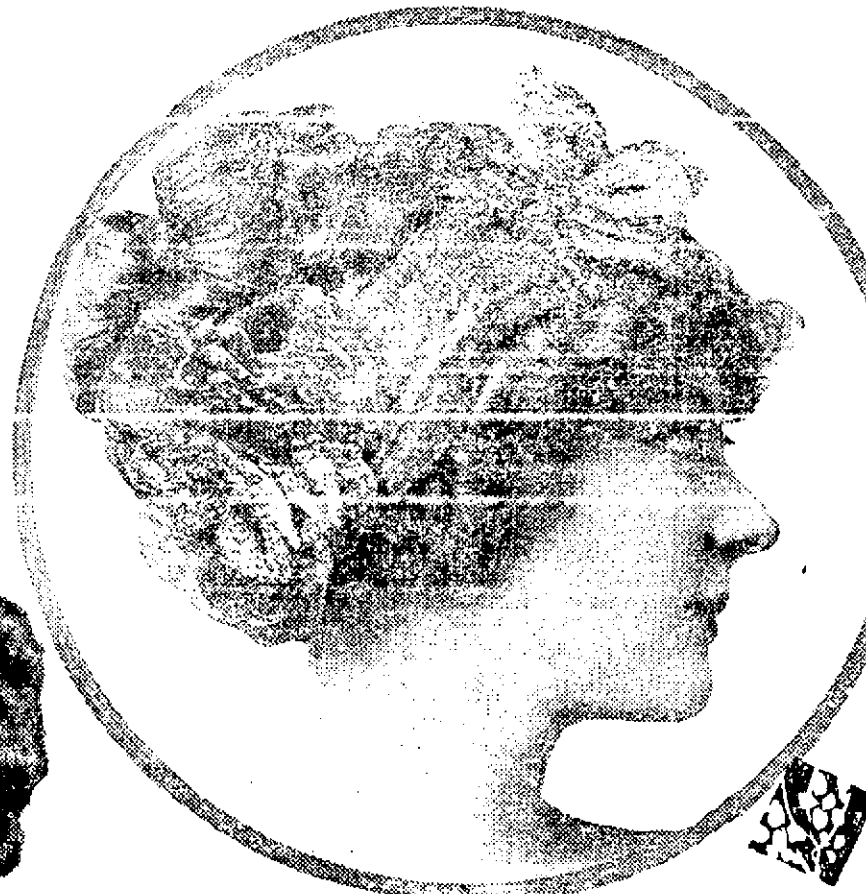

If you are troubled in any way with obstruction, or breathing, do not go to a nose specialist and let him give the proper treatment. Such operations often lead to very serious results.

You are probably very weary of hearing so much about deep breathing. But have you ever faithfully tried it? If you have you will realize as readily the wonderful benefits that come from this practice that you will feel, as we always do when we have found a treasure, that you must share with some one else. You never will feel this way until you have tried it faithfully enough to know what a wonderful help to your health and strength it is.

Deep Breathing of Great Value.

Deep breathing will start your blood dancing vigorously through your veins. This will make you warm, and you will be astonished to hear some sluggish companion complaining of the cold.

The straight nose holds first place for beauty.

One should always take her nose into consideration when choosing a style of hair dressing.

If they are too dark a solution of peroxide or hydrogen and water, equal parts of each, may be used as a bleach.

Hard Blowing of Nose Never Good.

Let the nose alone. Unless you have special directions from a nose specialist you should never douche the nose in any way. The mucous membrane of the nose was not made for water.

Let the nose alone. Unless you have special instruction from a nose specialist never douche the nose in any way. The mucous membrane of the nose was not made for water.

The nostrils, which form so prominent a part of the nose, have a powerful effect on one's expression.

It will take practice to make you a devotee of deep breathing, but when you have once become, as it were, addicted to the habit, you will never give it up, and you will wonder how you ever lived before. Deep breathing throws off a vast number of impurities, and it takes in life itself.

It adds buoyancy to your spirits and makes you feel that you can overcome mountains of obstacles. Until you try it, you will never know how much it will add to your beauty.

I have been interested for some time in collecting various articles on this subject. These clippings have been taken from various sources, professional and popular. It has simply astonished me in looking over this collection of years to find the immense amount of material that has been written on this subject from many standpoints.

One writer would have an object in view, and another a different one. The lessons they teach are all so true, yet each one differs from the other, with varying shades, but at the same time all embrace the one essential truth—the great benefit which always comes from deep breathing.

A woman of many interests—indeed she is a noted writer—and who is to a certain extent a student of occultism, which has become a subject of such general interest since the Swamis, those masters of the Vedanta philosophy, came among us, says:

"I combine the occult principle with deep breathing, night and morning, inhaling with the pure air all of those beautiful qualities of love, health, wisdom, usefulness, power for good, cheerfulness, and opulence—these seven covering the whole ground of my desires—and all the chest and abdomen fully. In exhaling I get rid of all the opposite qualities, which would do me an injury, such as prejudice, weakness, folly, poverty, etc. I rise on my toes while breathing in, inhaling slowly, desiring with all of my concentrated power all good to come to me. I also declare myself for beauty and symmetry in everything, physical, mental, and moral. My mind being in this attitude, I must acquire that which I reach out for."

Fresh Air Has Wonderful Effect.

A most interesting article which has recently appeared in one of our medical journals speaks very clearly of the various remarkable effects that the breathing of fresh air has upon the organism.

We all know that girls who lead a sedentary life, whatever their occupation may be, breathe very poorly and shallowly. Respiration is partly suspended owing to a nervous preoccupation.

The result of this is a scanty supply of oxygen to the brain, and this condition gradually leads to neurasthenia. All who lead an indoor life belong to this class.

The girls who are devoted to society are almost invariably poor breathers. They become mentally excitable and physically weak.

An extreme emotion, such as anger or worry, affects the respiration; it becomes shallow, with consequent much lessening and weakened physical endurance. If you are depressed or nervously unbalanced, you may be certain that there is an insufficient and irregular supply of oxygen to the nerve centers.

The dark circles under the eyes, with or without puffiness, with which so many girls are troubled, indicate always a certain degree of passive congestion, that is, sluggishness of the circulation of the vessels of the head. When these blood vessels are congested there can be no clear brain work. Depression of various functions is sure to follow. For the condition of sluggishness seen in so many young girls, I know of nothing of more value than the inhalation of pure air.

Remember: Cultivate your nose and keep it under control, that it may not betray you.

LILLIAN RUSSELL'S ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES BY BEAUTY SEEKERS.

1. M. D. P. Fingers that are too hard should be massaged delicately every day, rubbing from the finger tips toward the wrist and using an abundance of good hand food. It is needless to say that no hand can be perfect from a beauty standpoint unless the nails are well kept. Nails that are white on the ends are not pretty. They are dark toward the base. The nails should be kept in a normal condition if would scarcely ever

If you find your nails looking in some particular way, write me and I shall be delighted to send you complete directions for manicuring and tinting the nails. With these to refer to and follow and a little time at your disposal, it will only be a few days before your nails will be on their good behavior.

The maids and matrons who find with horror that their hands are becoming spotted with ugly dark spots color should rub to their aid some harmless bleaching lotion. A little lemon juice dabbed over the spots and allowed to dry on will, in most cases, cause the disfiguring marks to vanish.

BRIGHT EYES: It is always difficult for me to tell you how to get your eyes to look as bright as I would like to see them. There are several pretty quick ways to do the job. You might make three zalls low in the neck, or, if your hair is long, you might try braiding it and then putting the heads against your forehead. Neither a prettier for a young girl than the other. They are good for the face of the day. The next day, however, you must wash the face with cold water and rub it with a towel.

Why not sit in front of your mirror and do your own hair every day, and then adjust the one that is best and when it is most becoming to you.

You say you are not very tall. A girl that is short should never wear a very large hat, for it will only make her look shorter. A medium sized hat, something that gives you height, I should think would be most becoming to you. The length of your dresses depends entirely upon your height. A girl of your size should wear a dress that is just below the knees.

If you are troubled in any way with obstruction, or breathing, do not go to a nose specialist and let him give the proper treatment. Such operations often lead to very serious results.

working downward. But do not do this too hard. You might also gently pinch the end of your nose with the tips of your fingers. This may help to make it narrower.

SPOTS ON THE FACE: If the spots on the face are slight, you may try an ointment of ammonia, diluted with water, and two-thirds peroxide of hydrogen daily, followed with a good cold cream. The ammonia will gradually kill the spots and the peroxide will bleach the hair so that it will become less noticeable. From your description, I think the spots on your face are enlarged pores, which disappear in hot weather and reappear when the face is cooled, showing them to remain open.

For each one differs from the other, with varying shades, but at the same time all embrace the one essential truth—the great benefit which always comes from deep breathing.

 like a bear coos like a dove. Im a fire-man's love. Im a love.

Too! Too!

Im a fireman's love

When I find Im lone-some for his man-ly arm. Why
 hel-met a - dove:
 Im a fire-man's love. Oh yes, a Fire-man's love. I love him from his boots be-low to
 CHORUS
 See them fly he will soon be here. Ill have a chance to kiss my dear
 I know his point to change my name be-cause he said I was his flame
 Hes my pet. You can bet. If I must be a Fire - bug Ill get him yet.
 He wont flirt With a skirt. For I own all the heart that beats beneath his shirt.

TO VERIFY ELECTION RETURNS

Secretary of State Jordan to See That Accurate Count Is Taken

Democrats and Progressives Invited to Assist in the Recount

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 16.—On his return from Los Angeles today Secretary of State Jordan made the following statement regarding the tabulation of the returns of the Presidential election:

"Every voter and everyone interested in the canvass of the returns from the several counties of the state may rest assured that every vote cast will be credited and every precaution taken to avoid mistakes."

"I have instructed Mr. Cramin, the statistician of this office in charge of the canvass to extend to the representatives of the different parties every courtesy and allow them the utmost freedom to the end that all may be satisfied when the result is finally announced."

FOOTINGS VERIFIED.

The footings in the returns from the different counties, giving the vote for every candidate and for every elector, are being proved on the adding machines and each machine operator has received instructions to preserve the slip showing in detail the votes cast in the different precincts in each county for each candidate, as called off by the readers from the returns. Those slips are being verified by the representatives looking after the interests of the Wilson and Roosevelt electors. Mr. Griffin of the Governor's office and Colonel Canon for the Roosevelt electors and Senator Caminetti and Mr. Prohme for the Wilson electors are assisting, and the board of control is co-operating in every way and every possible precaution is being taken.

"After the returns from all the counties have been checked and any errors discovered corrected by the several county clerks, the footings will be again verified by the force of this office, before the result is finally declared."

TO COMPARE RESULTS.

"I have also instructed Mr. Cramin, whenever five counties have been canvassed, to give the results to the Associated Press and newspaper representatives and I hope that the county clerks in the counties mentioned will assist by taking these figures and compare them with the canvass of the returns as they appear on the minutes of their board of supervisors and if any differences appear to at once notify this office."

All may depend upon a square deal and the assistance of all interested is welcome, to the end that no doubt may exist as to the correctness of the result when announced."

Nineteen Are Killed By Trains Separating

The Cars Leap Track and Are Ditched, Passengers All Escaping Death.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 16.—The Merchants' Limited, the finest train on the New York New Haven and Hartford road, jumped the track just east of Greens Farms station today, ditching three cars and injuring 19 persons.

The train was running late and had attained high speed. It parted while taking a crossing, the locomotive, one parlor car and the diner going ahead and leaving two parlor cars and the smoker 1000 feet behind. All the passengers were badly shaken up. None of the cars overturned.

Gas-Stove Blows Up and Knocks Porter Senseless

Patrons in a crowded barber shop at 525 Eighth street were thrown into a panic at 7 o'clock last evening when a gas stove which Ah Toy, a Chinese porter, was using to light, exploded. Pieces of the stove were hurled in every part of the room, but Ah Toy was the only person injured. He received a severe gash over the left eye and was rendered unconscious. The injury was treated at the Receiving hospital by Steward Davison. In some manner a large quantity of gas had accumulated in the stove when the match was applied.

Boy Runs After Ball and Is Crushed Beneath Car

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—John Potter, a three-year-old boy, while playing a few feet from his home, late this afternoon, was run over by a car of the Masonic avenue line and badly crushed. The lad lived at 226 O street and was running after a ball on Ninth avenue, near O street, when a car bore down upon him and he was immediately plunged beneath the tender. The wheels passed over one leg, which was amputated before the motor could be brought to a stop. A hundred willing hands went to the aid of the child, who was placed on the car and rushed to the California Hospital. There an immediate operation was performed to remove the leg. It was found that the amputation might be completed. It is thought that the youngster has a chance of recovery.

DEPRAVITY SHOCKS CITY

Story of Crime Is Disclosed Following Man's Attempt to Commit Suicide

Members of Portland Y. M. C. A. and Gypsy Rigo Said to Be Involved

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 16.—When Wm. Allen, head salesman in a pioneer business house and long a prominent figure at the Portland Young Men's Christian Association, was carried unconscious from his room in the Y. M. C. A. building to a hospital tonight, having drunk carbolic acid, Portland newspapers were compelled to begin publication of details of an amazing episode of depravity that now involves dozens of men and boys. Thirty-five John Doe warrants have been issued and ten arrests made.

Several written confessions are in official hands.

CITY IS SHOCKED.

The condition became known to a few on Thursday, but yesterday, without a word having been published, it was common property. An earthquake could scarcely have caused more widespread amazement. In the absence of anything official wild rumors began. Men absolutely innocent were mentioned. The great Portland Y. M. C. A., with its 5200 members, began to receive such embarrassing publicity that tonight Secretary Stone issued a statement saying in part:

"There may be members of the Y. M. C. A. in indecent and immoral acts and it is possible such acts may have been committed in the Y. M. C. A. building, but any one convicted of such acts will be dishonorably expelled. Among 5200 members there may be some men capable of the acts with which they are charged, but none is an active member, none is an officer and none a director of the Y. M. C. A."

40 MEN INVOLVED.

Probation Officer S. D. White said: "The investigation was begun at the suggestion of members of the committee of management of the boys' department of the association and the evidence leading to proof of guilt of the first man accused and the additional names of perhaps forty men, resulted."

The Y. M. C. A. has 800 roomers, of whom only four are said to be involved. Down-town hotels and apartment houses were favorite haunts of the moral delinquents, but numerous other addresses of resorts are being listed.

GYPSY RIGO ARRESTED.

Among the eleven men arrested is Rigo, the "Gypsy violinist" who accompanied the Princess Chimay, the former Clara Ward, and who in recent years has descended to employment in San Francisco and Portland restaurants. Rigo was still undergoing cross-examination. The others arrested are:

B. THORNTON and C. D. BROWN, proprietors of the A. B. C. restaurant, one of the alleged meeting places.

H. J. ROWE, credit man for one of the biggest hardware houses on the coast. He is out on $5,000 bonds.

WILLIAM HOMAN, drug clerk.

EARL BROWN, clerk.

LONEL DEAN, architect.

EARL VAN HULLEN, employee of the Chamber of Commerce.

ROBERT JOHNSON, clerk in prominent clothing store.

N. B. HEALY, florist.

E. TAYLOR, theatrical employee.

Two physicians, a widely known lawyer and others of similar prominence are to be arrested.

William Allen's recovery is uncertain.

'SIX YEARS NEEDED' TAFT

President, in Snappy Talk at Banquet, Favors Longer Term for Office

Cabinet Members Should Also Be Given Places in Congress, He Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—In one of the snappiest and wittiest speeches he has made since he was elected President of the United States, President Taft tonight gave the members of the Lotus Club an inside view of what he thought of the Presidency and told them of a number of changes he thought ought to be made. In some he agreed with Governor Wilson; in others he was diametrically opposed. The President advocated strongly a single term of six years for the Chief Executive of the United States, saying that this was ample time for him to do all the good possible and not enough for him to become hazy to the country. The giving to cabinet officers seats in the senate and house, a move advocated by William Jennings Bryan within the past week, was another step which the President favored.

GREATER EFFICIENCY.

"I don't care how unambitious or modest a President is," said President Taft. "I don't care how determined he is that he himself will not secure his re-nomination (and there are very few, indeed, who go to that extent); still his subordinates, equally interested with him on his re-election, will, whenever they have the opportunity, bring their influence to bear and divide their time between the service of the public and the effort to secure re-nominations and election. It is difficult to prevent the whole administration from losing a part of its effectiveness for the public good by this diversion to political effort for at least a year of the four of each administration. Were this made impossible by law, I can see no reason why the energy of the President and that of all his subordinates might not be directed rather to making a great record of efficiency in the first and only term, than in seeking a second term for that purpose."

SIX YEARS IS BETTER.

"Four years is rather a short time in which to work out great governmental policies. Six years is better. Another suggestion I would make is that legislative steps be taken, for there is nothing in the constitution to forbid it, bringing more closely together the operation of the executive and legislative branches. The studied effort in which to maintain these branches rigidly separate is, I think, a mistake. I would not add any more actual power to the executive in legislative matters, nor would I give the initiative power."

Autonomous Albania Predicted by Diplomat

A Retiring American Minister Gives His Opinion About Situation in Balkans.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The Mauretania, sailing today for New York, carried many distinguished persons. Among the society folk aboard was Mrs. James Henry Smith, who said she had not been in America for some time and was going over for a few weeks, expecting to return to London for Christmas. Mrs. Letter was another interesting society passenger.

Among the diplomats was G. H. Moses, the retiring American minister to Greece and Albania. He said he was still of the opinion that there would be an autonomous Albania.

"The problem of a Serbian port could be easily settled," he said. "Why should Serbia not have a port on the Adriatic, which would be unopposed. All Serbia would be satisfied. The matter would be impossible to settle the matter without a conference, because nationalization of the railways must follow."

Princess Burns Self To Death on Pyre

Daughter of Former Sultan Succides on Account of Turkish Defeats.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 16.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of a local newspaper wires that Princess Zeekie, the eldest daughter of Abdul Hamid, the former Turkish Sultan, overcame by despair on account of the repeated defeats of the Turkish army, committed suicide two days ago in the gardens of her palace at Abusder. Her husband was Noureddin Pasha, general of an army division and a son of the famous fighter, Osman Pasha.

1500 MEN ON TRAIN AFFLICTED

Bodies of Dead Are Placed on the Roofs of the Troop Cars

Famous Mosque of St. Sophia Is Turned Into a Temporary Morgue

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 16.—Risi Pasha, the Turkish heavy artillery commander along the Tchatalja line of fort was stricken with cholera today and was hurried to Ejub for treatment. On the train with the commander were more than 1500 soldiers afflicted with the dread disease.

The scourge is spreading rapidly and is creating more havoc than Balkan bullets. To succor the Turkish soldiers put that the men dying on trains are hoisted to the roof of cars and their bodies kept there until the train reaches its destination.

The famous mosque of St. Sophia has been turned into temporary morgue, and a column of soldiers' establishments about it.

Many of the wounded soldiers arriving here are being treated for cholera. Some of their wounds are self-inflicted.

2,000 DEATHS REPORTED.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A Constantinople dispatch to the Chronicle says: Reports received at the War Office from the commander in charge of the troops protecting the city are to the effect that the cholera lines cannot hold out much longer. Cholera working havoc and the sanitary conditions are unspeakable. The deaths from cholera Friday reached the enormous total of 2,000.

SULTAN OBJECTS TO PROPOSAL.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Reluctant consent to an unconditional surrender, even though every hour's delay means hundreds more dead, wounded and only postpones the disaster, the Sultan of Turkey today objected to the peace proposal of the Balkan allies and submitted a counter proposal to Sofia.

Dispatches tonight from Constantinople say the European residents and the capital and many Turks themselves are astonished that the Sultan should bicker with the Bulgarians, who are only twenty miles from the capital and may strike at the city itself before an answer can be received from Bulgaria.

No favorable answer will be forthcoming, since the Sultan insists that he retain a nominal suzerainty over the city.

Reward for Ketchel's Slayer Ordered Paid

Jury Decides Against the Man Who Tried to Get Out of Paying.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 16.—The killing of Stanley Ketchel, middle-weight champion pugilist, on the ranch of Colonel R. P. Dickinson, near Conway, 1910, was recalled here tonight when the jury in the Circuit Court returned a verdict against Dickinson in a suit to collect $5000 reward. Suit was brought by three Webster county farmers who captured Walter Lappe, who is serving sentence in the penitentiary for killing Ketchel. Dickinson refused to pay the reward that he had offered for the death of the pugilist's slayer.

The jury returned a verdict against the defendant, allowing the plaintiffs $500 and $500 interest for two years.

PERFECT GIRL CAN PITCH CURVE

She Also Has 'Em, If Reports From East Are True.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 16.—"I love baseball; playing it, I mean, not just watching it," replied Miss Mirlam Hubbard today, when asked what forms of exercise had helped to make her the University of Michigan's "perfect girl."

Miss Hubbard is the daughter of Robert Hubbard and a friend who knew her in East Aurora, N. Y., asserted that she can pitch a curve that would make Ty Cobb cross-eyed.

Miss Hubbard wears no corsets nor any clothing that would restrict breathing or the free action of organs or muscles.

"I get on with most girls is that they don't exercise enough," she said. "I love outdoors. I just walk and walk. Horseback riding I love. Most of us eat too much, wear too much and sit in doors too much."

Wife of New Jersey Man Will Get All of Large Fortune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—The will of Henry Kohler, a partner with Henry Van Bergen in a large wholesale liquor house in this city who died on November 9, at the age of 84, was filed for probate here today.

The estate consists of $250,000 and a will made three years ago leaves his wife a community share. Mrs. Kohler, however, died January 31, 1911, and since that time no change has been made in the testament.

The property therefore goes to an only daughter, Anna Marie Stichter, wife of Maurice Stichter who lives at Short Hills, New Jersey.

BUTTE AND SUTTER BEAN GROWERS LOSE CROPS

CHICO, Nov. 16.—The bean growers of Butte and Sutter counties have been hit hard this season because of the early frosts, and it is estimated that about 75 per cent of the usual crop has been ruined. As a result the prices are unusually high.

In the Sunset colonies in the Live Oak and Grudley regions the beans have suffered mostly. About one-half the crop was caught by the storm in the windrow or in the stack, availing the threshers. An unusually heavy crop was taken and the growers expected to reap a big harvest before the rains came.

Mason Case, one of the biggest bean growers in this section with fields in the Sunset colony had commenced to harvest a field of 15 acres. He estimates his loss at several thousand dollars. The loss came as a result of not getting threshers when needed and the rain coming just at the inopportune time. Enos brothers are also heavy losers. It is estimated that 50 per cent of the crop is ruined.

SUPPLY OF TURKEYS IS UP TO STANDARD

CHICO, Nov. 16.—The number of turkeys in Butte county will be about an average this year. There is an apparent slump in the market now and turkey buyers have not been as plentiful as they usually are at this time of the year.

From present appearances dressed turkeys will sell in Chico this year at 70 cents a pound. The prevailing price for live weight will be between 18 and 22 cents. In San Francisco 23 cents is now being paid for live weight.

SAWBONES GATHER AT FINAL SESSION

Surgeons Hold One of Most Important Clinics in the History of Profession.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The third annual convention of the Chinese Congress of Surgeons at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel ended this afternoon. Most of the 5000 visiting surgeons returned to their homes after witnessing a number of operations equal in importance to those that took place earlier in the week.

One of the most enlightening events of the session was the cinematographic demonstration of the technique of serial radiography of the stomach, given by Dr. Lewis G. G. Coe at 1036 Park avenue. These pictures, taken several days ago, by means of X-rays, showed all the stages of digestion, from the time food was taken in a person's stomach who was suffering from stomach trouble. It is said by Dr. Coe that the information thus obtained will be a great aid in the fight on cancers and ulcers of the stomach, in that they readily show the beginning of these troubles.

IMPORTANT OPERATIONS.

About 200 surgeons witnessing an operation by Drs. Kammerer and Dewitt. Sixteen at the German Hospital for cancer of the ascending colon, were required by Dr. Kammerer to insist that patients apply for treatment in the early stages of the disease. In this particular case the cancer was of considerable size and had not been treated. The operation was performed by Dr. Kammerer, who is expected to remove the tumor. Dr. G. G. Coe, who is expected to remove the tumor. Dr. G. G. Coe, who is expected to remove the tumor.

Chicago has been decided upon for the next congress, to be held in November 1913.

2 WOMEN KILLED BY WHITE SLAVERS

Mother and Daughter Slain by Members of the Family.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Because she objected to white slave bondage for her comely 15-year-old daughter, Carmelina Garcello was murdered by her husband, Salvatore, her 22-year-old son and Salvatore Lombardi, the lover of the girl, on November 10.

After holding vigil with the body of her mother in a back room of their apartment at 214 East 125th street for 48 hours the daughter, Torrida, was put to death by the slayer of her mother.

The two bodies were stuffed into a large trunk and the trunk shipped to Georgetown, Conn., where the body of the mother was found last Saturday floating in a mill pond.

This is the theory that the New York detectives offer tonight to solve one of the most amazing crimes in police annals. Clews unearthed today clearly establish that the three murderers first killed Carmelina Garcello to remove her as an obstacle to their designs on the daughter.

locked the daughter in her mother's death chamber in an attempt to frighten her into yielding to white slavery and then when she still resisted killed her.

Descriptions of the three men were sent broadcast tonight over the United States and fifty detectives are combing the Italian quarters to find the murderers.

The mother was first poisoned and then four wire snips were driven into her skull. This deed according to the police, was witnessed by her daughter Torrida.

$2500 A YEAR GIVEN CHILD

Young Viscount's Allowance to Be Increased at the Age of 21.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Special guardians to pass upon the accounting in the estate of Countess Dowager duchess of Manchester today filed their reports, showing how much income will be allowed to the grandchildren of the late dowager duchess.

Elton J. Whitmore, special guardian of the minors reported that Viscount Mandeville will receive an allowance of $2500 a year until he is 21. When he reaches the age of 21 or becomes Duke of Manchester the allowance will be increased to $7500 a year. If he marries he will be allowed $20,000 a year.

A fund of $250,000 has been set aside for the other three children. The report of the trustees of the American estate shows that there is a balance of $2,237,000 in their hands.

HARD LUCK FOR OLD CAB DRIVERS NOWADAYS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The sad story of the decadence of the business of the old "night hawk," commonly known as "sea-going hawks," was told in juvenile court by James H. DeVaughan, a cab driver for 30 years who complained to Judge DeLacy that he had a hard time having new clothes after his wife had torn them up, because his trade is not what it was of old.

Mrs. Mary DeVaughan's wife charged him with failing to support her, and told Judge DeLacy that he earns from $3 to $10 a night.

"There used to be a time back in the days of the horse cars when a cab driver could earn as much as $15 and $20 a night," said Mr. DeVaughan, when asked about his earning capacity. "But after the coming of the electric cars and automobiles the old business has gone steadily backward. Now we are lucky if we make $2 a night, and the driver who earns $20 a week is prosperous. Out of that we have to feed and stable our horses, and even the cost of living for the family has gone up."

Judge DeLacy decided that Mrs. DeVaughan had no case against her husband, and dismissed the charges.

FATE DEALS HARSHLY WITH PORTOLA COUPLE

OROVILLE, Nov. 16.—Fate dealt with the McBride family of Portola with a ruthless hand. McBride's wife, who was with him at the time, was not hurt. She is now in the hospital. The cause of the accident was a freight car that had been left on the tracks.

The Doctors Answers On Health and Beauty Questions

By DR. LEWIS BAKER.

The questions answered below are general in nature and the answers will apply to any case of similar character.

Those wishing further advice may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College of Physicians and Surgeons, 1100 Broadway, New York City. All communications should be given full name and address and be given full name and address. This should be continued for several weeks until you feel perfectly strong.

"Martha" writes: "If you know of a safe, harmless but effective remedy for reducing weight, please advise."

Answer: Purchase these two ingredients at the drug store and take a teaspoonful after each meal for three days, then double the dose, continuing for several weeks or as long as desired. Aromatic elixir, 5 cc. or 10 cc. of elixir. 1 cc. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and shake before using. It is well to purchase these separately to avoid substitution.

"Anna R." writes: "I have taken medicine from several doctors for three or four years for indigestion, but it does not seem to help me at all. My skin is yellow. I have constipation. What should I do?"

Answer: The best remedy that I know of for your trouble is three grains of cathartics (Epsom salts) three times a day. These are packed in sealed tubes with full directions. Most of the same kind will relieve you. If you take the cathartics regularly for a few weeks you will be cured. This will purify the blood and your skin will look better.

"Rose Alford" writes: "Bad wetting can be easily cured in children by giving them the following medicine: 2 grains of Epsom salts and 2 grains of castor oil mixed in water and given in an hour before each meal."

Director: "I have a very bad case of catarrh of the head, and my eyes, nose and throat are affected. I suffer greatly and would like a remedy."

LATEST THEORY OF CATARRH EXPLAINED BY DR. HARTMAN.

DR. S. B. HARTMAN.

Catarrh begins by congestion of the blood vessels of a mucous membrane. Any mucous membrane is made up mostly of minute blood vessels, called capillaries. Cold or irritation of any sort is liable to produce congestion of these capillaries. If the irritation is slight and is quickly removed the congestion very soon disappears and no bad result obtains. But if the irritation is repeated many times or is long continued a chronic condition of congestion of the blood vessels, producing discharges, is the result.

These discharges are ordinarily called mucous discharges. The fact is, however, the discharges are not properly mucous. Real mucous does not irritate but is a wholesome fluid which covers every mucous membrane in the body. The catarrh discharges are a deranged sort of mucous that is irritating and very unwholesome. Such a discharge not only further irritates the mucous membranes, sometimes completely destroying them, but the discharge is a weakening drain on the system. Precious blood serum is lost in this way.

This condition of affairs is liable to happen in the stomach, in the bowels, and any other internal organ. As said before, it most frequently occurs in the nose and throat.

Sometimes a little relief can be obtained by the use of local applications, especially when the catarrh is confined to the nose and throat. But catarrh cannot be successfully treated by local applications. The only remedies that are effective are internal remedies.

To devise a remedy for catarrh that could be taken safely and effectively for catarrh wherever it happened to be located in the body, to devise such a remedy has been the ambition and study of my lifetime.

I think I have obtained such a remedy in Peru. I regard Peru as an effective and safe catarrh remedy. I have never recommended it for any other disease than catarrh. The notion that prevails that I regard Peru as a cure-all is entirely erroneous. Catarrh is liable to affect so many organs for which I have recommended Peru that it has given rise to the impression that I recommend Peru for different diseases. I recommend Peru only for catarrh. But I do insist that it is a remedy not only for catarrh of the nose and throat, but for catarrh of the stomach and lungs, larynx, liver and other internal organs.

The kidneys are especially liable to catarrh. If the catarrh goes on unchecked in the kidneys it leads to organic disease, sometimes called Bright's disease.

I wish to make it plain that Peru is not a cure-all; that I have never recommended it as a cure-all; that I have always insisted that it was a remedy for catarrh and for catarrh only. I hope I have made this plain.

If catarrh affects the stomach, Peru is the remedy.

If catarrh affects the kidneys, Peru is the remedy.

If catarrh affects the colon, the intestines, or the lungs, Peru is the remedy.

Not because Peru is a remedy for many diseases, but because catarrh can locate itself in these various organs and disturb their functions.

Sometimes catarrh is associated with constipation. Other times a catarrh subject may not be troubled with constipation. In some instances there is a looseness of the bowels.

People beginning the use of Peru for chronic catarrh, wherever located, will usually get valuable advice by writing me, giving me a statement of the case.

I do not think it will be necessary for me in this article to describe catarrh of the various organs of the body. It is sufficient for me to say in a general way that any organ is subject to catarrh, because these organs are lined by a mucous membrane. When once catarrh attacks an organ it deranges the function of that organ more or less.

If catarrh attacks the stomach dyspepsia is the result.

If it attacks the lungs, cough and symptoms that resemble consumption will follow.

If catarrh attacks the kidneys disturbance of the urinary organs is certain. Catarrh of the bladder is a very common form of catarrh. It produces distressing symptoms. A large proportion of men past middle life have this form of catarrh, more or less.

I not only devised a remedy to meet these cases, but I have at my command a corpsable man to come into personal touch with thousands of people suffering from catarrh, and assist them in the treatment of their case.

SUFFRAGE TORN BY ROW WITHIN RANKS

Miss Jane Addams the Storm Center; Proposed for Presidency.

ALLIANCE WITH T. R. IS CAUSE OF TROUBLE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16. — A fight that may rock the suffrage ship from peak to keel, when the delegates to the 44th annual convention of the National Woman Suffrage association convene their first day convention here on November 21, has been brewing for some time in the ranks of that party.

That this fight would be as bitter as the early reports indicated was further made plain today when the advance guard of the suffragettes made their appearance immediately began to circulate among the local crusaders for I have with propaganda upon the two most questions that have arisen to face the conventionists — the selection of a new president and the association of these suffragettes who allied themselves with the National Progressive party in the late political fight.

Miss Jane Addams, the storm center of the attacks of those who decried the alliance of suffrage with the Bull Moose party has arisen in a new role to complicate matters. Her adherents have proposed her for the presidency and have been active in working for her despite the fact that it has been an open question whether or not she would accept this position.

TERMINED RADICALS. Active preparations, however, have been set afoot looking toward the presentation of her name at the coming convention. Those who have, this matter in charge have been termed radicals by the Ida Husted Harper contingent who have steadily advanced American suffrage through their conservative practice and creed.

The candidate whom the conservatives have selected is Dr. Ann Howard Shaw, the present president of the national association. Dr. Shaw has become very popular with suffragettes throughout the United States. Her record in the suffrage which has stood so strongly for non-partisanship in politics. This contingent is backed by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, whose conversion to the cause of equal rights was made upon this creed, and Mrs. Ida Husted Harper, the historian of the American suffrage movement.

It was further manifest today that the fight for the presidency would develop into a three-cornered affair with Mrs. Laura Clay as the third entrant. Mrs. Clay has long been prominent in suffrage circles and on several other occasions has been talked of as a possible head for the national association.

She has the backing of several of the southern states and her cohorts who advance guard were in evidence today made no secret of their intention of urging the election of Mrs. Shaw. In the event of a fight between Mrs. Addams and Dr. Shaw.

MRS. BELMONT MENTIONED. Another woman much talked of for the presidency is Mrs. Emma Wilson. Mrs. Belmont has long been the "angel" of the suffrage movement and her admirers say that she could be chosen by acclamation should she give evidence of wishing to assume the duties of the office.

Beside the possible fight for the presidency the active campaign of the conservatives against the alliance of certain members of their organization with the Bull Moose party is expected to make its appearance on the convention floor when balloting begins for members of the board of directors of the National association and for lesser offices. This dissatisfaction had its foundation in the removal of the cause of ex-president Roosevelt by Miss Jane Addams. Miss Mary Donnelly, organizer of meetings for the Bull Moose party in the recent campaign and other prominent figures in the American suffrage movement.

A strong has been the criticism of these women that is certain that even if the presidential impasse is amicably settled the remaining points at issue will prove sufficient to cause a large excitement for the delegates. This spirit of discontent has been set in words by several of the old line leaders.

"IMPULSIVE WOMEN." Mrs. Harper said: "We feel sure that this alliance of some of our members with the National Progressive party has been the mistake of impulsive women."

Mrs. Lee De Forest, a member of the executive committee of the Women's Political Union, has been the loudest voice in the ranks of the conservatives. "Miss Addams should have resigned her position on the national board before identifying herself with the progressive movement," she said. "She and her followers have endangered and embarrassed the cause of American suffrage by their actions."

Behind these spokeswomen is a large contingent who hold strictly to the tenets of the National party, which proclaim that organization to be absolutely non-partisan. These women have come to this city determined to bring to brook the recalcitrants.

And for the possibilities in the matter of fireworks, the convention gave evidence today of being one of the most important and largely attended in the history of the organization. An extensive program has been prepared for the delegates, which includes speeches by some of the most prominent equal rights enthusiasts, both men and women, in America.

OCCASION TO REJOICE. An occasion of particular rejoicing will be the celebration of the admission of four new states to the little band of suffrage. The new states are Kansas, Michigan, Oregon and Arizona. These together with the six states in which women have secured the right to vote, bring the total number of suffrage states up to 10.

With this number of states in the suffrage ranks it is not improbable that some campaign will be advocated to bring pressure to bear politically during the next two years, despite the non-partisan clause adopted as the slogan of the organization.

Among the speakers who have been chosen to address the delegates are: Rudolph Blankenburg, mayor of Philadelphia; Mrs. Ellen H. P. Belmont, president of the Women's Political Union; Mrs. James L. Laidlaw, Miss Jane Addams, James Laidlaw, Jesse Lynch Williams, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Clara Thomas, president of the National Woman's party, and many others. The election of officers has been scheduled for November 25.

SOAP INVOLVED IN DAMAGE SUIT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16. — Damages to the amount of $3500 were allowed today by Superior Judge Price in Extra Sessions Court to William P. Grose, who brought suit against C. R. Peterson, manager of the Pioneer Soap Company, for $4000. According to the testimony, Grose had sold Peterson a formula for making soap and had agreed to purchase 20,000 pounds of C. R. Peterson's soap. The manufacturer, however, had testified that his formula was not using his formula, but was making a cheap brand. He so informed Grose and the suit followed.

PORT SAN JOSE BANQUET TOPIC

Merchants of Garden City to Hold Get Together Feast November 21.

SAN JOSE, Nov. 16. — Another epoch in the history of San Jose will commence with the holding of the "Get-Together" banquet to further the Port of San Jose project, which the Merchants' Association, as hosts, has planned to arouse public and general interest in the city's change of destiny.

The noteworthy event is of statewide significance as such notable factors as Joseph E. Scott of Los Angeles, H. C. Capwell of Oakland, W. R. Wheeler of San Francisco, and probably William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific company, will in response to toasts proposed by W. G. Alexander, deal with topics which makes cities great.

Joseph E. Scott was the father of the Port Los Angeles project and was the factor that brought peace between San Diego and San Francisco in settling the exposition dispute. He is eloquent and an apostle of civic advance.

WAR DEPARTMENT, UNITED STATES ENGINEER OFFICE, 401 CUSTOM HOUSE, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

November 7, 1912.

The Chairman, Citizens Bond Campaign Committee, Richmond, California.

I have been asked by a representative of your Committee to write you a statement concerning the desired harbor improvements at Richmond.

The importance to the City of Richmond and its citizens of having an adequate harbor with wharves, terminal facilities and connecting roads cannot be over-estimated. The proposed improvements would place Richmond in a position to compete on advantageous terms with the best seaports on the Pacific Coast, and would open up extensive areas that are unexcelled for manufacturing, industrial and general commercial purposes, adjacent to railroad connections on the one hand and to water transportation by ocean, bay and river on the other.

No one can state what the action of the government will be in regard to assisting in this work, but it is generally known that Congress looks with more favor upon a project that will benefit the country at large or a large community thereof, than upon one designed to benefit individuals or to foster monopolies. The chances of favorable consideration are greatly increased when an entire municipality is concerned and when the benefits of the improvement are to be offered to all on equal and economical terms. This can only be accomplished by municipal control and Richmond now has an opportunity to secure this control which should not be neglected. It may be fairly assumed that if the government lends its assistance in the improvement of Richmond harbor such assistance will be contingent upon local co-operation and upon such municipal or public control of harbor facilities and terminals as will afford equal rights to all desiring their use.

The proposed work is simple and offers no engineering difficulties as it consists mainly of dredging soft material. Every cubic yard dredged would serve two purposes. It would deepen and extend the harbor and at the same time build up, for the city, lands which are submerged and otherwise useless. The government's work could not be applied to building up and reclaiming the lands of individuals. The value of the reclaimed lands would in time partially or wholly reimburse the city for its expenditures.

While my own investigations did not cover the tunnel project, I have studied that feature carefully and discussed it with the engineers who planned it, and consider it essential and necessary to the efficiency and value of the proposed harbor.

Yours truly,

 Thomas A. Rees
 Lieut. Col. Corps of Engineers,
 U. S. Army.

'MOVIES' HAVE A WONDERFUL 'PLAY'

Tremendous Development of Great Industry Shown at Vienna Exhibition.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

VIENNA, Nov. 16.—Twenty years of a remarkable evolution in the history of moving pictures, from the day Thomas Edison started the world with his projecting Kinetoscope to the present day wonders in film production, are shown at the International Kine Exposition which has been opened here in the beautiful building of the Gartenbau-schloss.

Only twenty years, and yet a tremendous development of one of the greatest combinations of art and industry. If you visit the exposition and have the good fortune to meet one of the directors of the industry, you will find that the great display of machines and pictures represents the results of what was originally the playful inspiration of an American inventive genius.

It is the first time that the progress of moving pictures is shown in a thoroughly complete and instructive manner.

In the historic departments are shown the primitive devices made of wood from which sixty feet of film were rolled by hand twenty years ago and which were regarded as the wonder of the century by the people all over the earth. And the cheapest of these instruments in those days, cost $1,000.

The letters were turned over to Handwriting Expert, Kytkin, who, after an investigation, declared that they had been written by Powers. None of them was signed by Powers, but all are said to have been of a most objectionable character.

How to Brown Hair Without Detection

Mrs. Potter's Walnut-Tint Hair Stain Can Be Applied in a Few Minutes Every Month.

There is a way of staining gray, faded or discolored hair and shade desired, from a beautiful rich brown to almost black, so that it is difficult to tell the difference. Even experts in detecting the hair have been fooled in any way.

This preparation has the tremendous advantage over hair dyes of containing no arsenic, mercury, lead or other poisonous substances which cause hair-falling. It has no odor, no oil, no sediment and no grease and does not rub off on the clothing. It makes the hair grow out fluffy and thick.

A liberal amount as a laboratory trial package of this Walnut-Tint Hair Stain, together with a booklet on hair, is sent to Mrs. Potter's Walnut-Tint Hair Stain Co., 1225 Market Street, San Francisco. This is a free trial package. If you will send 25 cents in stamps or coin, and if it is desired to continue the treatment, full-sized packages may be obtained at drug or department stores for one dollar a package.

It is applied in a few moments with the comb, and it stains the hair evenly from tip to root. It produces any shade desired and a beautiful rich brown to almost black.

One bottle of this Walnut-Tint Hair Stain will last a year.

MAKES REPORT ON CARRVILLE LODES

U. S. Geologist Issues Bulletin on Trinity County Gold District.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The "Gold Lodes of the Carrville District, Trinity County, California," is the subject of a brief report by D. F. MacDonald, of the United States Geological Survey, just issued as Bulletin 530-D.

In 1909 Mr. MacDonald visited the Carrville district and gathered some data on its mining geology, and a report on the gold lodes of the region was published by the Survey in Bulletin 530; but the author's baggage and notes were burned before anything on the geology of the gold lodes was written. Another visit to the region was therefore made and the results are now published. The growing economic importance of this mining district, Mr. MacDonald states, merits notice and he expresses the hope that his report will attract attention to the end that mining in general may be benefited. The total gold output of the district from 1890 to 1910 is stated to be $7,747,906.

The future prospects of the district are believed to be very good and it is thought that before long several small to moderate-sized gold properties will be put on a paying basis. Of course a branch railroad connecting with the Southern Pacific Railroad would greatly benefit the district. Such a railroad would derive income, not only from the quartz, and also from the agricultural lands in the valley bottom and from the lumber business. It is true that much of the timber within the Trinity National Forest, but the ripe product is sold off at intervals and this together with the income from private holdings makes the lumbering industry important.

A copy of the report may be obtained free upon application to the director of the Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

CONTRACTOR ACCUSED FELONY EMBEZZLEMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—Police Judge Weller this morning issued a warrant against William E. Cotnam, a contractor, on a charge of felony embezzlement. It is charged that he misappropriated the money.

WARATAHS WIN LAST GAME IN STATE

All-Americans taking the ball down the field in a dribbling rush in the first half.

AUSTRALIANS BEAT STARS, 12 TO 8

Fine Contest Is Witnessed by Large Crowd at California Field.

(By MARSHALL EVANS.)

The Australian Waratahs closed their victorious season on California soil by administering a 12 to 8 defeat to the All-American Rugby team yesterday afternoon. It was a great struggle and the finest exhibition of scientific Rugby that has ever been seen here. In this contest, as never before during their stay in California, the real Rugby abilities, the wonderful reserve force and the cool, unswerving determination of the Waratahs were displayed in their full strength.

Up to within ten minutes of the final whistle the visitors faced an apparently certain defeat. At this time, however, with the scoreboard showing a tally of 8 to 6 against them, the Australians started a series of passing rushes that began to open the eyes of the spectators, who had already counted them a beaten team. Twice they charged the goal defended by the All-Stars, but were repelled by the determined defense put up by the Californians. Then a third time, with increasing speed, the Light Blues' backfield, headed by the All-Star goal, and this time their rush, perfectly executed, proved irresistible and Carroll carried the ball over for a try and the game was won by the Waratahs, however, were apparently unsatisfied with winning by a one-point margin, and Captain Pratice placed a penalty kick squarely between the goal posts, thus increasing the lead of his team to four points.

LARGE CROWD ON HAND.

Fifty to 60,000 people crowded the stands on California field and kept up a continuous, unbroken round of applause from the time the teams came onto the field until the gun announced the end of the contest. Their cheers were distributed with unbiased favor upon the home team and visitors alike, and every brilliant play came in for its share of the enthusiasm of the spectators. The players, on their part, while fighting every inch of the way, were animated by a splendid spirit of friendly rivalry, with the result that the contest was one of the cleanest, fairest exhibitions ever played on a football field.

For the All-Americans it must be said that they deserve particular credit for the game which they put up when greatly handicapped by lack of experience as a team. Yesterday afternoon was the first time the fifteen ever went on a field together, and the victory which was theirs for more than three-fourths of the match, during which time they completely outplayed the experienced Waratahs, reflects great credit upon their individual abilities and speaks well for the proficiency which the local players have attained in the comparatively short time which Rugby has been in vogue here.

MORRIS CAPTAIN OF ALL-STARS.

Just before the start of the game the California fifteen met together and unanimously elected Morrie Morris, the veteran half-back of the University of California team, as captain of the All-Stars. Morris' choice proved a good one, for he led the team well and more than any other man served to organize the team work of the fifteen and to hold the men together in the critical stages.

A few moments before the referee's whistle sounded for the start of the big game, the Waratahs assembled in the center of the field and let loose for the last time their wild yell, which has been the mystery and delight of the rugby fans ever since the visitors arrived in this country.

The teams then lined up, and Pratice of the Waratahs kicked off. The ball traveled out of bounds, however, and the ball was brought back to the center once more and the kickoff repeated. This time the ball landed deep into American territory, where the play remained for several minutes in close proximity to the goal line. From a scrum on the Californians' one-yard line a passing rush was started by the Australians which threatened to take the ball over the line. Allen, however, intercepted a pass from Dwyer to Melbush, and promptly booted up the field. Dunbar marked the ball on the 40-yard line and Pratice attempted a placement kick at the goal. The angle was too great and the ball traveled outside of the posts.

ALL-STARS SAVE GOAL.

After the dropout following the failure at the goal the Australians once more started a passing bout, which almost resulted in a score. Dwyer was tackled near the goal line and the ball rolled over and a California forward saved by falling on it.

Again the dropout took the ball to neutral territory and again the passing of the Waratahs threatened the American goal. Walker picked from the loose and passed out to Dwyer, who was downed on the twenty-five yard line.

At this time Pratice of the All-Stars started things in favor of his team. He was nearly downed under his own goal posts with the ball in his possession, but with exceptional agility came to the rescue and he booted the ball far down the field and turned the tide in favor of the Americans.

The Waratahs were granted a free kick on their own twenty-five yard line and Pratice booted to 60. The famous Stanford fullback received neatly and returned the ball with a well placed kick found touch at the point at which the play started, on the Waratah twenty-five. A moment later the Australian forwards started a dribbling rush which took the ball past Erb, who was playing in close, and Pratice once more came to the rescue with a brilliant boot which landed in touch on the Waratah forty.

ALL-STARS SCORE.

Again the Waratahs were granted a free kick for offside play on the part of their opponents. The ball glanced off Dunbar's feet and traveled into the hands of the Californians.

gain of distance. The great dribbling power of the visitors came to the front and a single rush took the ball for fifty yards into California territory, where Noble of the American team cleverly intercepted a pass as the Australians charged. From play in the ruck which followed, Morris passed out to Pratice, who thereupon got away for the longest run of the day, carrying for sixty yards before he was downed on the Waratah ten-yard line. A scrum followed at this spot. The American forwards tried to get the ball and the Australian players, who scored. Erb converted with a well placed kick from Pratice the goal posts, thus increasing the lead of his team to four points.

For the remainder of the half, play continued almost entirely in Waratah territory. Erb at fullback was responsible for many gains by means of his accurate kicking and wonderful skill at dodging. The kick alone were not of great length, but his ability to run in among his charging opponents before booting the ball resulted in great gains of distance. Pratice, also, kept up the pace which he had set early in the contest and contributed materially toward keeping the ball near the Waratah goal.

The start of the second half was an exact continuation of the end of the first. After Erb's kickoff the All-Stars, by means of a series of crosskicks and dribbling bouts, took the ball quickly to the Waratah twenty-five. Play returned temporarily to midfield upon a boot from Fullback Dunbar of the Australians, but Noble returned with a kick which found touch on the twenty-five yard line once more. Here the Waratahs, led by Richards and Watson, dribbled fully fifty yards toward the All-Star goal, the ball finally landing on the twenty-yard line. One the lineout which followed Carroll got away with the ball and crosskicked over the American line, where Pratice averted a score by falling on the ball.

WARATAHS START ATTACK.

Apparently hopelessly behind and with the time growing short the Waratahs put on all speed and started a concerted attack on the All-Star goal line. They first dribbled the entire length of the field, where Erb temporarily came to the rescue with a kick to midfield. Here King dribbled past Dunbar, and McKim, following up fast, downed Melbush on the two-yard line in front of the Waratah goal. A score seemed imminent, but the Waratahs backed managed to take the ball to the center of the field.

Here a dribbling rush, followed by a dual passing bout, Dwyer to Adamson, resulted in Australia's first tally, and the score stood 8 to 3. The Waratahs, however, were better at every stride and another score followed the first in quick succession. Pratice failed to convert either. Score: America 8, Australia 6.

Shortly afterward a wonderful passing rush which started on the All-Star thirty-five carried the ball to the two-yard line at the opposite end of the field. The All-Stars next put up a splendid defense and gradually forced the play back to midfield.

Twice in quick succession the Waratah backs started passing rushes toward the American goal, but the work of the defending backs prevented the ball from going over. A third such proved irresistible, however, and the combined efforts of Dwyer, Pratice and Carroll brought a victory to the visitors in the last two minutes of play. Just before the final whistle a free kick was granted to the Australians and Pratice booted over, making the final score 12 to 8.

WARATAHS DEPART FOR NORTH.

Immediately after the close of the contest the Waratahs hurried for the local trains and took their departure for San Francisco.

The steamer for Vancouver. They left the training quarters on the Berkeley campus in a bus, which conveyed them to the train, accompanied by a large band of local California rooters, who gave them a royal send-off.

The two teams lined up yesterday as follows:

Australia—Edwards, Watson, Griffin, George, Eason, Dugh, Richards, Murphy and Kent.

Waratahs—Morris, Adamson, McKim, Dwyer, Carroll, Pratice, Erb, and Melbush.

Fullback—Dunbar.

Amateur—Peters, Art, McKim, Ben

GUNMEN READY TO HEAR THEIR FATE

Both Sides Are Proclaiming Victory as If Trial Is Election Event.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—With the last shreds of evidence, both for and against the gunmen charged with the murder of Herman Rosenthal, laid before the jury, Justice Goff adjourned court at 1:20 o'clock this afternoon until 10:30 o'clock Monday morning, when Attorney Wahl will begin his summing up for the defense.

Three hours have been allotted him for this purpose. Assistant District Attorney Moss will take the same time, beginning at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. Justice Goff will deliver his charge, Tuesday morning. By nightfall Tuesday, if not earlier, the gunmen will know their fate.

Like campaign managers on the eve of an election both sides were confidently proclaiming victory this afternoon. The four defendants, serene in the belief that they have demonstrated their innocence at least on the charge of the Rosenthal murder, left the courtroom with their guard, laughing loudly over a cartoon which represented them as unsophisticated farmers being shown about New York by a guard in the person of Jack Rose.

DISAGREEMENT ONLY HOPE.

Upon the part of those who have followed the trial throughout, a disagreement of the jury is the outside limit to the hopes of the accused men. They have told a remarkable story of the events of the early morning of July 16, which, though it was not broken down by the State, will be lacking in serious confirmation by any witnesses aside from those directly interested in the verdict which the jury will render. The issue in the final analysis, therefore, narrows down to a question of veracity when Jack Rose, Bridget Webber, Harry Valon and Sam Schepps on one side and Lefty Louie, Whitey Lewis and Dago Frank on the other. The group led by Jack Rose say the gunmen did the shooting. The gunmen, on the other hand, say that Rose and his crowd are the guilty persons.

CHAUFFEUR IN FRONT.

In the situation one outside witness stands up, William Shapiro, chauffeur of the murder car which carried the assassins to and from the Metropole the night of the shooting. Upon the testimony of Shapiro may ultimately depend the fate of the four men who represent and typify gang rule in New York. Shapiro, in response to the pleadings of his mother, made a full confession to District Attorney Whitman.

He identified all the four gunmen as the Rosenthal murderers and furnished the connecting link between Becker and Rose, through to "Gyp" and his gang. As the car shot away after the murder he swears he heard them say:

"Everything is all right. There was not a cop around. Becker fixed it, as he said he would."

Save for the stories of the gunmen, Shapiro's testimony has not been refuted.

PINK SALMON PACKERS COMPLAIN

PORTLAND, Nov. 16.—An unusual situation exists in the canned salmon market, particularly as concerns pink salmon. It is by no means satisfactory to the pink salmon packers, but they see signs on the horizon of a change for the better. For years it has been customary for these packers to sell their output at prices with the making of which they laid little regard. The real salmon packers have been in the habit of making the opening price on pink as well as red fish. The pink salmon canners declare emphatically that 65c is an entirely unreasonable and unprofitable quotation. They are now fighting for 70c, 75c, 80c, 85c, 90c, 95c, 1.00, 1.05, 1.10, 1.15, 1.20, 1.25, 1.30, 1.35, 1.40, 1.45, 1.50, 1.55, 1.60, 1.65, 1.70, 1.75, 1.80, 1.85, 1.90, 1.95, 2.00, 2.05, 2.10, 2.15, STOUT WOMAN, LIST, O LIST TO MAURINE ACTRESS WOOS MORPHEUS; DOESN'T DIET

MISS MAURINE RASMUSSEN, who has mastered the difficult art of maintaining a slender figure.

'How Much I Weigh and Why,' Is the Question Answered by Former Fisher Model

"Every time one of you newspapermen interview me you ask sooner or later how much I weigh, and how I do it," declared Miss Maurine Rasmussen, famous former Harrison Fisher model and member of Gaby Deslys' first American company, yesterday. "Slenderness and how to obtain it must certainly be of some interest to your readers."

The newspaperman acquiesced. "Well, recently I have been trying to formulate my own system in words," Miss Rasmussen continued, "and if you will kindly sit back there, nice and quiet for a time and lend me some of your copy paper, I'll write down what I have thought of."

The newspaperman, who delights in sitting nice and quiet, but seldom finds the opportunity, obeyed with a sigh of happiness. This is what she wrote:

(By MAURINE RASMUSSEN.)
In the first place, I am five feet eight inches tall. In the second, I weigh an even 110 pounds. In the third, I do not diet. That last I'd put in capital letters but I don't know how to make them. It's the really important part of my system, however, and it ought to be capitalized, if it isn't. It is more important than whether I walk most or ride most, and I'll say right here that I ride in preference to walking every chance I get—and there are certain vehicles I enjoy riding in more than street cars and trains.

I've never believed in short hours of sleep. When I'm on the road with a theatrical company I rise somewhere about noon, which gives me time for preparation for matinee. For breakfast I usually have—
Took. Then at six o'clock or thereabouts I have supper, and it usually consists of a salad, a sandwich and a glass of milk. My biggest meal comes in the evening after the show, and it varies like those of most people. I have salad again and almost always a steak, with vegetables. And, even at this meal, I don't forget my glass of hot milk.

LEAVES OUT WATER.
I do not indulge in pastries or desserts of any kind. Those things are the real fatteners. Sugar takes the place of most pastries than any other article of food I know of. But my leaving it out is not by any means a matter of diet. I simply don't care for it and I'm glad I don't. For, even if I did, I'd leave it out. I very seldom take a glass of water, either at meal time or any other.

There is one feature of my diet that would certainly surprise any of my many feminine friends who are trying to become or remain slender. Every chance I get I have my food cooked in olive oil. I just love it that way. If in the face of my 110 pounds and five feet eight inches, this isn't believed in, for any one who thinks me a Mother I never miss a glass of two or three of milk every day, and even that doesn't add pounds. It seems to me this whole problem of reducing reduces itself to one apparent truth. Be content with what you are. Make the styles become you; don't try to make yourself become the styles. I should certainly rather weigh twenty pounds more than I do than think it necessary to weigh twenty pounds less and make myself pallid and half-died and tired out all the time by getting to that figure. If you are stout, don't wear panniers; if you are slender, do. Dress your hair to fit the contour of your face. Wear the kind of hat that fits, too. That's the solution of the whole problem. In short, do not try to ape other's fashions if they are not adapted to you.

I remember hearing of one girl recently who devoted many weary months to reducing her weight from 140 to 110 pounds. She succeeded, too, for you can succeed in most things, if you see your mind upon them. Of course she was delighted. Then, one day, after walking less than ten miles or so on toast and tea, she fainted. The doctor prescribed food and lots of it, and the prescription brought back the normal health she had been without for some time. It brought weight, too, but she had learned the lesson I have been trying here to teach.

For myself, olive oil and hot milk are the things I want and need and am going to have. I advise them for others who want them. At any rate, I advise such diet as one's system needs—and a rational mode of dressing to compensate for its results. Only, I have a wee bit of prejudice against too many sweet things.

MYSTERY IN AD. MEN'S PROGRAM

Chicago Man to Deliver the Luncheon Address, But How, Is Question.

Intense curiosity is rife among the members of the Oakland Advertising Association, and their invited guests, in regard to the program to be given next Tuesday at their luncheon at the Forum cafe.

The program committee in charge, with Lee Bertillon as chairman, has promised to have Julius Schneider, a famous advertising expert, and counsel for the Chicago Tribune, talk personally from Chicago to the gathering at the luncheon. How he is to accomplish it is what all the mystery is about.

All Bertillon will say is that he will deliver the goods over an electric apparatus recently discovered and not yet introduced to the commercial world.

The subject, "The Emancipation of the Retail Advertising Manager," is of vital interest to every merchant who has the development of his business at heart and a large audience will listen to Schneider's discourse on this topic. Managers of department organizations will also be keenly interested in the talk to be given by D. H. Steele of S. N. Wood Co. on "Departments Store Publicity."

Any local merchants wishing to attend this luncheon will be enabled to secure reservations by telephoning Lee Bertillon before Monday evening at 6 o'clock.

OFFICIAL SEEKING GRAND JURY PROBE

Arrest of Los Angeles Officer Leads to Investigation of Action.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—District Attorney Fredericks said today he would order a grand jury investigation of the arrest of P. L. Lloyd, a former special officer and chief witness against Guy Edd, suspended policeman, who was taken into custody Thursday night at the instance of George Baker Anderson, secretary to Mayor Alexander.
This announcement was made after Acting City Prosecutor Ray Nichols had refused to issue, at Lloyd's request, a warrant charging Anderson, Deputy City Prosecutor F. M. Choate and Cecil Nicholson with conspiracy to defame the special officer.
Nicholson is the man who paid Lloyd a marked $20 gold piece and afterward declared that the money was for services rendered by Lloyd, who at the time was no longer a member of the police force. Nicholson left the city last night.

CHIEF'S SENSATION.
The arrest of Lloyd, in the midst of preparations for the trial of Edd, the former censor of public morals, on the charge of having contributed to the dependency of a minor girl, has created a municipal sensation. Demands have been made for the resignation of Anderson and Choate, who are alleged to have acted without the knowledge of the Mayor or Chief of Police Sebastian.
But Mayor Alexander said he had not considered this phase of the case and would not do so until he completed his own investigation.

FINDS ATTORNEY IS A VALUABLE AID

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—A session of Police Judge Weller this morning in dismissing the charges against Charles Hamilton, accused of violating the gambling laws and who runs a poolroom on Stevenson street, Moral. If you want to go to jail, dispense with the services of an attorney. If you would keep out of jail, hire a lawyer.
Hamilton was determined to represent himself when his case was called recently and was promptly found guilty. He then retained the services of Attorney John J. Grover, who acted in his behalf, and was acquitted. The court on turning the evidence once more decided that Hamilton was not guilty and today he was discharged.

U. S. WANTS RARE VOLUME GIFTS

Old and Valued Textbooks Are Needed for Government Collection.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The government wants gifts of old or rare textbooks—at least, the government Bureau of Education does. Government bureaus are so in the habit of giving away documents instead of collecting them that a request like this warrants attention.

The point is that the United States Bureau of Education is endeavoring to get together the finest possible collection of textbooks in English, French, German, Spanish, Italian, Scandinavian, Dutch and Greek languages published within the last two centuries and hopes that possibly some of the many educators and investigators who have been recipients of the government's bounty by receiving valuable documents in the past may wish to contribute to the collection. The collection now with an occasional textbook of bygone days. An antiquated spelling or a dusty Xenophon may be just the book needed to fill an important gap in textbook history. The Library of Congress is aiding in the task, and the bureau would appreciate gifts from individuals as well. "When this library is complete," says Commissioner Clayton, "it should become the Mecca of all students of this phase of education."

In the meantime, the Bureau continues to be generous in its opportunities to investigators. It now has one of the largest and most complete libraries of education in the world, containing about 70,000 bound volumes and 80,000 or more reports, pamphlets, and periodicals. Almost any of these books can be obtained in or through the Bureau of Education, either through the local library or directly from the Bureau of Education, under certain conditions. Requests should be made to the library.

Another important assistance rendered by the Bureau is to commissions investigating particular phases of education. Without cost other than that of coming to Washington, representatives of the Bureau may find practically everything that is new in print in pamphlets, books or magazines, quickly accomplishing in a few days what would otherwise take months. The Bureau of Education will find every aid and encouragement given them by those in charge.

GOVERNOR'S SON
MADE BIG BETS ON
CALIFORNIA'S BALLOT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—That most luxurious feature of club life in the West, if not in the whole land, the Pompeian pool of the Pacific Union Club, with its cool, clear and inviting waters, like a great big piece of crystal in a setting of vari-colored marble, has a story connected with it which has never been published.

It was christened by Mr. ———, a prominent Easterner, who is dignity personified, without the accompaniment of any formal program and applause. The tale was told last evening by one who attended the impromptu affair, he recalling it because the gentleman from the East is again a guest at the club. A couple of nights after the institution was opened for members, about two years ago, this visitor was one of a select party at a dinner. The chef and the guardian at the gates of the wine cellar had had carte blanche to make the repast a notable one in the eating and drinking line. They obeyed orders, for the man who footed the bill, including decorations and orchestra, paid $700. Seventeen were at the table. It was a merry feast, some hours being crowded and jammed into one very gay evening. The health of everybody was drunk a dozen times, the climax being reached when club and Pompeian pool were remembered and made things of joy in several bumpers of the laughing water. The visitor late in the festivities desired to see the pool. He was conducted there in halting gait by chummy loiterers on pleasure's pathway. In the darkness nothing could be seen. Presto, change! The lights were turned ablaze and at his feet he saw the alluring pool, with reflected shadows of himself and party in the still, glassy waters. The reflections appeared to be in a mad whirl, coming towards him. A second later he was floundering in the pool, dress suit, diamond stud and all.

A case of kerplunk it certainly was. There were yells of alarm from the other banqueters as they made ineffectual efforts to haul their companion out. A servant finally plunged in and saved the occasion from anything worse than ruined clothes and rebelling food. This first bather in the pool had to be put to bed, for a bath after such a feast played havoc with his stomach. The next day he insisted he had purposely jumped in to christen the thing of beauty. And all those present have ever since accepted his explanation, thinking—if only in a pianissimo way—it a most happy aftermath of the dinner that he should have so considerably decided to christen the pool on the spur of the moment, cleverly having it a surprising and howling climax of a night of fun.

Beer Not Drink for Him

Those two presiding geniuses of the Palace hotel bar, A. Christiansen, manager, and George Supf, star harman, were jarred from their equilibrium last Thursday afternoon by a former servant of millionaire town, Hillsborough, who, both in dress and manner, was decidedly negligee. He had walked up from that region of social contrasts, headed for Oakland. He lacked the necessary ten cents for the bay transfer, but his latent diplomacy coming to the surface, pointed him the way to get it. Boldly walking into the bar, he asked the manager for the money, saying at the same time that he had worked for the Tobins, Crockers, Martins and Carolans and had often heard them speak in a friendly and familiar way about him. This caused Christiansen to take notice, for this son of Sweden, who came to San Francisco by way of Seattle to bask in the favor of the Palace owners, likes his name to be mentioned in the seats of the financially and socially mighty.

"Chris" gave the fellow the ten cents and also ordered Supf to give him a drink.

"I'll take a posse cafe in colors," he quickly said to the barman. "I always take that decorated beverage when I can get it."

"You'll take beer," replied Supf, who is still Teuton enough after years with Uncle Sam to hate the labor of mixing that or any other French concoction.

"Well, I never heard your name mentioned at Hillsborough and I guess you're not classy enough to wait on me," sneered the hobo in the making as swearing he walked out of the place, leaving the barman breaking off his words in the middle in the confusion of angry surprise.

He Meant Well, But—

Edward Rainey, Mayor Rolph's secretary, always sees things from the optimistic point of view and it comes natural to him to give cheerful greetings and express the best wishes to one and all he comes in contact with. "Was always so with Rainey and not simply since he has become a member of the reigning political house in San Francisco. The other day he had occasion to pay a visit to the almshouse on behalf of the mayor. To his kindly and yet critical eye matters appeared to be in good shape at the institution housing so many of both sexes to whom years and life have left nothing. The superintendent urged Rainey to make a brief talk to the assembled old folks. He did so. Mr. Secretary waxed warm in language eloquent as he proceeded, finally ending with the well-meaning peroration: "In closing, I wish you all long life and continued prosperity."

O'Grady Will Not Be Reappointed

At the end of this year Police Commissioner O'Grady's term expires, he having been appointed to fill a vacancy during the term of Mayor McCarthy. He will not be reappointed. But O'Grady has done very well as an office-holder, thank you, for he is the only commissioner in the city government who ever got back after having once been "fired." The Schmitz-Ruef regime shortly after the fire let him out as a police commissioner for an alleged scheme to go into the glassware business with Poheim, also a member of the same board, and seek the saloons as customers. High political morality, however, did not prompt Schmitz and Ruef in their action. Rolph already has three good men on the police board in the persons of James Wood, Jessie Cook and Attorney Roche. He is on the lookout for a fourth excellent commissioner and is said to view with favor Will Levings, a newspaper man formerly with the Examiner. Levings is strongly endorsed. He was a member of the police department at one time, having been a valued man in the office of Chief Lees. Refusing to serve under Wittman, when the latter became chief, Levings resigned. He has long been a student of police methods and regulations and his friends think he would be an ideal commissioner.

Owes His Position to Sproule

B. D. Caldwell of New York, the president of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, who is at present in the city, is said to owe his position to William Sproule, the Southern Pacific's president, whom he succeeded. Lloyd Tevis, Valentine and Colonel Evans, who had long terms as chief of the express company, were in its employ for years before they got to the top. Sproule and Caldwell came from the outside to the presidency of the company. Sproule showed such executive grasp of its business, also handling firmly and successfully shortly after he went in a big strike the company had in New York, that the people in control were loath to part with him when he decided to come to San Francisco for the Southern Pacific. They paid him the compliment of asking whom he could and would recommend to succeed him. He promptly mentioned Caldwell's name and gave his reasons for suggesting him. The next day Caldwell, who was then a successful railroad vice-president in the East, was sent for and offered the place at a good, big salary. He accepted the position within forty-eight hours and is represented as being the right man in the right place. Like Sproule, Caldwell is a quick, hard worker, a master of detail and is a firm believer in civility and politeness as a working asset for any man, high or low, who works for a corporation and has to deal with the public. Also like Sproule when he was with the company, Caldwell is frank in stating that he is ably seconded in his work by its many competent officials, one of the strongest of whom is Vice-President and General Manager A. Christeson of this city.

Sugar Raising in Philippines

John M. Switzer of Manila, who is at present in town, has succeeded in interesting some prominent San Francisco capitalists in a big sugar plantation with him in the Philippines. They include the Sutro family, Herbert and Mortimer Fleishacker and the Ehrmans. A good many thousands of dollars are to be put into the scheme for land and machinery. The land has already been acquired and is said to be of such size that it will make from the start a 20,000-acre sugar plantation. Switzer, who is an experienced grower, claims that the quality of sugar that can be raised in the Philippine archipelago is the equal of any in the world. The industry had a good foothold in the islands years ago but the rebellion against Spain and the Filipino insurrection against American occupation ruined it to a great extent. In the last year or two it has taken a fresh start. English and other foreign capital is now going into the business there. Switzer's enterprise is the first big one that has enlisted American money. His plantation, while a large one at the start, promises still larger growth in a few years, for he is assured all the money he needs from this city.

"Handsome Bob" Back Again

Robert McCracken, the fiancee of the talented and chic Mrs. Hope Cheney Havens, is in town once more after a long visit in the Pacific Northwest. "Handsome Bob," as he is called by his chums, is one of the tallest and most athletic of men. He is mum on the subject of the date of his wedding with the pretty young woman, and she is equally as secretive with her chums and friends. McCracken is a scion of an Oregon family that has long dominated the society of Portland. His mother has been a leader of the best social circles in that part of the Pacific Coast for many years, and still takes an active interest in social and other affairs. It is said of Mrs. McCracken that she was the third white woman born in Oregon. Oregon City, then a little hamlet, was her birthplace. She is understood to have kept a diary of interesting events and about many prominent people of both sexes for half a century. Her children and friends often read it and find it as entertaining as a good novel. She knows her Portland and its people as none other living person.

Often a visitor to this city, Mrs. McCracken is always pleased when starting back to her Portland home and old associations. One of her married daughters is a leader in the society of Tacoma.

At the Gates of Constantinople

With the Bulgarians and their allies storming at the gates of Constantinople, it is interesting and timely to read the late General Lew Wallace's "Prince of India," for it tells in graphic manner the assault on and capture of the great city by the Golden Horn in the middle of the fifteenth century by Mohammed when Constantine was emperor. Copies of this book, I understand, were taken along with them to read on their long journey by some of the local Bulgarians, Servians and Greeks who recently departed for the scene of the war.

As the Mohammedan hordes invested the city for a final successful assault, the author says in part: "Ere long footmen and horsemen were in view and the Byzantines, brought to the wall by thousands, gazed and listened in nervous wonder; for look where they might over the company, they saw the enemy closing in upon them, and heard his shouting, and the neighing of horses, the blaring of horns, and the palpitant beating of drums.

"By our Lady of Blacherne," said the Emperor, after a long study of the spectacle, "it is a great multitude, reaching to the sea here on our left, and, from the noise, to the Golden Horn on our right; none the less I am disappointed. I imagined much splendor of harness and shields and banners, but see only blackness and dust. I cannot make out amongst them one Sultanic flag. Tell me, most worthy John Grant—it being reported that thou hast great experience combating with and against these hordes—tell me if this poverty of appearance is usual with them?"

"The sturdy German, in a jargon difficult to follow, answered: 'These at our left are the scum of Asia. * * * The ghouls will look better next week. Only give them time to convert the clothes they will strip from the dead into fresh turbans. But when the Janissaries come, your majesty will not be disappointed. See—their advance guard now—there on the rising ground in front of the gate.'

" * * * Detachments dashed forward at full speed, and dismounting, began digging a trench. "Be this Sultan like or unlike his father, he is a soldier. He means to cover his army, and at the same time enclose us from sea to harbor. Tomorrow, my lord, only high-flying hawks can communicate with us from the outside."

Did It Cost Kent $150,000?

Congressman Kent is, of course, very jubilant over his re-election. It cost him a pretty penny to make this successful fight against his main antagonists, Hart and Zumwalt. Some allege his expenses, including the getting of his name on the ballot by petition, ran up to over $75,000. His two campaigns for Congress are generally supposed to have cost him $150,000. But does he care for this outlay? No, sir-ee. Kent is a very rich man and can afford such political luxuries. He had a lot of speakers in the field for him, and rent of halls and auto hire quickly ran up into big bills. Kent knew he had a hard fight but it did not frustrate him a bit. He was as provocatively cool and as blunt in his talk as in the times when he was a Chicago alderman and hurled his moral denunciations at the head of Alderman "Johnny" Powers and his following. I said a minute ago that Kent is a wealthy man. As a matter of fact he is rich enough so as to don't care about the style of his hat and the combing of his hair. His friends still poke fun at his old felt hat of three seasons ago. Even he laughs with them about a photograph taken of himself in the East which he discarded in the late campaign. It did not look like him at all. Come to find out the reason was that just before going to the gallery to hear the command, "Now look pleasant," he had had his hair carefully combed.

Big Bets by Young Johnson

Archie Johnson, one of the sons of Governor Johnson, did a lot of betting on the State going for Roosevelt and his father at the St. Francis night of the election even after the earlier returns had a discouraging look. He was wagering $1000 to $500 and $1000 to $750. He bet some $8000 in this way. What he had bet before election day is not known. It was not his own money and report has it that he was a commissioner in placing bets for Southern California people, one of whom, it is alleged, was Meyer Lissner. One of the persons at the St. Francis election night he wanted to bet $1000 to $750 with was Charles Sutro, the financial broker. Sutro took him up quickly. Johnson desired to make a second bet of the same character with him.

"The way the returns are coming in, Archie," replied Sutro, "I think you are throwing your money away. I will bet with anybody else, but I don't want to take what looks like a cinch against you."

"I can take care of myself," laughed Archie. "Do you want a second bet?"

"Not from you, Archie," was the response. Johnson placed it elsewhere. Sutro made bets with others, and this money, at this writing, he probably loses. He comes out more than even, however, for early in the campaign he made some good bets that Roosevelt would not have 20,000 more votes than Wilson.

Much Money Wagered on Election

Frank Daroux, Corbett of the poolrooms and other gamblers, together with men about town, habitués of the Palace and St. Francis, estimate that $200,000 changed hands in San Francisco on the result of the election for President and superior judges. They say half a dozen bets were made of $1000 to $250 that Roosevelt would not be elected President. At this wagering of 4 to 1 against Teddy's chances, some of his admirers thought the short end a very good bet. Three of these bets were made at the Palace. Even money that Roosevelt would not get 20,000 more votes in California than Wilson caused widespread betting. Phelan and a lot of other rich Democrats, together with many wealthy Taft Republicans, made such wagers a week or ten days before the election. One known large bet of this kind was $15,000 made by a local Taft Republican banker with a rabid Roosevelt man from Los Angeles. Much money was put up the night of the election and the following day when the returns greatly favored Wilson in the State. Some, who at this time favored Wilson, later on succeeded in betting the other way in order to protect themselves as they thought. Considerable money was placed that Lawlor would not be re-elected superior judge, the wise ones thinking Graham, Coffey and Shortall were safe, as indicated by the primary vote, and that Mogan would at least nose out Lawlor. Others accepted bets at even money that all four incumbent judges would not be re-elected. Shortall's admirers bet aplenty on his chances, for his primary showing was fine. He was not true to form, however. Mogan's spurt was astonishing to many. He ran fast the last ten days of the campaign, while Shortall lost during the same period. A strong fight was made against Lawlor and it is no doubt true that the woman vote saved him.

HOW POMPEIAN

The Defeat of Needham

Congressman Needham's defeat after many terms at Washington from the San Joaquin country resembles in several respects the defeat some years ago of Loud of this city in the old Fifth District by Wynne. Loud had been in Congress for a number of terms, some six or seven, and was considered to have a cinch on the district, which at that time comprised San Mateo and Santa Clara counties and a part of San Francisco. Up until the time of Wynne nobody, however strong in the opposition ranks, had a show against Loud. A coalition of Union Labor people and Democrats, Wynne being Labor Union, enabled the latter to defeat the former. Wynne at the time was little known in San Mateo and Santa Clara counties. Needham's successful opponent, Church, owes his election to a combination of Democrats and the Bull Moose following, the Roosevelt people considering Needham an offensive stand-patter. With, of course, a good standing in his own county, Church nevertheless was an unknown quantity in most of the rest of the district. Needham's defeat is a distinct loss to California in the lower house. Church is far from being of the same caliber, and even some of his own party are surprised at his victory because of that fact. In the national capital, Representative and Mrs. Needham have a home in Woodley Place, a residence which they purchased about two years ago and which is furnished artistically and comfortably. The place commands a fine view of the National Park and an open vista of the rolling ground of the "Zoo" and the dignified expanse of the Connecticut avenue bridge. Here Needham and his charming wife always greeted Californians with a fine hospitality and here the Representative did much of the work his position and long experience in Congress thrust upon him. They were always at their Modesto home during the summer and fall months. Needham has several doubles in the East, whom he frequently heard of before he met them. They were supposed to be omens of good luck for him when they met him by accident. One of his friends laughingly remarked yesterday that it was a pity one or more of them had not strayed into the San Joaquin country a week before election, for as a lucky omen they might have put Needham under the wire a winner by half a nose.

Man Who Defeated Joe Cannon

Frank T. O'Hair, the Illinois lawyer and Democrat who defeated "Uncle Joe" Cannon for Congress in the Eighteenth District, was in San Francisco in the early spring taking some depositions before a notary public under a commission from Governor Deneen, and remained here about three weeks. This is the second time former Speaker of the House Cannon has been defeated in a career of forty years in Congress. While on the coast O'Hair told a relative in town, Charles P. Moulton, the merchant, that the Democrats of the district wanted him to make a contest against the old veteran. He said he did not feel like entering the fight because of its uphill character, Cannon being a formidable opponent and strong personality in his part of the State. Besides, the district had been formed just to suit Cannon, with strong Republican counties at one end and small Democratic counties at the other. According to Mr. Moulton, his relative quickly jumped into the fight when the Progressive Republicans split the party in two in Illinois as well as elsewhere in the country and nominated a man to run against Cannon for the Republican votes of the district. But even at that Uncle Joe made a great fight, for Moulton's telegram from O'Hair three days after the election was to the effect that he just managed to win out in the three-cornered fight with 260 plurality. In making his fight, O'Hair is said to have gone through the country districts with horse and buggy meeting personally hundreds of voters on their farms and in their stores and shops. He is also credited with being a fine speaker. In a long, personal canvass for votes, O'Hair took a leaf from the experience of an uncle in Indiana, General Hunter, a Republican, who once beat in that way by a small margin the redoubtable Dan Voorhees, the "tall Sycamore of the Wabash" on his own stamping ground.

Japanese Official in Sore Distress

Tautomu Funamoto of Tokio, an official in the forestry department of the Japanese Government who was at the Fairmont hotel the other day on his way home, indulged in strong verbal fireworks because some of the Eastern papers had represented him in an interview as saying that his government is encouraging the importation and consumption of beef as a means of increasing the average height of the people, an aim and an end very dear to all Japanese. Funamoto, crying and hurling anathemas at that American institution, the press interviewer, denied ever entertaining or expressing such a thought, not having the least idea of the relation between beef eating and physical stature. What seemed to worry him a great deal was the fear of reprimand on his return home from his superior officials for indulging in American newspaper talk over a subject he knew nothing about, or had anything to do with. Judging by what he said, the Japanese Government holds its officials, high or low, to strict accountability for statements they make in a public manner while abroad. The dapper and intelligent subject of the Mikado did say, however, that he knew of no large departure by the people of his country from their usual kinds of food, like rice and fish. The squatting habit of the people for centuries, experts held, he said, had something to do with their small stature. Chairs were therefore coming into use more and more and indoor sports, such as playing of billiards, which has become a great pastime in Japan.

Purchase of Cervantes House

Archer M. Huntington, whom a cablegram from Paris in last Sunday's papers stated has purchased the house of Cervantes, the immortal author of "Don Quixote," is an adopted son of the late C. P. Huntington and the son of Huntington's second wife and present widow by her first husband, a Virginia doctor. The magnate never had any children of his own. He raised the Princess Hatzfeldt of London, born a Prentice in Sacramento and a niece of his first wife. She took his name and it is always a mystery why he did not make her an adopted daughter. Archer Huntington has always preferred the life of a student and long before he died his foster father gave up reluctantly his desire to make the then young man a banker or railroad magnate. The adopted son is a profound student of Spanish literature and art, having also written on those subjects. He is the leader of the Hispanic Society of America and has built a museum for it in New York City, near the Riverside drive. The Spanish painters, Sorolla and Zuloaga, are his intimate friends and he is a liberal patron of theirs. His wife, who was a Miss Helen M. Gates, has appeared in the magazines with short stories, signing herself Helen Huntington. With his mother, Archer Huntington gave liberally to the fund for the new building of the American Geographical Society in New York City, which was recently dedicated.

Great Is Fall of Scotty

How the once notoriety seeker and lover, "Death Valley Scotty," has been humbled! He will eat out of anybody's hand now. He has become a good dog for the Los Angeles prosecuting officers, and swore on the stand the other day that the story he had been paid $25,000 by a syndicate for the secret of his mysterious mining claims was a fake, that he had no secret rich mines on the edge of Death Valley and that the tale was one intended to hoodwink the public into buying shares of stock. He said he got a couple of hundred dollars to say that a man named Goodin had paid him the $25,000. Scotty was testifying against Goodin in a criminal prosecution. Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles "fell hard" for Scotty about ten years ago as a rich miner with a secret gold mine. New York would have none of him. He wasn't a white chip alongside of the spenders there. His $5000 special train from Los Angeles to Chicago over the Santa Fe, when it broke the record for a long-distance run, was his star performance. It did not cost him a cent. It was a clever railroad advertising scheme on the part of J. J. Byrne of the Santa Fe at Los Angeles. By means of it, Scotty "arrived" for awhile. He was a good actor, too, for a long time. He went far on but little money. He splashed here on several occasions as a rich miner, reserving rooms at both the Palace and St. Francis the same day and giving $5 tips to bellhops. One who knows the fellow says he spent savings of about $4000 after getting into print and liking the sensation, and has not been any good to himself or anybody else since then. The Los Angeles authorities have finally made an end of him and his mysterious mine in the Death Valley country.

Sad End of Colonel Trumbo

Colonel Isaac Trumbo's death recalls to many of the older San Franciscans the sad contrast between his life of the past three or four years and what it was in 1870. It was at the latter time that he nearly became United States Senator from Utah, with the Mormon Church behind him. Those were the days he maintained fine residences both in this city and Salt Lake, and was widely known and popular in Washington. The day before the automobile he maintained here one of the costliest carriage outfits, with driver and footman. Friend or beggar had ready access to his pocketbook. These loans to friends of those times were in several notable cases still due him in his time of adversity. He never asked for their repayment and the ones who owed and could repay refused to do so and studiously avoided him. On the other hand, he played wrong with some men when on Easy street, making them for good cause enemies for life. These were the men who could have done good for him when he needed a helping financial uplift. The question was often asked by the curious during the past few years why certain people in the Mormon hierarchy did not save him from bankruptcy and poverty in view of former close associations. They would have done so had they not found him at one time recreant to a trust they had placed in him. On another occasion the colonel deliberately spoiled a million-dollar mining deal for some local friends, double-crossing them in the hope of eventually swinging the proposition himself. He never made a cent by his action, while they later on did sell but for a much less sum. But this is not the time to dwell on these things. They are simply mentioned to explain that once powerful friends threw him aside for sufficient reason long before he went down the toboggan of business and social life. He had passed out of their lives, and they could not be expected years later to rush to his succor in his hour of weakness and dire extremity. There was much of sunshine and darkness, with some charming romance, in this life that has just gone out.

Moses Collins, Trumbo's faithful colored valet and servant for many years, is now the usher in the office of Mayor Rolph.

But He Got Real Pictures

Former Senator W. A. Clark of Montana, who is in the southern part of the State at present on business, must have read with mingled feelings the cablegram from London on November 7 of how Sir George Donaldson had made large profits from selling him two pictures. A picture by Turner, Sir George paid $30,000 for, he sold to the Senator for $75,000, while a seascape by Jan Van Goyen bought for $2000 he sold to Clark for $25,000. These revelations came out in a suit in court. The Senator got genuine pictures, however. That is some consolation for so extensive an art collector as he is. Probably, like Morgan and other American collectors of foreign art, he has at times paid large sums for things that were not the real article represented. And then Clark can afford an extra few thousands so long as he is getting what he is after. Sir George's profits out of the Montana man are a mere bagatelle when it is remembered that his New York mansion cost seven million to build and six millions to furnish. With a few strokes of the pen, he gave a million to his first grandson, W. A. Clark III, now a schoolboy in Los Angeles. Clark always does, and can readily do, things on a large scale. I remember the last time he was here in his new private car. It is the latest word in that line in the world, costing a fortune. Its dining room is finished in beautiful vermilion wood from Asia. In its living room there are the finest of oak panels. "This wood," he lovingly pointed to and explained at that time, "was 1200 years ago an oak growing in Sherwood forest. A skillful authority determined its age for me.

Doubtless Robin Hood and his merry men knew the shade of this tree, and momentous history was made during its life, within its sweep."

The Pullman people will never again in this generation at least get so costly an order for a private palace on wheels.

Beautiful Bride at Palace

Captain and Mrs. Herman Glade, U. S. A., are spending their honeymoon in town and the bride is one of the most beautiful women who has been a Palace guest in a long time. With no blame attaching to her, she is one of the prominent Eastern women who came out of the Reno divorce courts. As this kind of a Renoite, she ranks with Mrs. Corey, who divorced the then steel trust president; the present Mrs. Alfred Gynne Vanderbilt, who was Mrs. Smith Hollis McKim; Mrs. Henry Spies Kip, who is now Mrs. Little; Mrs. E. B. Frost, who is now Mrs. Hamilton Wilkes Cary; the beautiful Mrs. Keith Donaldson and a dozen others who could be mentioned. Both Mr. and Mrs. Glade are wealthy in their own right. Mrs. Glade's first husband was Frederick Lewis Colwell, a New York stockbroker and clubman. He lost in speculation $150,000 of her fortune before they quarreled and parted. She is not a niece of Collis P. Huntington, as has been widely printed in the papers, and cannot understand how that report got in circulation, unless it was a hasty deduction from the fact that Huntington is her middle name. Like some of the other divorcees mentioned, Mrs. Glade dresses with rare taste and her jewels are the envy of all feminine eyes that so quickly can see them and realize what they are. People who get Reno divorces and marry again should take a tip from Mrs. Glade's second marriage ceremony. Although divorced in Nevada in 1910, eminent legal authority in New York advised her to go to the same place for her second marriage, which she did.

Pittman's Race for the Toga

Key Pittman's success in winning the preferential vote of the people of Nevada for the United States Senatorship is a keen disappointment to George Wingfield, who backed his opponent on the Republican end, Senator Massey, and, of course, a bitter pill for the latter, too, for both were confident of victory. It was a very close contest, Pittman winning with a hundred votes. One unusual feature of the fight was the importation by Pittman of a lot of detectives from a San Francisco agency to keep close watch on Wingfield and his trusted agents to see that they did not purchase votes. It is said it cost Pittman about $5000 for this detective assistance and the sleuths kept a close watch in towns like Reno, Tonopah, Carson, Winnemucca and Goldfield for a couple of weeks or more. Whether right or wrong, Pittman and his friends feared the use of a lot of money on behalf of Senator Massey from the Wingfield ample treasury. Pittman has been in Nevada less than ten years, which is another thing about his successful fight worth mentioning. Many of the old Nevadans considered him somewhat of a carpet-bagger on that account and ridiculed his pretensions. He is the first comparatively new citizen of the Sagebrush country to overcome a handicap of this kind and get one of the highest honors in the gift of the State. He is therefore some new political blood for the neighboring State over the line, and, having ability and much commendable energy, and ambition, his friends are predicting he will reflect credit on both his State and himself in the Senate. The first time Pittman ran for the Senatorship, the late Senator Nixon was seeking a re-election and beat him handily. Having got the preference vote of the people, the legislature, like is the case in Oregon, must formally name Pittman as Senator when it convenes early in 1913.

Bryce Praises Wilson's Work

The British ambassador, James Bryce, resigning just as Woodrow Wilson has become the President-elect of the United States, recalls what the former said of the latter to a well-known San Franciscan while here recently on his return to Washington from a trip to Australia. In his "American Commonwealth," Bryce has revealed a wonderful and sympathetic knowledge of the people of this country and their government. His mastery of his subject is complete, showing a wide and careful study of the best authorities in this country. In speaking of Wilson one evening to a certain man of this city, Bryce said he found his writings on American history and government a great assistance to him in preparing his work. He mentioned in particular Wilson's work on "Congressional Government—A Study of the Government by Committee." Bryce spoke of it as a standard work, remarking that it showed its author desired nothing but the correct facts, and, having once obtained them, he had set forth as a forceful and able writer. Bryce also appreciated the wholesome nonsense of Wilson as a diversion and mental rest, as revealed in some of his witty limericks, recalling in particular the one he recited to the press representatives at his summer home at Seagirt after his nomination at Baltimore, and which ran:

"As a beauty I am not a star;
There are others more handsome by far.
But my face—I don't mind it,
For I am behind it;
The people in front get the jar."

Some Gossip About the Call

Gossip in financial and newspaper circles has it that the new management of the Call, with W. W. Chapin as publisher, has a year's control of the paper with an option at the end of that time to purchase the property for $650,000, or thereabouts. Chapin is financially able to swing the deal himself and the probabilities are that he alone is concerned. Chapin has installed A. R. Fenwick as editor-in-chief, retaining Ernest Simpson as managing editor and all of the latter's able staff, including City Editor Fernback, Night Editor Tufts, Steele, the Sunday supplement editor and Cahill as editorial writer. A radical change in editorial policy towards the administration of Governor Johnson is already noticed. Phil Francis, who has been writing the editorial attacks against the Johnson regime, has resigned and returns to his former love, the Stockton Mail. Fenwick hails from Seattle as also does the new business manager, C. H. Brockhagen. Both were with Chapin on the Post-Intelligencer of that city. The two latter and Chapin are represented as having planned some vigorous team work for the next twelve months in an effort to see if the latter will be justified in closing at that time the option he has on the property.

Mrs. Cleveland and Wilson

In the Examiner of last Monday there was a dispatch from Princeton, N. Y., which set forth in part: "It is thought here also that the advent of Prof. Preston, Mrs. Cleveland's fiancé, will bring an end to the coolness that has existed between Mrs. Cleveland and the Wilson family for several years. Mrs. Cleveland and the Wilson family for several years. Mrs. Cleveland has always moved socially with the element that started the fight that finally resulted in Wilson's resignation from the presidency (Princeton University). Mrs. Cleveland is one of those who has not yet congratulated the Governor on his election to the Presidency, nor has she sent her compliments to the family."

Several people here have known for about a year that Mrs. Cleveland has in her possession a letter left her by her husband in which he severely criticized Woodrow Wilson. Mrs. Cleveland was instructed by her husband to make public use of the letter if, in her judgment, the opportunity ever arose warranting it. As a trustee of Princeton, Grover Cleveland quarreled with Wilson, its president, over features of his administration and some of his teachings to the students. They became enemies and both had their followers in the quarrel. This explains in part the telegram quoted above. Several months before the Baltimore convention nominated Wilson, Mrs. Cleveland was urged to make her husband's letter to her condemning Wilson public. She hesitated doing so, finally seeking advice on the subject from a friend in this city and President Butler of Columbia University. These two in a general way were apprized of the contents of the letter. They advised her not to make it public and she readily acquiesced in their judgment. After their joint advice, she gave an emphatic no to continued appeals to allow the letter to be printed in order to show a certain side of Wilson's character and mental make-up. Mrs. Cleveland's advisers thought there was every reason why she and the name of her dead husband should not be drawn into the fierce campaign going on last spring among the Democratic aspirants for the Baltimore nomination while realizing that her unfriendly feeling towards Wilson was perfectly justifiable.

THE KNAVE.

PAWNSHOP RATE TWO PER CENT

Establishment to be Located in This City Will Be Ably Supported.

Continued is to have a two per cent pawnshop, backed by substantial business men. It is to be managed after the plan of the Prudential Loan Society of New York, which includes among its directors and stockholders such well-known financial and philanthropists as Otto T. Brown, Cornelius Vanderbilt and Bishop Doane. It has been incorporated in New York and will have branches in Oakland and San Francisco. The Prudential Loan Society of New York, which has been in existence for many years, has a capital of $1,000,000 and a surplus of $500,000. It has a reputation for its low rate of interest and its prompt service. The new establishment in Oakland is expected to be a success.

PAWNSHOP TO PROTECT THE NEEDY AGAINST "LOAN SHARKS"

However, these schemes, owing to the lack of any one to take active hold, have never gone beyond the idea stage and the hungry men with a watch to sell, compelled to idle in at the old stand, submit meekly to the contemptuous remarks of the money lender concerning the worthlessness of the watch and finally leave it to the tender mercies of the pawnshop men at a price of from 5 to 10 per cent of its value at from 5 to 10 per cent monthly interest.

But another set of men have stepped into the breach and promise to give Oakland, San Francisco and Sacramento model pawnshops. The Pierce-Kennedy Brokerage Company, First National Bank building, San Francisco, have charge of the financing of the new company.

In speaking of the Prudential Loan Society Karl K. Kennedy, secretary of the Pierce-Kennedy Brokerage Company, today said: "We are very much gratified with the amount of subscriptions we are receiving. At the present rate I feel justified in stating that I believe we will be able to open our main office within from one month to six weeks. We are not new at this business, as we have already organized a similar company in Los Angeles, which has proven itself a wonderful success in that it has relieved conditions there and proved a financial success to its stockholders. That institution, though it only opened its doors on 2 1/2 per cent, now has approximately $100,000 loaned out and during the period of its existence has saved to open 3000 different people. It is being backed by the police department, Associated Charities, Y. M. C. A. and churches, as well as by all the leading banks and business houses. I venture to say that there is not another city on the coast where loan conditions are on as equitable a basis as they are in Los Angeles today. I do not think there is a pawnbroker or 'loan shark' in that city today who dare charge more than the legal rate, which is 2 per cent monthly. The Prudential Loan Society should do as much for Oakland and the other cities in which we plan to operate and where the conditions are even worse than they were in the southern city."

"Experience has proven that the only way in which the loan shark evil can be effectively combated is by competing with him and underbidding him as to the rate charged and by giving the man or woman, without regular banking facilities, a place where they can secure an honorable and courteous treatment as they would in any banking institution. The Prudential Loan Society is not a purely philanthropic institution. It expects to make a substantial profit for its stockholders."

"The interest rate will at first be 2 per cent monthly, but will be reduced to 1 per cent as the business expands. The rate charged will be reduced as conditions and business warrant until we will eventually be loaning at probably 1 per cent per month, as are some of the older and wealthier eastern companies."

ROAD CONGRESS WILL MEET SOON

American Association for the Highway Improvement to Convene.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 16.—What promises to be one of the most important and interesting conferences of the closing year of 1912 is the first annual road congress of the American Association for Highway Improvement, which opens here on Wednesday and continues to November 24. The American Association for Highway Improvement is a body which represents the United States and Canada. There are twenty-three state and interstate associations in this country now affiliated with the American association, all of which will take part in the convention here. One of the big features of the convention will be the attendance of a large number of automobilists who have just completed an extended tour throughout the country under the auspices of the Touring Club. In addition to the regular sessions there will be meetings of highway engineers, legislators and manufacturers of road machines. The latter has fitted up a hall in which there will be on exhibition all the latest machinery that is used for the making of roads. There will, of course, be other features in the exhibition hall, some of which will illustrate the work which is being done in various parts of the world, and exhibits of some of the notable roadways of America.

ROAD CONGRESS WILL MEET SOON

A number of prominent speakers will address the congress. Among these are General T. Coleman Du Pont, who is spending part of the time for the construction of a $2,000,000 boulevard across the state of Delaware, and which promises to be one of the finest roadways in America.

CONGRESSMEN TO SPEAK.
An address will be made by Congressman J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania, who was recently made a director of the American Association of Highway Improvement. Mr. Moore has always been known for his enthusiasm for inland waterways and harbors, but he now regards overland roads as a more important issue and has transferred most of his energy to the latter cause. Other important speeches will be made by Logan Waller Page, director of the state road commission of Maryland; Stephen Swenson and Martin of Michigan; Dr. Walter Page, editor and publisher of the American Association of Highway Improvement; W. W. Finley, president of the Southern Railway Company; B. F. Toombs, chairman of the Frisco lines; W. C. Brown, president of the New York Central; Harold Parker, chairman of the Massachusetts State Highway Commission; and many of the best highway engineers in America.

ROAD CONGRESS WILL MEET SOON

The holding of the first congress of the American Association of Highway Improvement in Richmond is a fitting tribute to the state of Virginia, which at the present time, in a high state of enthusiasm over the matter of public highways.

The City of Richmond is now preparing for the completion of a macadamized road from Washington to the North Carolina line, which, when completed, will be one of the finest roadways in the country.

But perhaps the most inspiring theme that will come before the congress is the Coast to Coast Highway. This is by far the most important road movement that has ever been put on foot in this country and it will doubtless receive a great impetus at the coming congress.

NEW WARRANT OUT FOR SUIT CLUB MAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—Charles Hickey, prime mover in the affairs of the Great Eastern Woolen Mills, will probably be placed in the ranks of the woman haters at no distant date if the ladies who claim to be victims of his concern continue to harass him with warrants and accusations. Yesterday Hickey was set upon by a band of irate persons of the gentler sex and practically ousted him from the Hall of Justice. Today a new warrant was sworn out against him. The complainant is Mrs. Anne Tibbitts, 134 Julian avenue. He is accused of obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with his suit club, which originally brought about his arrest.

AT DR. DILLIE'S CHURCH.
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—At the 10:30 A. M. service at Dr. Dillie's Church, O'Farrell and Leavenworth streets, Rev. Dr. Elbert R. Dillie will preach the seventh in his series of sermons on "A Man's Affairs," tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock. His special topic will be "A Man's Religion."

Importuning the President for Cabinet Positions.

President-elect Wilson is being petitioned from all parts of the country to appoint this and that man as a cabinet officer. Nearly every State has one or more favorite sons who are urged for cabinet positions by the usual methods of political promotion, often with a total disregard of special fitness for the duties of the position sought. Every President is subject to importunities of this kind, and every President has been under the necessity of rejecting all but a very few of the cabinet selections made for him by personal admirers of favorite sons. A President is importuned to take into his council chamber men of local prominence in their respective States, but who are not qualified for administrative functions and who by temperament and training are not fitted to safely advise in matters of broad national policy.

It is but natural that ambitious men should seek the dignity and honor of cabinet positions, but the better way would be to have the President free to choose those he deems most available and congenial as cabinet advisers. The public interests are not served by bringing political pressure to bear to induce him to appoint men he would not otherwise choose, especially when he has men of superior qualifications within his selection.

The propriety of men allowing their friends and political admirers to importune the President in their behalf, for cabinet appointments, is extremely doubtful. The attitude public men should take in such matters was never better stated than in a letter addressed by Colonel John P. Irish to President Cleveland in January, 1893. After explaining that Democrats in the legislatures of Oregon, Idaho and Wyoming, on their own motion, had endorsed him to Mr. Cleveland for Secretary of the Interior, and that the legislature of California proposed, with his approval, to do the same, Colonel Irish thus stated his views and position:

"I have declined assent to this, and, as the action taken in other States may reach you, it seems proper to say that I have felt that candidacy, in the current meaning thereof, for a place in your official family is not becoming, and that the discussion of my name in that connection by the press here and elsewhere and the other acts, no doubt suggested thereby, are volunteered entirely; and so far as they seem to make me a candidate, are not in line with my own sense of propriety; though as evidences of confidence, good feeling and friendship they impress me as they should any man who loves appreciation of his efforts for a good cause."

It is hardly necessary to say that Colonel Irish raised himself in the estimation of the President by relieving him of embarrassment. The making of a cabinet is a duty to the whole country that is both patriotic and important. Much depends upon the composition and organization of the cabinet; and the people as a whole are deeply interested in seeing that the President draws around him the ablest and wisest men he can secure to assist him in administering the government and formulating the policies by which the public welfare is to be conserved. When a man takes the Presidential chair he ceases for the moment to be the leader of his party; his first duty is to the nation, and he can serve his party best by serving the country with zeal, fidelity and wisdom. His success in giving his country the best service he is capable of rendering depends largely upon the quality and character of the men he selects for his cabinet advisers. It is, therefore, to the interests of the people as a whole that he gets the best material available. Booming favorite sons may do harm to the country; it is certainly no benefit to the public.

Marin county did not give nearly as large a majority against Sumner Crosby as did Contra Costa county. But, then, the Marin Standard does not circulate in Marin county.

The Devil Shearing the Hog.

The talk of carrying the inconsequential dispute as to who shall have the electoral vote of California to Congress is silly. It is worse than silly because it is both profitless and mischievous. Congress has no power in the premises. There is no charge that fraud was practiced in the recent election, no allegation that there has been anything worse than technical errors in counting the ballots and the minor irregularities which inevitably attend the present method of holding elections and canvassing the returns. But for the exceeding closeness of the vote no one would have thought of complaining.

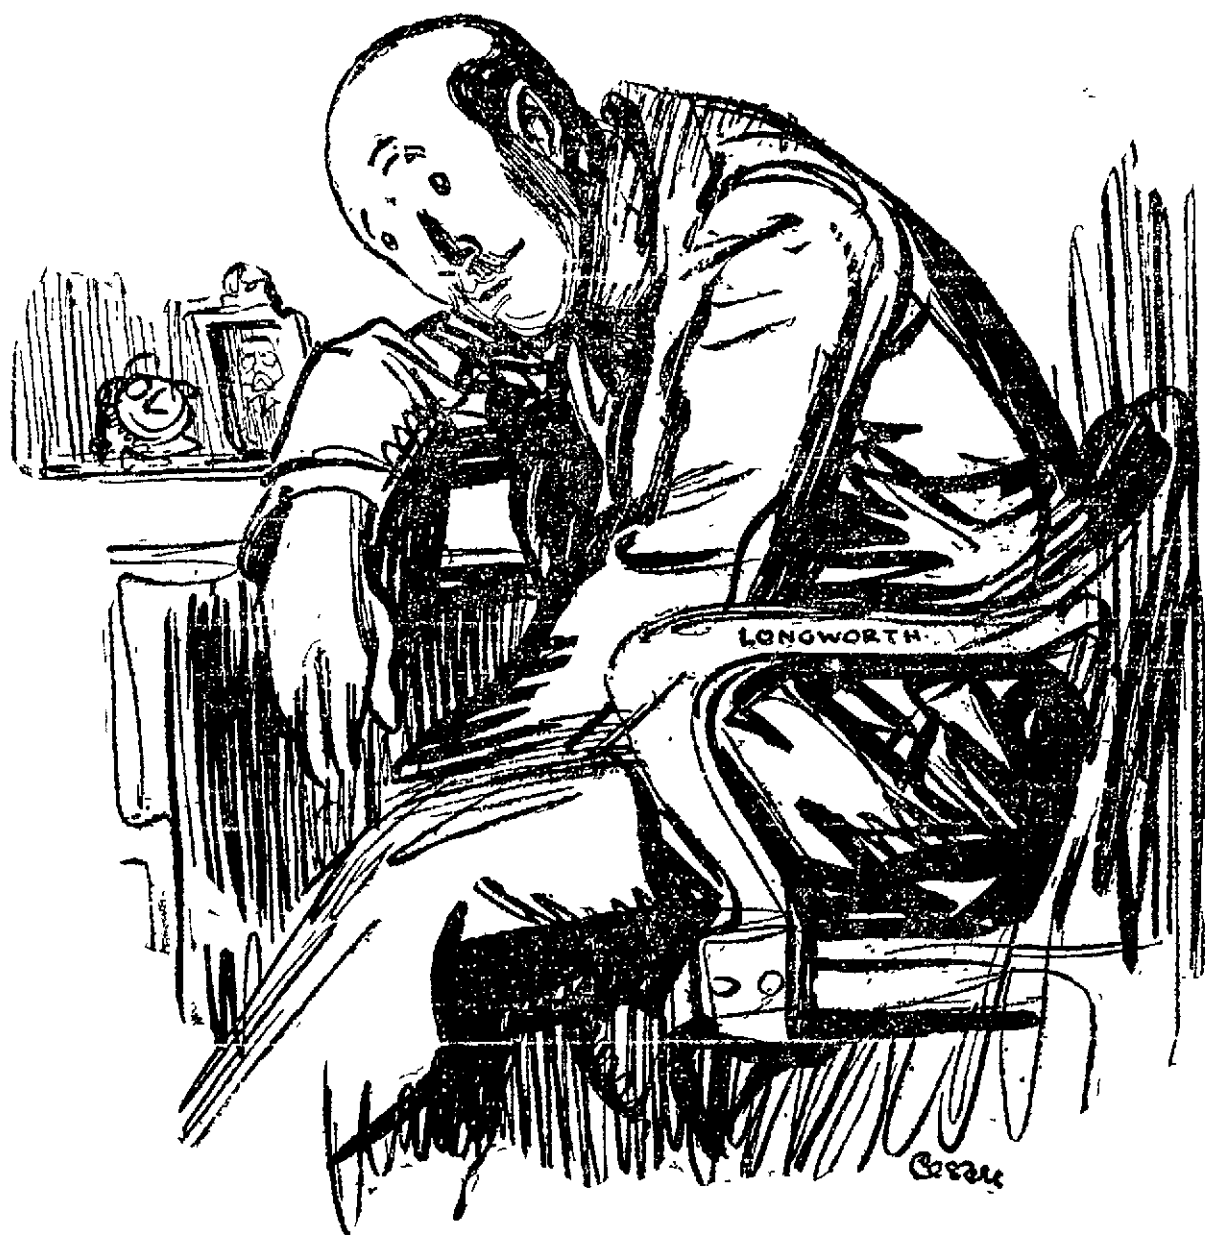

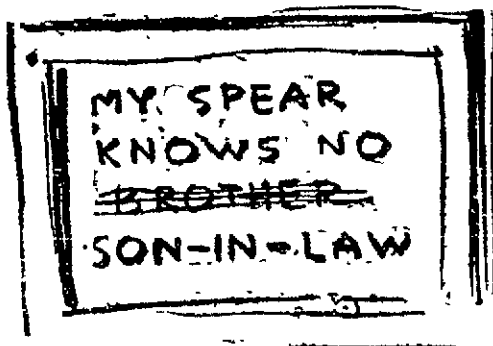

The whole controversy is over the empty honor of being officially declared the winner of the election in this State. It is not a vital question at all. In no way does it affect the public business or public policy.

In short, the wrangle is over a bone without a shred of meat on it, and which will do the party who gets it not a particle of good. Since there is no reason to believe that actual fraud has been committed, the whole pother is over alleged errors in counting the ballots and making returns thereof. The Democrats contend that in Los Angeles votes for Wilson were thrown out that should have been counted and that votes for Roosevelt were counted when they should have been rejected as invalid. The Progressives deny that there was any discrimination in making up the returns. There are always some errors in counting, and numerous recounts have proved that the errors usually balance each other, and that there is very little substance in the charge of losing candidates that they were counted out. With the exceptions the courts have vindicated the fairness of the election. The honesty of elections in California is hardly open to question. In this case, the whole dispute revolves around purely technical errors, which are important only because the vote is virtually a tie. Aside from this, there is no issue. Considered from a material standpoint, the dispute is a tempest in a teapot, a difference of tweedledee and tweedledum.

Letting the California electors cast no harm; getting Wilson elected no good. So far as moral effect is concerned, the Democrats cannot possibly be getting by appealing to the courts to reverse a moot verdict, but they can lose much. In making for a shadow they are inviting popular contempt. As victims of an injustice, however small, they can bid for public sympathy, provided they bear themselves with dignity. But a petty dispute makes a hard loser doubly ridiculous. In losing the electors they lose nothing of value, but in striving for them they may lose their honor.

Looking for the dove of peace turned home from the Call office that she did not light anywhere in the Balkans. She would have been shot if she had.

SPEARED!

—NEW YORK SUN.

Don't Raise the Calamity Howl.

About the poorest service a newspaper or public man can render his country at this juncture is to take up the calamity cry and predict panic and ruin as a necessary consequence of a Democratic President and Congress. Panics are the result of a loss of confidence, and predictions of calamity have the effect, if they have any effect at all, of destroying confidence. Those who are crying calamity before the Democrats have taken the reins of power or formulated any definite plans of tariff revision are doing what they can to bring on a panic.

This country does not want a panic. A panic will hurt everybody and benefit nobody. "Never say good morning to the devil till you meet him" is a saying that the Irish have. It is a good one to remember when some one tells you that everything is going to the demmition bow-wows when Wilson takes office. Talk of that sort is foolish and mischievous. Business disturbance is likely to result from revision of the tariff, but all of us should hope that it will not be serious. In any event if disaster should come, no one who loves his country will endeavor to make a bad matter worse or hasten a catastrophe that all will regret.

The wisdom of calling an extra session of Congress to revise the tariff may be legitimately questioned, but in view of the platform declarations of all three parties, it must be assumed that the people are prepared for a downward revision of the tariff. They certainly voted for just that thing. Here is what the Democratic platform says:

"We favor the immediate downward revision of the existing high, and, in many cases, prohibitive tariff duties, insisting that material reductions be speedily made upon the necessities of life. Articles entering into competition with trust-controlled products and articles of American manufacture which are sold abroad more cheaply than at home, should be put upon the free list."

The tariff plank of the Progressive platform follows the same tenor:

"We demand tariff revision because the present tariff is unjust to the people of the United States. Fair dealing toward the people requires an immediate downward revision of those schedules wherein duties are shown to be unjust or excessive."

This extract is from the national Republican platform: "Some of the existing import duties are too high and should be reduced."

Each of these declarations is a specific pledge to reduce duties, especially duties which are excessive and promote monopoly. Surely they were responsive to public sentiment, and hence are the expressions, different in form and degree, of a demand on the part of the mass of the people that tariff duties be reduced. The effort to frighten the voters with a panic scare during the campaign failed utterly. Is it conceivable that all the parties made promises they did not intend to fulfill? Or that the people voted for a downward revision of the tariff when they did not want it?

What, then, is there to be afraid of? The campaign is over, and there is no sense in trying to create a panic by predicting that a panic will result from revision of the tariff in obedience to the expressed will of the people? It is a bad time to set up the calamity howl. The calamity howl is the voice of pessimism and is always a challenge to constructive statesmanship. Let us see what the Democrats do before setting up a wail of woe. It is silly to cry out before you are hurt. Maybe we won't be hurt at all. Let us all hope so, and take a cheerful view of things till something really bad happens.

TRUTH ABOUT COCOS ISLAND

Cocos Island lies in the South Sea, and people all over the world lie about it. Many expeditions have gone in quest of its treasure and failed of finding any. There is no mystery in the failures. There is no treasure there, never has been and never will be, unless some explorer chances to drop his watch in a useless excavation.

Just now a vessel under command of two young and foolish English women is on the way thither. It is time to tell the truth in order that silly folk bound to be disappointed from their money may have the operation performed nearer home.

There was a sailor once, and alas! he drank more than once, so that at last he was on a hospital cot with nothing to do and must have a series of alcoholic dreams, between which he sighed for plug tobacco which a kindly journalist supplied. In return, he chartered one of his favorite dreams for the journalist, scrawled an explanation of the "vision," and passed away to the land of all near-pirates.

This sailor has been on a pirate ship. Ah, yes, the real thing, with skull and crossbones, and a plank for guests to walk when their welcome had been worn out. One day they captured a ship that bulged with gold and silver and precious stones, and shortly thereafter, seeking to cut across Cocos Island, were stranded. Then they hid the loot, and in debating division of the same came to blows, until all had lost interest but three. Two of these would have had their throats cut shortly, too, save that they managed to keep awake.

When a ship hove in sight they went aboard without daring to betray their secret. Having resumed piracy, two were hanged, and then the secret was locked in a solitary breast. The owner of the breast meanwhile was busy pirating, but never got the money to equip a vessel for saving his honest earnings cached in the lonely isle, and never desired to take anybody into his confidence until the journalist loomed up on the tobacco proposition. Then it was the sailor chartered the dream, with trembling hands wrote out the explanation, and turning to the wall died with a smile on his lips, whether from knowledge of a good deed he thought he had done, or because of the good joke that marked his exit is not determined.

So this is the truth about Cocos Island, and this the manner in which a marine played it low down on a lot of easy marks.—N. Y. Sun.

Eugene Bavatia Says He Was Shot in Knee During Quarrel.

Inspectors Gallagher and Green are investigating circumstances surrounding the mysterious shooting of Eugene Bavatia yesterday morning while the aged man was in his room at a house located at 475 Seventh street. Late in the afternoon Bavatia appeared at the Receiving Hospital with a bullet wound in his left knee. He explained that he had been shot at 10 o'clock in the morning by a man named Bogart, with whom he had quarreled. They had met on the street after a separation of several months, he said, and went to the room together.

That the quarrel started over the payment of a dollar, which Bavatia said Bogart had owed him for a year, was the statement obtained by the police.

On searching the room inspectors Gallagher and Green found three loaded revolver shells in a dresser drawer. The bed-maker at the rooming house said that he had heard three shots during the morning and that immediately afterwards the old man had emerged from the room limping. He claimed that he had asked about the shots and that Bavatia had replied that they came from another part of the house. He is said to have been the only person in that part of the house at the time. Bavatia refused to make any further statement and the affair is shrouded in mystery. His wound is not considered dangerous unless blood poisoning sets in from delayed attention to the injury.

GASOLINE SCARCE DURING DUCK HUNT

MARYSVILLE, Nov. 16.—An automobile salesman may run out of hot air, money, lubricating oil, tires and every other useful article, but he should never take a party of friends miles out in the tubes without having plenty of gasoline to come back on. This is what happened to Gordon Van Arsdale, the enterprising agent of an automobile line in the vicinity of Cooper to accompany him to the tubes for a duck hunt. They departed in Gordon's car and made the trip all right, had a good time shooting ducks, plenty to eat and drink—but no gasoline to come to town on. It was up to Gordon to walk five or ten long miles to a farm house and secure a team of mules to pull his automobile back to town. He said that when he got to town Gordon said to him to walk in and bring a can of gas, so that they could ride in again. But Ford said he rather liked the feeling of being mules and thereupon he left his horse and let the deer pull him back to town. He was not happy about the gasoline hunt then.

OFFICIALS TO VISIT SAN JOSE

Students of Domestic Science Department to Cook for Guests.

SAN JOSE, Nov. 16.—Oakland school officials will visit San Jose Tuesday and spend the day in a tour of inspection of the San Jose School Department. Those who will come here from Oakland are President Orr of the Board of Education, City Superintendent J. W. McElmonds and Deputy Superintendents Cox and Barker. The party will make the trip in automobiles and arrive here about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Upon their arrival here, they will be met by Superintendent Sheriffs and the Board of Education. The day will be one of interest to the new members of the San Jose board also, as it will be the first time that a thorough tour of inspection of the schools will have been made since Mrs. W. P. Dougherty and J. P. Jarman took their places on the board last July.

The school officials will go in automobiles to every school in the city and inspect the work in all of the branches. The open air schools at the Grant, Gardner and Hawthorne are expected to be of special interest to the Oakland officials and it is chiefly to inspect these that they are making the trip.

To demonstrate in a most practical way the accomplishments of the domestic science department, luncheon will be served at the high school at 12:30. This luncheon will be cooked by the students of the department of the school under the direction of Miss Jessie M. Paulsell. The pupils will purchase the food, cook it and serve it and the officials of both the San Jose and the Oakland School Departments will have an opportunity of appreciating the splendid work which is being done in the domestic science department of the local high school.

SCHOOLS MAY BORROW FINE DRAWING EXHIBIT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—It will soon be possible for any city school to have a drawing exhibit of national significance practically without cost. Dr. Henry Turner Bailey and Royal B. Farnum are preparing for the United States Bureau of Education an exhibit of the best examples of drawing and art work in the elementary, high, and normal schools of the United States, as well as one or two of the art schools. The exhibit is to be sent to any city desiring it upon payment of the cost of transportation from the city first using it. The transportation charges will be small.

The exhibit is not to be a large one, but it is being selected with unusual care, so as to show the work that will be most suggestive to teachers, children and school officers. It will be ready for shipment about January 1st, but cities desiring it should make application at once to the Commissioner of Education, Washington, D. C., in order that it may be dispatched to as many localities as possible with the least expense to each of them.

Dr. Claxton believes that this small but choice exhibit of drawing work, compiled by two acknowledged leaders of art teaching in America, will do much to advance the cause of drawing and art in the public schools.

Marking as it does the opening of the new home, Monday will be a day of unusual importance to Odd Fellows in Santa Clara county. Many of the members of the local lodges will turn out to welcome the inmates, numbering 132 aged and infirm veterans of the order, both men and women, and to see them comfortably installed.

A special train which has been donated by the Southern Pacific company through the kind offices of E. O. McCormick, will leave Oroville at 7:30 o'clock Monday morning. At Stockton luncheon will be served to the train by the members of the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges of that city. The train will arrive here at 11:30 and Newark at 12:30. The inmates will be transferred to the new home at 3:00 p. m.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Burgess, superintendent and matron of the home respectively, with a few of the more able inmates and most of the members of the home and farm staff from Oroville, have been at the new home for the past week putting it in readiness for occupation by the inmates.

That everything might be ready for the removal, the dairy herd of the home farm and the pigs and chickens were shipped from Oroville on Thursday and formed three railcars, in themselves. The same number about 30 and the fowls 300.

The abandoned home at Oroville will possibly be taken over by the Pacific district of the Loyal Order of Moose, which has an option on the purchase of the property good until December 1, and which is considering a sale under the plans similar to the Odd Fellows.

MASQUES TO BE CHOSEN FOR SPRING FETE

MISS MARGUERITE OGDEN.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Nov. 15.—Scenarios were received today by the committee in charge of the spring fete, the spring masque to be given next year by the women of the university. A number of scenarios were received, and the committee will select the one to be given next year.

On the committee are Miss Marguerite Ogden, Miss Lucy Stebbins, Miss Anna Reardon, Miss Barbara Scheriff, Mrs. R. Scheriff, Prof. John Galen Howard, Professor R. F. Scholz, Professor H. H. Wells, Professor Bruce Porter and Dr. H. C. Cory. At the suggestion of Miss Stebbins, the dean of women, the rules were extended this year so that any woman student might enter the contest which closed today. This further rule was made permanent.

The title of the ceremony shall be "The Parthenon." This does not mean that the substance of the new masque must be Greek in character. It would be possible to present a Celtic masque, a Norse masque, a Spanish masque or a dramatic masque with no traditional setting. But the motive, the transition from girlhood to womanhood, always shall remain the basis of the new production.

The custom, which is to be continued every spring, of a masque by the women students was instituted with the production of "The Parthenon." The work of Miss Anna Reardon, who remains on the committee of selection this year. It was from the title of her masque that the permanent name for the fete was retained.

The preliminary sketches which were submitted today were most suggestive for a final production. The offerings of highest merit will be selected by the committee, and their writers will have until January 13 in which to submit final plans.

BERKELEY, Nov. 15.—An evening with the poets of California has been arranged by the Hillside Club for next Monday night. J. D. Galloway is acting as director of the affair, assisted by Frank M. Brown and Mrs. W. C. Brown.

Miss Dorothy McCarter will sing several poems by California poets set to music, accompanied by her sister, Miss Ruth McCarter. Miss Roxanna Wells will give several numbers at the piano.

ALAMEDA GIRL IS ENGAGED TO LOS ANGELES

Given Reception at Richmond and Addresses Big Mass Meeting.

ALAMEDA, Nov. 15.—The last big rally of the campaign of education in the interest of the harbor and tunnel bonds at the election to take place next Tuesday is going on tonight in Richmond, with Congressman-elect Charles F. Curry as the main attraction. Curry arrived from Sacramento this afternoon and was met at the depot by a large delegation of the leading spirits here and residents of the city in grand and enthusiastic and with loud cheering. Curry is a favorite in Richmond, which gave him his nomination for his majority at the primary held there greater than it was in the whole district.

Major D. W. McLaughlin opened the meeting with a short talk in a forthright manner and introduced the new congressman of the district as a champion of the proposed Richmond harbor and tunnel bonds. Curry then addressed the assembly, which was taken up by Curry, who made a stirring speech and met with much applause. He advised the young men of the city to support the government in the habit of emulating nature to the extent of helping those who are in need of help.

The people were disappointed that Congressman Knowland could not be here also, as was arranged, the death of his father preventing his attendance. But they gave close attention to the other speakers, among whom were Mayor J. C. Owens and a number of local leaders, and the vote taken on the harbor and tunnel bonds was a landslide.

Curry made a stirring speech and met with much applause. He advised the young men of the city to support the government in the habit of emulating nature to the extent of helping those who are in need of help.

CONGRESSMAN C. F. CURRY TALKS

Given Reception at Richmond and Addresses Big Mass Meeting.

RICHMOND, Nov. 15.—The last big rally of the campaign of education in the interest of the harbor and tunnel bonds at the election to take place next Tuesday is going on tonight in Richmond, with Congressman-elect Charles F. Curry as the main attraction. Curry arrived from Sacramento this afternoon and was met at the depot by a large delegation of the leading spirits here and residents of the city in grand and enthusiastic and with loud cheering. Curry is a favorite in Richmond, which gave him his nomination for his majority at the primary held there greater than it was in the whole district.

Major D. W. McLaughlin opened the meeting with a short talk in a forthright manner and introduced the new congressman of the district as a champion of the proposed Richmond harbor and tunnel bonds. Curry then addressed the assembly, which was taken up by Curry, who made a stirring speech and met with much applause. He advised the young men of the city to support the government in the habit of emulating nature to the extent of helping those who are in need of help.

The people were disappointed that Congressman Knowland could not be here also, as was arranged, the death of his father preventing his attendance. But they gave close attention to the other speakers, among whom were Mayor J. C. Owens and a number of local leaders, and the vote taken on the harbor and tunnel bonds was a landslide.

MISS HENRIETTA WALLER.

ALAMEDA, Nov. 15.—Announcement was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss Henrietta Waller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Waller of Central Avenue, to James Herbert Mills of Los Angeles. The announcement came as a great surprise to the many friends of Miss Waller and was made known at a tea to about 20 of her intimate friends. The bride to be is a daughter of an interesting type and one of five sisters. Her sister, Miss Ruth Waller, married John H. Clegg of London this early part of the year. She is an accomplished musician and has made many friends since leaving Alameda. Miss Waller met James two years ago when she was en route home from Europe. During the summer she visited in the south with her mother

OAKLAND LEADS BIG CITIES IN BUILDING

Gain for October 34 Per Cent Over the Corresponding Month in 1911.

Loaning Business for the Past Week Shows Increase; Realty Trade Brisk.

Although there was no holiday last week, as there was the week before, to detract from the activity in real estate trading, there were showings, and yet a heavy increase in business is reported. The sale of residence property is a feature of the market, the transfers of lots for the outlying residence tracts being numerous. There were no important sales of business holdings. The loaning business showed a decided spurt, the total of mortgages and deeds of trust being $855,545, as compared with $442,123 the preceding week—a gain of more than $200,000. Deeds numbering 381 were filed at the county recorder's office during the week ending Wednesday evening, as compared with 355 the week before.

The loan report for October in Alameda county shows that bank mortgages and deeds of trust totaled $885,279.19, as compared with $799,271.85 during September, a gain of almost $100,000.

Unusual attention has been drawn to the business district east of Broadway by announcement of the plans of D. Franklin Oliver, capitalist and architect, for a 15-story steel and concrete building, 40 feet square, at the northeast corner of Fourteenth and Webster streets, on a portion of the site of Maple Hall. The latter structure is to be moved around to face on Webster street. Oliver owns the hall property, the dimensions of which are 100x100 feet. The new building, which is to be an office structure occupied by professional men, will be located but one block from the new Hotel Oakland and one block from the Franklin street station of the Southern Pacific.

Again Oakland has passed some of the large cities of the country in the building race. Instead of showing a decrease percentage for October, as many of them do, the city shows its usual gain, which for that month was 34 per cent over the corresponding month in 1911.

In building Oakland has surpassed Brooklyn, Kansas City (Mo.), Hartford, Akron, Richmond, Salt Lake City, Tacoma, New York City, Rochester (N. Y.), Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Louisville, Seattle, Columbus (O.), Houston, Jacksonville, Birmingham, Omaha, Grand Rapids, Duluth, Sioux City, Spokane, New Orleans,avenport, Oklahoma City, Springfield (Ill.), Toledo, Lincoln (Neb.), and Chattanooga. Most of the cities named show losses instead of increases in building. Of a total of 72 cities reported by the Construction News, there were increases in 48 and decreases in 24.

That the owners of factory sites over-estimate the value of their land and place too high a valuation on them is the opinion of Wilbur Walker, secretary of the Merchants' Exchange. Representatives of several large Eastern plants have tried in vain to obtain suitable tracts for the building of factories. The lowest values that have been quoted are $4000 per acre and that is a trifle too high, according to the easterners. The land is lying idle and a large amount of money must be spent before it could be of any use to the purchaser. Richmond is much more liberal in charging for factory sites and is practically giving them away and if Oakland is to compete with Richmond in this line it will have to "step down a bit," according to Walker.

Many business men are urging that the city council take action on the question of paving Sixteenth street and giving as reasons that the street runs through the northern end of the new retail district and is also the street leading to the principal railroad station in the city. The paving of Sixteenth street was at one time made a bad but it has long since become so worn as to be a disgrace to the city.

A thoroughfare that has at its terminus a handsome railroad station and leads into the downtown section of the city should be well paved.

WHAT 40 YEARS HAVE DONE TO SKYLINE

INDUSTRIAL ZONE DISCUSSION HELD

Manufacturing Importance of Oakland Is Emphasized by Committee.

The claims of Oakland as a manufacturing city were pointedly set forth by P. K. Bilger, chairman of a joint special committee of citizens on some ordinance and the administration's policy in development of the Oakland waterfront, at a recent conference between the committee and Mayor Mott. The statement is of interest to real estate men, merchants and home owners. The mayor also explained the municipality's plans for creating an industrial zone and defining the admitted residence section.

Chairman Bilger opened the conference by stating, in brief, that the designation of Oakland as a residence city solely, was untrue, and that it was a great manufacturing center, that while complaints regarding laundries, stables, undertaking establishments or businesses where noise or odor were obnoxious, were justifiable, nevertheless, legitimate factories should not be placed on the defensive to prove their right to exist, that the object was to promote and foster factories which are, after all, the backbone of the community's prosperity, and that the proposed ordinance would prove, if passed, an appalling setback to growth.

Mayor Mott replied, substantially, that the purpose of the ordinance was to define the admitted residence section from the area unusable by factories, and to protect the health and comfort of householders. There was not the slightest intention of restricting industrial growth; that certain districts should be set aside solely for manufacturing purposes, and he indicated generally the divisions; that 10,000 acres by actual estimate, are now available for these purposes; that there should be appointed a small sub-committee that might conveniently confer with himself and the city attorney from time to time until an ordinance satisfactory to both sides should be drawn up.

HARBOR DEVELOPMENT.

The mayor then turned the discussion over to discussing generally the improvements projected, under way, and finished, as well as the arrangements contemplated, stating that Commissioner Anderson, who was supervising the work, and himself would co-operate with the committee on the subject. He mentioned that it was the plan of the administration to follow a very broad policy in the matter of wharf changes and leases of sites, and that every aid possible should be rendered to bona fide business, that the question of short or long leases and the terms of lease were not subjects upon which he would value the assistance and advice of the committee, and that he would ask the committee's assistance in formulating a policy in these matters.

R. R. STIMULATES CONTRA COSTA

Suburban Farms Along Oakland and Antioch Find Ready Buyers.

The advent of the Oakland and Antioch Railway to producing a stimulating effect on real estate. This is particularly true in Contra Costa county, where the greatest benefit is to be derived. Already several purchasers of suburban farms have moved on their holdings because of the fact that it is only a matter of a few minutes when they will have street car service at their doors. The suburban idea appeals strongly to the small farmer. That part of Contra Costa county, being back of the Berkeley hills and known as the Mount Diablo country, will be supplied with three branches, aside from the main line of the road. One of these branches extends into the Ignacio Valley at the northwest base of the mountain. At the terminus of this line a model suburban city is to be laid out, which will also mark one of the approaches to the Mount Diablo Boulevard. The Clayton Branch with a terminus at the town of Clayton, at the north base of the mountain, will be completed in July. The third line will extend down the San Ramon valley.

TEACHERS LEARN OF MANUFACTURES

Industries of East Bay Section Will Be Made Better Known in Schools.

That the innovation in teachers' instruction undertaken in the entertainment of the Alameda county institute, when the teachers were shown through the factories and industries of the county, was a distinct success and is likely to be a feature of the instruction to be given from the county of the manufacturing industries, was the result of the inspection.

ELECTRIC TRAINS TO CONNECT CITIES

S. P. Service Between Oakland and Alameda to Start Before Holidays.

The news that the Southern Pacific will begin before the holidays arrive to start the new Oakland-Alameda cross-town service comes as a welcome announcement to the Alameda public which travels daily or less frequently to Oakland. The new service will result in a large increase of trade between Alameda and Oakland and will be of as much benefit to this city as to Alameda. With a rapid transit service which will make regular station stops, afford large seating capacity and reduce the present street car time one third or more, the business and social relations of the two cities will be benefited closer than ever and business in both cities will prosper in consequence.

NEW SECTION OF CITY IMPROVED

Southeastern Portion of Alameda Receives Investors' Attention.

ALAMEDA, Nov. 17.—The southeastern portion of Alameda, embracing all that section east of Broadway, south of Knollwood avenue, and reaching to San Leandro bay on the east and the main bay on the south, is receiving considerable attention from careful investors who are looking for a place to build a new city.

ALAMEDA WILL BE BOOSTED BY DISPLAY

Commission Expects to Make Exhibits at Two 1915 Expositions.

East Bay Communities Will Be Well Represented at Big Shows.

BY PAUL GOLDSMITH, Secretary Alameda County Exposition Commission.

The Alameda County Exposition Commission is preparing to make the finest of displays at each of the expositions of 1915, and it will not be long before the commission will be able to give details of its plans to the public. It is the belief of the members of the commission that the year 1915 will be one full of opportunity for the county of Alameda and for the entire east bay section and the commission wants to be able to take full advantage of every opportunity that offers. The peculiar relation, geographically of the east bay counties to San Francisco and the close relations held by this section with the metropolis of the Pacific coast appeals very strongly to the commissioners and they are working to take advantage of all this to attract visitors and investors to any part of the east bay district.

UNSELFISH CAUSE.

In this Alameda county is very unusual. The commissioners from our county feel that the interests of Alameda county are identical with those of Santa Clara and Contra Costa and they are of the opinion that a union between these three counties would be of benefit to all. The Alameda county commissioners have a desire to dominate or dictate to the other counties should a union be formed, but to leave to each county complete control of its own exhibit and to work in harmony with the others in the installation and display of the same.

Santa Clara county is really the main portion of what is sometimes called here the Alameda valley. The section from Warm Springs north through Niles, Hayward, Fremont, San Leandro is the same in soil and products as the great Santa Clara valley and the rural portion of Contra Costa county is almost exactly like the Livermore valley. The similarity of interests and products make a union of the three counties highly desirable, particularly as it will allow each county control over its own exhibit and a reduced cost to each for installation and display.

COMPETITION FRIENDLY.

It is recognized that Alameda county is, year by year, becoming less of an agricultural district and for that reason the competition with the other counties in the agricultural products would be nothing but friendly. Alameda county would almost take third place in this display and would not try to overshadow its neighbors.

Alameda County already has a well organized exposition force with W. D. Nichols, its best man, in charge of the State, in charge of its agricultural display. The use of this already perfected organization would be of great benefit to the other counties and Alameda County would be glad to give them the benefit of what information we have already spent money to acquire.

Santa Clara County has a well organized Chamber of Commerce with Joseph T. Brooks, one of the best known promotional men in the State, at the head, and they have an Exposition Commission of which Joseph H. Ryland is the chairman and Mr. Brooks the secretary. Contra Costa

AUTO TOURISTS RETURN FROM LONG TRIP

Haynes "40" Does Good Work Boosting 1915 Exposition

(By EDMUND CRINNON.)

The whole country is planning to be here for the 1915 exposition. Such, at least, is the opinion of Mr. and Mrs. John Tunningsen, of San Francisco, who spent the summer motoring about the eastern States and part of Canada carrying an exposition banner on their car. Wherever they went the flag attracted attention and questions as to the great fair were flung at them from all sides.

The Tunningsens received their car, a 40 horse power Haynes at Montclair, N. J., where they were staying with relatives. They traveled in it to every watering place of note in that vicinity and declare New Jersey's roads are unsurpassed in this country. They also whirled through Connecticut and covered the shore route from Narragansett Pier to Newport and thence via Providence to Boston.

"Everybody seemed to be enthused by seeing a car from California," said Mrs. Tunningsen. "If the enthusiasm shown by the people all through the New England States, Eastern Canada, especially Quebec and Montreal is any criterion of the crowds that are going to come here in 1915, we will not have house room for one-tenth of them."

"The roads in New Jersey, New York and Massachusetts are in excellent condition. Most of the main roads are asphalt. Pennsylvania is still behind in respect to roads but they have started and in another year there will be no difficulty in going from Philadelphia to the battlefields over the Lighter grade to Pittsburgh and from there the roads are excellent westward."

"The last ride we had in our automobile was to Kokomo, Indiana, where we fell in with a company taking moving pictures. They, being desirous of having us appear in the picture with the car, we readily acquiesced. At this latter place, Kokomo, we left our machine in its home factory to be overhauled and left by train for dear old San Francisco in order to arrive in time to vote."

STONE HIGHWAY PLAN SEEMS PRACTICAL

The Western Terminal Would Mean Much to Oakland

Out of all the recent "ocean to ocean" highway talk and the confusion of ideas for the building of a transcontinental road, a concrete and immensely practical plan for accomplishing the much-desired end has been evolved and California seems assured of having a stone highway from the East by 1915.

To Carl G. Fisher of Indianapolis Speedway fame, belong the credit of the plan, which is simply that the Eastern motor car and accessory manufacturers set aside a certain per cent of their net annual profits for the work.

The scheme has met with a hearty response from the manufacturers in question and the necessary funds are about available.

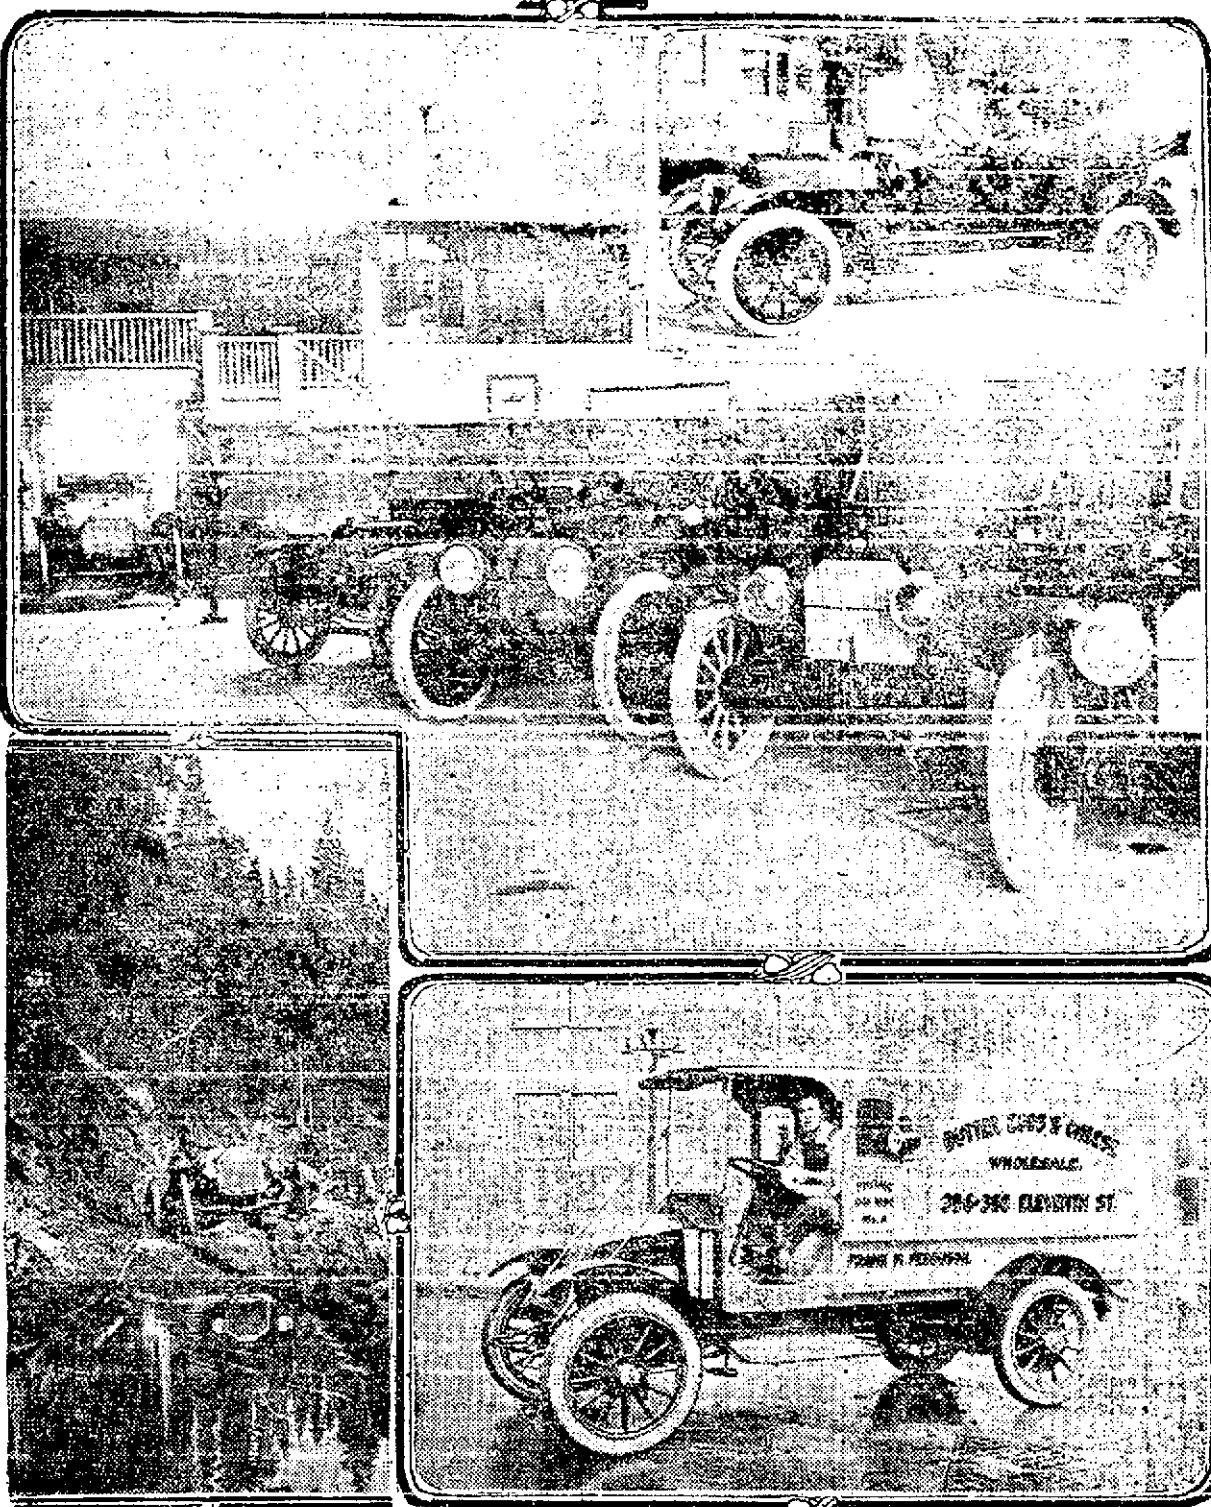

From reports that have reached the Coast it is predicted that the work on this stone highway would soon start without recourse to any proposed federal appropriations that heretofore have been the main all previous schemes hung upon.

So far so good. But we of Oakland can hardly afford to remain passive while this gigantic undertaking is brewing.

There are three possible routes across the states, two of which stand nearly an even chance of being the chosen one. The three routes are designated by motorists as the northern, central and the southern. The northern leads across Montana and leads into the Northwest. It is the least practical of the three. The central route is almost a direct line from Chicago to Oakland. It passes through larger cities, has the best roads and is the most practical. It should be the favorite. The southern route runs over the old Santa Fe Trail and enters the southern part of the state. It is backed by the liveliest bunch of boosters that ever worked for a roadway. It bids fair to get the plum.

The heavy car traffic of wealthy Eastern motorists that will follow this trail by 1915 and afterward will mean fully as much to the city as that marked in red letters in the motorists' tour books as the Western terminal, as would the securing of another transcontinental railway terminal. Oakland would look well in this role.

BREWSTER GREEN NEW RED COLOR

Dailey Shows Complete Line of Reo Motor Cars in New Saleshouse.

The 1913 Reo cars are coming out in a new dress of color. The latest models to arrive in Oakland have been finished in a beautiful Brewster green, with fine red hair striping.

In speaking of the change in finish, F. H. Dailey, head of the Alameda county agency house for the Reo, says:

"The Reo factory has changed the color used in painting its cars. The last few years the company has used the black with French gray running gear. The latest models which we have just received are finished in Brewster green. This again shows the close attention to detail and a keen appreciation of up-to-date refinement. The black and gray has given the car an air of conservatism, which is in keeping with the stability of the factory."

"The Brewster gray has become a popular color, and realizing this, the factory is now turning its cars out with this new finish. It costs more to paint a car in this color, but this extra expense has not affected the price of the car. It is something more that the factory is giving to the owner, just as it has been doing for years past. Every time that a saving has been made, the Reo factory has given the purchaser the benefit of this, by adding some refinement or accessory to the car, thereby making it more acceptable. While I was satisfied with the black and gray, and found the new Brewster gray quite pleasing, I did not know, however, how much it meant to the purchaser until these new cars arrived. One would imagine that the added refinement had affected even the mechanical parts of the car by the way sales have increased."

ELECTRICS NEED SPECIAL TIRES

"The question is often asked why we use a different car for our electric vehicle tires than that used on gasoline vehicles," says J. S. Torrey, Oakland manager of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. "The chief reason is that an electric vehicle, which gets its power from a storage battery, takes a long time to charge when it is run down. Frequent recharging and discharging wears out the batteries, and third, the speed of the vehicle is limited, owing to the excessive weight of battery required. This makes it necessary to place more importance upon any item which will increase the life of the expensive battery. Increase the number of miles which the car may make on a given charge, and increase the speed of the car for a given amount of current used. It has been demonstrated that by the use of specially constructed tires, the mileage per battery charge can be increased from 20 per cent to 35 per cent over that which is possible with the ordinary gasoline tire. This represents the saving of power which is absorbed by these tires in traction and rolling along the road. That there is some saving is appreciated by nearly every one, but very few realize what a large saving this is, as the above figures will show."

"Our gasoline tires are constructed of a square woven fabric, and during the flexing of the tire, as it goes along the road, considerable power is consumed by the internal friction in this fabric, resisting a change of shape."

"Our long distance electric tires are made of hard twisted cords, similar to a fishing line, lying parallel to one another, and thoroughly insulated with rubber, so that they never come in contact with one another, thereby reducing the amount of friction and heat generated. For the best results, absolutely pure rubber is the only thing used, and the only toughening material is put in a strip along the tread of the tire to prevent abrasion, although even a little tread wear is sacrificed to save battery current consumption. The question might be asked—if this type of tire saves so much electric current, why is it not used on gasoline vehicles more extensively? The answer to this is, that this tire will save gasoline, make a gasoline car go farther and increase the easy riding qualities of the car, but these tires will puncture more easily, are more difficult to repair and in the end will not give as low a tire mileage cost as the gasoline type of tire."

"The tire mileage cost is the principal factor considered in the design of a gasoline tire, but becomes secondary in the case of tires for electric vehicles, owing to the other great savings accomplished by the electric tire."

BUICK MACHINE MAKES HARD TRIP

That the modern medium priced car is capable of accomplishing almost unbelievable feats in the line of endurance and the negotiation of supposedly impassable roads is the belief of G. H. McCutcheon, manager of the Howard Automobile Company of Oakland, and the only fact was brought to McCutcheon's attention in a very forcible manner last week by "Bob" Kurri who had just completed a 700 mile trip through the northern part of the State in his 20 horse-power Buick.

Kurri states that the roads from Vallejo to Redding on the west side of the river are in very fair shape but from Redding to Minersville, Trinity county, the French Gulch and Lewiston, they are but worthy of the name road. Their usual bad condition was made worse by the recent heavy rains and Kurri states that he was forced to drive his car for miles with one pair of wheels on top of the ridge between the wheel tracks and the other pair were forced to bump over the boulders on the side of the road.

In spite of this severe going the car which is a 1911 Buick Red Bird that has seen a great deal of service, did not give one minute's trouble either mechanically or with the tires.

NEW TIRE CONCERN STARTS FOR TRADE

Following Oakland's rapid growth as an automobile center, the United States Tire Company has completed arrangements with the Bay Cities Tire Company of Oakland a newly formed tire selling concern, to handle its line of tires for Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

The new company is located in Upper Broadway near Twenty-second street along the new section of the auto row. It starts on its career tomorrow with a full line of the United States tires.

F. D. Fuller, formerly chief adjuster for the San Francisco branch of the United States concern, has joined the selling staff of the Oakland company, which will have full power to make all adjustments on the manufacturing company's tires for the car owners of Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

Mr. Tarr of New York is at Reno suing for divorce, but the usual distressing complications are lacking, as there are no Tarr babies.

A good way for Germany to acquire a coal station would be for her to rent a dock at Norfolk.

No-Rim-Cut tires now come, if wanted, with this ideal winter tread.

These oversize tires—these tires that can't rim-cut—have come to outsell all others. They have doubled tire mileage for legions of users.

Now this double-thick tread, with its bulldog grip, is also outselling every other form of non-skid.

Over 200,000 have been tested out. And not a user can imagine a more ideal protection.

A Double-Thick Tread

This is an extra tread vulcanized onto the regular. Thus it gives you a double-thick tread.

It is made of very tough rubber—the most wear-resisting compound that our experts discovered in testing some 40 formulas.

This extra tread consists of deep-cut blocks, so tough and so deep that they last for thousands of miles.

They grasp the road surface in every direction with countless edges and angles. And they grasp with a bulldog grip.

Each block widens out as the tread wears, so that it is like a smooth-tread tire. It is lack of this feature which has made non-skids so short-lived in the past.

Come See Them

You can see that these treads excel every device ever used heretofore against skidding.

They are deep and enduring. Their grip is irresistible. And the projections involve no increased strain on the fabric.

Safety demands them in winter. They come to you now on the greatest of tires—on the Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tires.

COAST DEMANDS MORE BUICK CARS

Howard Secures Allotment of 200 Cars a Week, Starting
December 1.

C. S. Howard of the Howard Automobile Company, Pacific Coast distributor of Buick and National cars, has just returned from a week's visit with his brother, Frank Howard, manager of the Los Angeles branch of the company.

Howard was called south by his brother in order that a consultation might be held to formulate plans to take care of the enormous demand for 1913 Buicks in the southern territory, as well as throughout the coast. Howard says:

"While our Los Angeles branch has received up to this time approximately fifty more Buicks than at the same time last year, and with the factory at present shipping us an average of 125 cars per week, Los Angeles as well as San Francisco is having a hard time to keep up with orders. I thought for two or three days last week it would be necessary for me to again make a trip to the factory, but in reply to my urgent wires the factory has agreed to increase our shipments to 150 cars per week from now until December 1, at which time they think they will be able to increase it to 200 cars per week. It is a tremendous increase, and a demand for our 1912 Buicks, none of us anticipated being snowed under with business this early in the season. In fact, instead of being a week to ten days behind our orders we expected by this time to have quite a stock of cars stored with which to take care of our trade. Some of our Buick agents throughout the state have already received and delivered more 1912 cars than they had sold during all the year of 1912."

ZOO KEEPER IS CHASED BY RHINO

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Chased by a large and indignant rhinoceros, who resented an attempt to smear him with neat-foot oil and lampblack, William Snyder, head keeper of the zoological gardens in Central Park, had some very lively moments in the cage of "Old Smiles" the rhinoceros, today.

"Old Smiles," who bears his name about as much as possible, had been roped and tied to the bar of his cage, when Mr. Snyder, cautiously carrying two gallons of the mixture of oil and lampblack, climbed into the cage through the door in the roof.

The keeper was applying the mixture when "Old Smiles" managed to work himself loose and turned on Mr. Snyder, who, dropping his bucket, fled in terror. Mr. Snyder, charged, bringing the ladder and Mr. Snyder down on top of himself, which scared him so badly that he backed up into a corner.

Robert Horton, the assistant keeper, came to the rescue, and with a pitchfork kept the animal in the corner until Mr. Snyder could climb another ladder, one which is always fastened to the side of the cage, and escape.

As a result "Old Smiles" will have to forego his coating of neat-foot oil and lampblack for the present, as Mr. Snyder does not care for an early repetition of the performance.

DYING MAN TRIES TO SUMMON HELP

LIBERAL, Kan., Nov. 15.—Alone in a small house in a remote section of Morton county, in the extreme southwest corner of Kansas, sick unto death and suffering agony, George E. Gillette lay all night dying.

At intervals through the night, as strength returned, he dragged himself to the door and fired a gun to try and attract the attention of his nearest neighbors, living a mile distant.

Not until after sunrise the next morning was the suffering man able to attract attention by the shots of his gun, and then, soon after aid reached him, he died.

Gillette formerly lived in Edwards county, and went to Morton county to take a homestead claim near Cass, in the extreme southwest corner of that county. He lived in the rude house he had built with his own hands alone.

After he had cleared up the supper dishes he was taken violently ill. After suffering for three hours he crawled to the door and fired his revolver several times. Half an hour later he fired more shots, but still no aid came. The shots were heard by the next neighbor, but he thought they were discharged by boys returning from a party.

Gillette then became unconscious. Shortly after dawn he crawled to his shotgun and fired several charges. This time the signal was heard.

BOY SETS FIRE TO TRUCK OF GASOLINE

JAMESTOWN, Nov. 16.—A pool of gasoline on a level street here last night was set on fire by a boy named James. The flames spread rapidly and the truck of the gas company was destroyed. The police are looking for the boy.

SERVICE EXPERT GIVES SOME TIPS

Chalmers Man States That All
Car Owners Should Look at Car's Condition.

"Every owner of an automobile," states L. V. Cummins, service manager of the Pioneer Automobile Company, "should take advantage of a shift, rainy day, get on some old clothes and make the acquaintance of his car. Delving into it he will be astonished to learn the number of little things that have been overlooked in the care of the car. Many times we find in rebuilding an old car old holes and grease ducts that have been stopped up and out of commission apparently for months and although oil and grease has been generously bestowed on the outside none of the lubricant has reached the bearing within. The springs should be looked up and a liberal supply of graphite spread between the leaves. Every nut and bolt on the car tried with a wrench to see that it is tight. The old oil removed from the crank case, clutch case and transmission and every bit of grease washed out of the rear housing, the universal joints and the front wheels.

"An examination of this oil and grease will show the value of the cleaning and of clean lubricants. It is all too true that the oil and grease are carried with the grease and act as an abrasive to make the various parts wear even more quickly than before. In fact, lubricating oil which carries with it particles of metal, no matter how fine, will cut and groove bearings about as fast as though no oil were used at all. In going over a car in this way the owner will find also some grease cups and bearings which perhaps have heretofore had no lubricant since the purchase of the car. In fact, when it is considered what little attention the average automobile gets, compared with other machinery of like complication, it is a wonder that it ever runs far enough to require new tires."

LIVE RATS BRING FIVE CENTS APIECE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16.—Five cents for every live rat and two cents for every dead one delivered at Delaware avenue and Race street to officers by the department of health and charities. The department has established a receiving station at that point and hopes that the rat catchers will get busy and bring in the rodents.

Director Neff has been watching very closely the spread of the bubonic plague, and desires to take every precaution to prevent the disease from getting into this city. The plague is spread by the fleas that infest rats. Precautions are taken to prevent rats leaving vessels from foreign ports, which come to Philadelphia. It is believed that in spite of the precautions taken, it is probable that some rats do leave the ships.

The department is especially anxious to find any plague-infected rat. The higher price is offered for live ones because the fleas, which are the real carriers of the disease, leave the dead rats. The dead ones are chiefly wanted for examination as to whether they had the plague. Director Neff's notice is as follows:

"In order to increase the receipt of rats a receiving station has been erected by the bureau of health on Delaware avenue, at the foot of Race street. This will be open on weekdays from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. Saturdays from 9 a. m. until 12 noon. Two cents will be paid for each dead rat and five cents for each live rat taken to that station."

NATIONAL CAPITAL GETS ANNUAL BATH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Glistening white is the color following its annual "bath." The House and Senate office buildings are also shimmering with pristine purity, after being soiled and scrubbed in preparation for the opening of Congress.

Well in the house cleaning season at the capitol. This year a fire engine company stationed near the capitol was pressed into service. For a whole day the firemen poured water on the pillars and walls of the capitol and two office buildings. Streams of dirt washed off, and the whole cleaning in progress, and left the "seat of government" almost snow white.

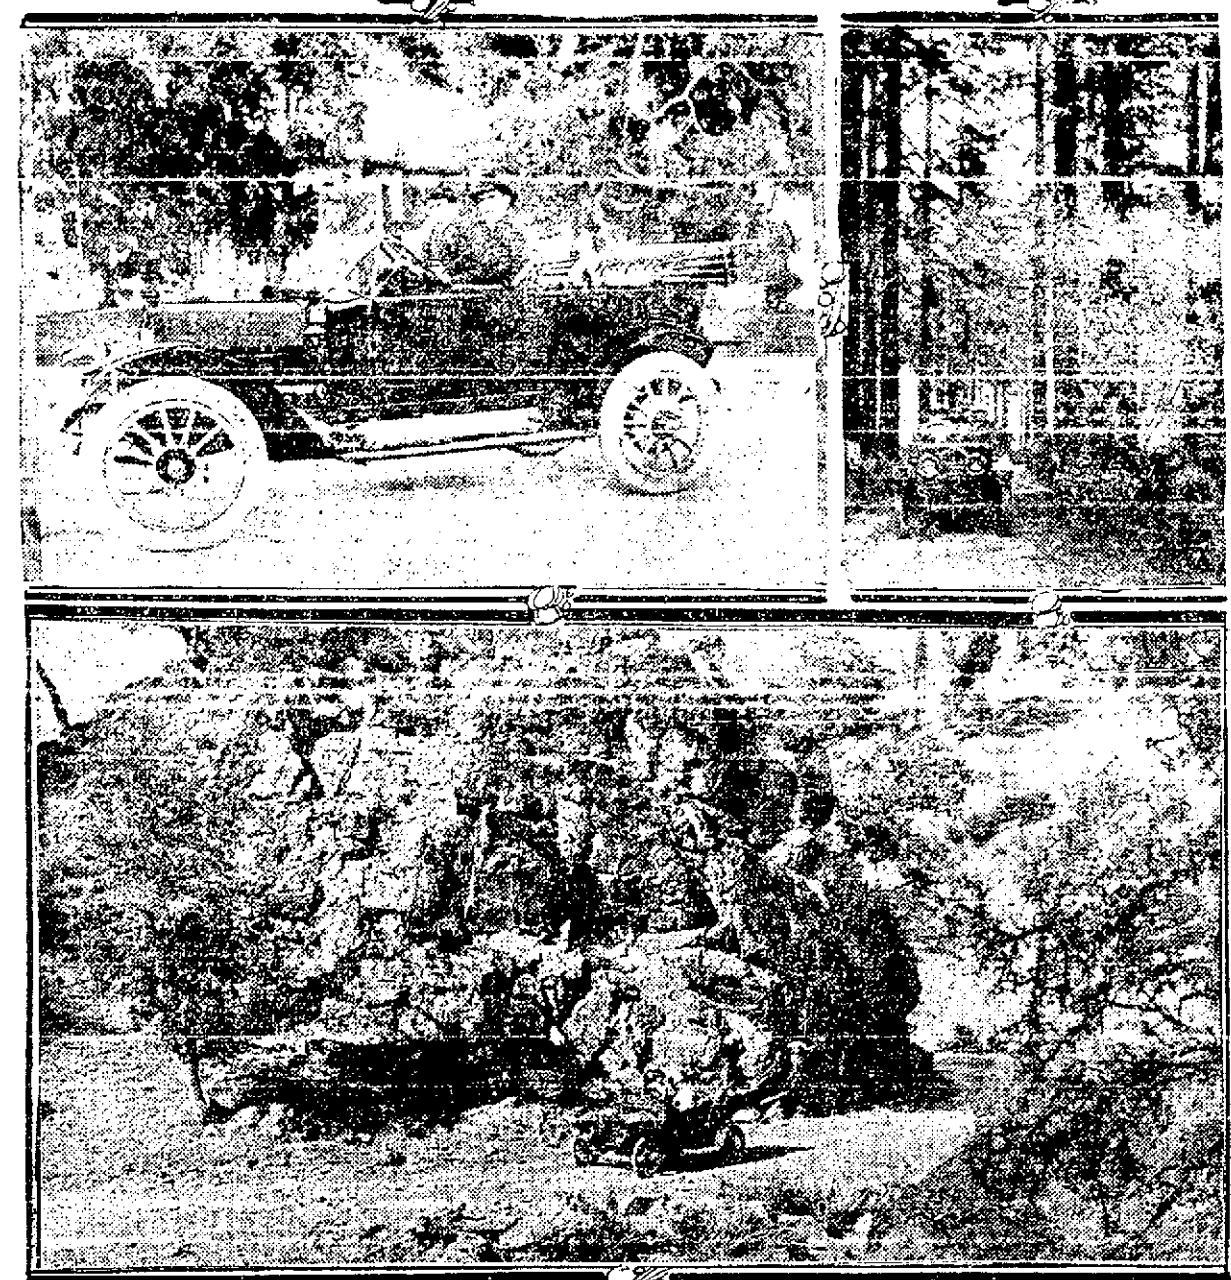

Anthracite coal, the cleanest and most expensive obtainable, is used to heat the group of buildings on Capitol Hill, to avoid dust, soot and smoke staining the white stone structure.

IT TAKES PICKPOCKETS TO DISCOVER WOMEN

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 16.—Alarmed over a series of purse-snatching attacks upon women, citizens of Springfield have volunteered to aid the police by dressing in feminine garb and patrolling the streets during the early hours of the evening. Twelve disguised detectives worked last night, but none was attacked. In the last two weeks more than a dozen women have been victims of the purse-snatchers.

MEDIUM PRICED CAR MAKES HIT

The medium-priced automobile is the car not only of the future, but of the present is the belief of Harry A. Welhe of the Pope-Hartford Motor Car Company of this city. His opinions are founded upon the company's experience since it began handling the forty horse-power Pope-Hartford one of the newest of the medium-priced machines to be put on the market.

Welhe says that the demand for the car has been a surprise to him. Since the first forty was received at the show rooms an endless string of visitors have been in and out, looking it over. It is a new product for the factory, which has never before put out anything but its strictly high-grade models, and he has been kept busy telling visitors that it really is a Pope-Hartford, not an imitation but the real thing. The company has recorded a surprising number of orders already, and he predicted that the coming year would be a world-beater, not only for his own company, but for every manufacturer who turns out a good car at a price within the reach of others than the very wealthy.

One of the things a girl learns by getting married is that her mother was also a martyr.

FATHER OF STRIKE LEADER IS WEST

Lives in Tacoma While Son,
Joe Eton, Awaits Trial
in East.

TACOMA, Nov. 16.—Masley Eton, father of Joe Eton, the strike leader being tried at Lawrence, Mass., because a policeman shot a little girl in the mill strike riots, is a prominent workman of Tacoma.

He never belonged to a labor union in his life, and is now a teamster with a team of his own. Eton owns a two-story house. He rents the first floor and lives with his wife on the second. Eton has the distinction not only of being the father of the Lawrence strike leader, but of being the only Tacoma man who ever got into a lawsuit in the city of Tacoma and whose case reached the United States supreme court.

Eton is working every day and waiting for Joe to come home.

Joe is the only child. His mother died when he was a little child in the old country. His father married again and they came to America. "Joe is a good boy," says his stepmother. "When he was old enough he went to work, worked every day and always brought his check home."

"He left home when he was 17, but came back later. He is 27 now. He never drank anything and when he went away as a boy he did not smoke."

NEW VELIE MODEL CALLED "DISPATCH"

Another new car of the popular priced class will shortly be seen in the local market. Frank Rettigstein, head of the Auto Sales company's Oakland interests has just received descriptions and specifications for the five passenger Velie touring car, which has been designated as the Velie Dispatch. The car, while one of the popular priced class, is among the most complete in equipment that has been offered to local purchasers. It has a 3 1/2 inch bore by 5 1/4 inch stroke motor, which means the long stroke type that develops 22 horsepower at 190 revolutions per minute.

KLAXTON HORN MAN VISITING ON COAST

Not only are the prominent automobile builders turning their attention to the Pacific Coast and visiting California, but the attention of the firms that manufacture accessories are coming west. The latest arrival to visit San Francisco is Charles Klaxton, special representative of the Klaxton Horn and Manufacturing Company of Newark, New Jersey, who manufactures the Klaxton horns and other high grade accessories. Johnson and the Klaxton Horn and Manufacturing Company will be the guest of Henry D. McFarlane, head of the Klaxton Horn and Manufacturing Company.

FINED FOR SPEEDING IN AUTOMOBILE HEARSE

PASSIAC, N. J., Nov. 16.—Charged with exceeding the speed limit in his automobile hearse, George W. Robertson of North Bergen, undertaker, must pay a fine of $10 assessed by Police Judge Thomas Costello.

Pollman Farrell stopped the Hearse as it was speeding to a funeral. When Robertson said he did not think it possible for his automobile to exceed the limit, there was sufficient evidence to convince the court, however.

Fully Equipped F. O. B. Oakland

R. E. Old's Final Masterpiece

Price of $1325 is f. o. b. Oakland, and includes full equipment of top, wind shield, speedometer, presto tank, electric side and tail lights, self-starter, extra demountable rim and tire holders.

Made in 5-passenger touring, 4-passenger roadster, 2-passenger runabout, limousine and commercial truck models.

It seems impossible that such a car as the Reo with the complete set of Timkin roller bearings, chrome nickel steel throughout, 34x4 tires, luxurious finish, combined with easy riding qualities, could sell at this price.

However, the time has come when motor cars must be sold on a close-price basis. Cost, profit and selling expense must all come down.

The success of the Reo factory in marketing the Reo the Fifth at this close price is due to modern factory equipment, automatic machinery, enormous production and on all of the economies which come through efficiency, backed by the skill of the master designer of them all—R. E. Olds.

You have undoubtedly read about the Reo the Fifth before this. Why not come in and see for yourself?

This car could not be retailed by us on so small a margin of profit unless we were satisfied we had a car so constructed as to require very little expense of upkeep.

INDIAN PRINCES BUY HUDSON CARS

Motoring Maharajahs Said to Be Critics of Modern Automobiles.

Blonded East Indian sovereign princes, besides the many automobiles which are made in England, are flocking to the American car.

They are first abandoning their gorgeous formal equipages of state for the motor car made in the United States and the latest news is that five Maharajahs—heads of Indian provinces—have become owners of Hudson cars.

R. B. Chapman, the Hudson distributor in this territory, told yesterday who the motoring Maharajahs are. They are the Maharajahs of Cooch Behar, Nagpur, Huthwa, Nowagar and the Nawab of Bhopal.

Their actions in purchasing the American cars instead of English ones, they become motorists may be a reflection on the attitude of East Indians toward the American regime.

One thing which appealed to all the East Indians in connection with American cars was their utility.

Chapman related how the gorgeous Indian equipages of state were becoming a thing of the past and that the upper classes were now taking automobiles because of the saving of time thus effected.

The fame of Howard E. Coffin, he said, "is not confined to his own country, nor is the knowledge of his board of engineers. In California there are now approximately 100 of his cars, and some of the most notable of British officials also own them."

TRADERS 'STUNG' IN TRYING COUP

Sell Market Down and Find That Banking Interests Are Buying.

(By THOMAS C. SHOTWELL.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Traders attempted to break the stock market today because of the announcement of an extra dividend of 10 cents by the Standard Oil Company. They were permitted to sell the market down more than a point and had things going at a lively pace when suddenly they discovered that the big banking interests were taking their stocks. Boston began to cover first sending an order for 10,000 shares of Steel to be sold.

The last half hour saw vigorous advance that left the list from 1 to 2 points above the low prices. Steel, Reading, Union Pacific and Cotton Oil were the features of the advance.

Contrary to general expectations the banks made an excellent statement, showing an increase of the surplus reserves. The net shortage of railroad cars showed a small increase.

Monday the returns are expected from the Supreme Court in the Minnesota rate cases, the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger and the Interstate cases. The commission may also render a finding on the question of advancing the wages of the locomotive firemen.

TROPICS DRAWN ON FOR FOOD BY U. S.

Certain Products Are Obtained From Out of Way Places.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The dependence of the United States upon the tropics for certain lines of foodstuffs and manufactured materials is illustrated by figures just compiled by the statistical division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. They show that the value of tropical and subtropical products which entered continental United States for the fiscal year 1912 was 750 million dollars, against 635 million in 1910, an increase of 125 per cent in a dozen years.

Of this grand total of three-quarters of a billion dollars worth of tropical and subtropical products brought into the country, over one-half are foodstuffs, sugar alone amounting in value to practically 200 million dollars; coffee, over 100 million; fruits and nuts, 50 million; tea, 18 million; cocoa and chocolate, 16 1/2 million; olive oil, 15 million; spices, 6 million, and more than 6 million dollars.

Of the manufactured materials imported, India rubber amounted to practically 100 million dollars; raw silk, 70 million; tobacco, 45 million; fibers, 34 million; cotton, 22 million; vegetable oil, 20 million; gums, 11 million, and cork and manufacturers thereof, 6 1/2 million dollars.

The quantity of sugar which entered continental United States in 1912 was practically 6 billion pounds against 3 1/3 billion in 1910. India rubber, 125 million pounds, against 55 1/2 million in 1910. Of coffee the quantity imported in 1912 is but little more than that imported in 1900—888 million pounds in 1912 against 758 million in 1900, yet the value of last year's imports was 14 million dollars, against 52 million in 1900, an increase of more than 100 per cent in value, while the quantity was increasing but 13 per cent. Another article in which the increase is especially striking is cocoa, or cacao, of which the imports in 1912 were 146 million pounds against 42 million in 1900, having thus more than tripled in twelve years. Tea shows but slight growth in imports as compared with cacao, the quantity brought into the country having increased from 85 million pounds in 1900 to 101 million in the fiscal year 1912.

RUBBER ON INCREASE.

Among the manufacturers' materials brought in, rubber shows a large increase in quantity, 144 1/4 million pounds in 1900 to 125 1/2 million in 1912, and an ever larger growth in value, from 32 million dollars in 1900 to practically 100 million in 1912. Another striking increase occurred in cotton, from 67 million pounds in 1900 to 144 million in 1912. Silk importations increased from 11 1/2 million pounds in 1900 to 26 1/2 million in 1912, and those of tobacco from 19 1/2 million pounds in 1900 to 67 1/2 million in 1912.

These figures, it is proper to add, include the tropical merchandise brought from the non-contiguous territories of the United States and forming about 100 million dollars in value, leaving about 650 million dollars worth of the above named total drawn from foreign countries.

The principal contributors of this 750 million dollars worth of tropical and subtropical merchandise brought into the country are Brazil, from which the imports last year were 124 million dollars in value, almost exclusively imported products; Cuba, 120 million; Mexico, 60 million; British India, 51 million; Straits Settlements, 22 million; Central America, 18 million; Egypt, 17 million; the Dutch East Indies, 14 million; Colombia, 11 million; Venezuela, 11 million; and Peru, 10 million dollars. From our own islands the value is, from Hawaii, 55 million dollars; Porto Rico, 43 million, and the Philippines, 24 million.

TROPICS DRAWN ON.

The tropical countries from which this merchandise is drawn are not, as a rule, large purchasers of our products. Brazil in the latest year for which figures are available, took but 12.8 per cent of her imports from the United States, although she sent 35.2 per cent of her exports to this country. India took but 2.7 per cent of her imports from the United States, but sent 6.6 per cent of her exports to this country. Egypt took but 2.3 per cent of her imports from the United States, and sent 6.6 per cent of her exports to this country.

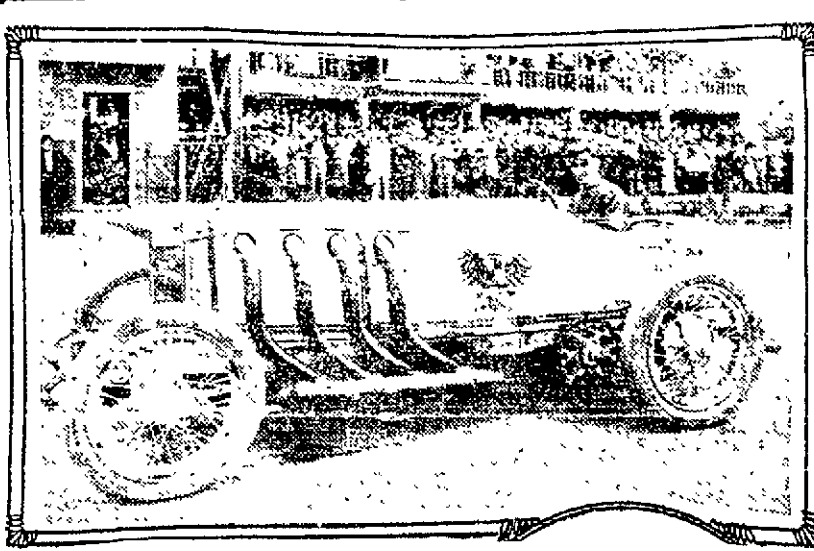

The Dutch East Indies took 1.7 per cent of their total imports from the United States and sent 4.3 per cent of their exports to this country. Proximity, however, is apparently an important factor in determining this question, since the percentage which merchandise from the United States forms of the imports of Mexico is 54.0; of the Central American states, ranging from 3 to 68; Colombia, 27.2; Venezuela, 26; Haiti, 63.2; Santo Domingo, 60.8; Peru, 19.7; and Cuba, with which trade is conducted under a reciprocity agreement, 32.3.

Of the merchandise imported into the Philippines, 32.1 per cent is from the United States; of that entering Hawaii, about 81 per cent is from the United States, and of that entering Porto Rico, about 99 per cent is from the United States.

WEAVER BOOSTS HIMSELF.

BUCK WEAVER, White Sox shortstop, returned to the Pacific coast and when asked how he found the big league life, he said that he liked it to him, that he could hit any of them, that he was not afraid of them, that he was not a "weak" player, and that he was not a "weak" player. He said that he was not a "weak" player, and that he was not a "weak" player.

Bob Burman to Drive in Emeryville Race Track

BOB BURMAN, world's famous speed king, in his 200 horsepower Blitzen Benz racing monster.

The Emeryville track will soon be the scene of a speed carnival when Bob Burman, speed king and a big string of the fastest pilots of the big powered cars participate in the biggest automobile racing fest ever staged within the Golden State on Sunday afternoon, November 24. There will be eight big events. Besides "Wild Bob," as he is familiarly known, Joe Horn, formerly on the exact "up" with the famous "Blitzen" Benz with which he made his sensational mile in 25 3/5 seconds or at the rate of 141 miles an hour, there will be Lozier team, and who will drive the famous 200 horsepower, Janetzky Mercedes, Jack Harkins of the Chadwick team, who participated in the Fairmont Park road race, and who will sit behind the steering wheel of the 120 horsepower Benz; Tony Janette of Torino, Italy, formerly with the F. I. A. T., who will pilot the powerful Darracq, which is the first car that ever succeeded in doing two miles under the minute; Walter DuCoursey, an Eastern driver of prominence, who will pilot the 110 horsepower Benz, with which George Robertson made all his records and a number of local cars and drivers. When these huge speed juggernauts are turned loose upon the track at Emeryville the spectators can look forward to some thrilling moments as the huge and powerful cars spin around the sharp and dangerous turns of the course. The two principal prizes offered for the races will be the Remy Grand Brazard trophy and the famous W. B. trophy, valued at $2500, and paying a weekly bonus to the lucky winner of $75 and $25 respectively. The Remy Grand Brazard trophy is a beautiful work of art of solid silver and was first offered at the Indianapolis speedway and has been raced for by the world's greatest drivers and was won two years ago by Burman, who is still the holder and defender. These two valuable prizes are offered in the free-for-all-open races in which any car is eligible regardless of its size or power. An effort will be made to induce Barney Oldfield to come into the races and a special inducement in the form of a thousand dollars in gold will be offered the ex-speed king, win or lose, if he will race "Wild Bob" in the Remy Grand Brazard race, which includes a chance at the $2500 trophy as well.

Most of the large power cars are garaged with the Osen & Hunter Auto Company, Twelfth and Jackson streets. The big 200 horsepower Blitzen Benz, the world's record car, is exhibited in the show windows of Holmes & Olson, agents for Firestone tires.

JOHNNY DUNDEE SAVED $10,000 IN TWO YEARS

JOHNNY DUNDEE, New York's best featherweight boxer, was 19 years old Saturday, October 19. And the same is marked that he is exactly $13,483 richer this day than he was twelve months ago. The amount in the prize money the boy has drawn down in bouts in a year, a big sum, and not yet out of his teens to gather.

It's a young fortune and shows what a young man can do if he sticks to his knitting. Dundee has always been a good liver, and never a spendthrift. The big share of money he has made he has banked and today has a bank account of close to $10,000. He has been boxing professionally for just two years, his first opponent being a pre-eminence, Dundee has always been a good fighter, and in September, 1910, in the two years he has been boxing he has had exactly ninety-nine fights and his ten-year record with Matt Brock at the Leona a week ago rolled out his century.

DIES OF CIVIL WAR BULLET WOUND

CHICO, Nov. 16.—James S. Holloway, member of Halleck post, G. A. R., of this city and father of Mrs. W. D. Walker of Chico, died in his home in St. Joseph, Mo., from the effects of a bullet wound in the neck, sustained during the three days' battle of Gettysburg.

The wound in the neck would periodically become inflamed and pass off poisonous substances. It was proposed that the wound would ultimately cause death because of the inability of physicians to permanently cure it. Decedent lived in Chico with his daughter and son-in-law for about two years. He left Chico last November for the middle west, his home. He was 66 years of age.

Mrs. Holloway returned from St. Joseph when her father first became ill. Decedent fought throughout the entire war and was in every important battle.

NO PUNCTURES WINS TEN-SPOT

Kelly-Springfield Tire Men Differ as to What Tires Really Will Do.

The troubles of the man that bet on either Wilson or Roosevelt carrying California are as nothing compared to the recent experience of Tom Bacon, the local Kelly-Springfield tire dealer. Don't ask him about it, he just.

It happened like this, according to Charlie Flint, the Western manager for the Kelly-Springfield tire interests, who won "Blitz" Bacon, Ed Wells of the Studebaker house, and Will McGuire, slanted on a hunting trip to Flint's car. The destination was Monticello and the trip figured in mileage about the 300-mile mark. The tires on the car were about worn out, or, in other words, they were in about the same fix as any tire man's personal tires would be, following the old saw about the shoemaker's wife. Bacon, true to his business training, advised Flint to put on new tires. Flint, in turn, true to his name of tire, claimed the tires would not give any trouble. The arguments finally sifted down to a ten dollar wager on the question of punctures or no punctures on the trip. Flint, taking the negative, lacking up his previous argument.

The party started, got there, found the hunting a delusion, and returned. No birds, no punctures. Flint is ten to the good, and Bacon has a few new selling arguments for the Kelly tires.

NAPA STIRRED BY RABIES SCARE

Boy Bitten by Spaniel Dog Is Given Pasteur Treatment at Berkeley.

NAPA, Nov. 16.—Napa is stirred by a rabies scare that has resulted in strict legislation requiring the muzzling of dogs, arm, and activity on the part of the poundmaster that will greatly decrease the rabies scourge of the county seat.

Last Saturday afternoon Donald and Kenneth, two little sons of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hunter, aged 10 and 12 years, respectively, were out mushroom hunting south of town. They had their dog, a little spaniel, with them. The dog had been acting strangely for a few days, but no particular attention had been given to it. When the boys were patting the dog through a fence it suddenly fell to a fit and bit the younger boy on the arm. The boy had to be stung with a writing dog to death before it would loosen its grip on the boy.

When they arrived home they told their experiences to their mother and she immediately sent Donald to Dr. C. H. Eulson, Dr. Eulson dressed the wound, and called the attention of Dr. Smart to the case. Dr. Smart secured the head of the dog and sent it to the University of California for examination.

Tuesday afternoon Dr. Eulson received word from the university that the analysis had shown the dog to be affected with rabies.

Little Donald was sent to the state hygienic laboratory at Berkeley for treatment. He will be under treatment for three weeks. Dr. Eulson is confident that he will recover because of the prompt attention given him.

Mayor D. S. Kyser has taken cognizance of the case and has called a meeting of the city council at which a drastic anti-dog ordinance has been adopted.

If You Want To Be Hurt Don't Come To Me

People who really like to suffer in the dental chair should keep away from my office. This is one place where pain is unknown.

My patients never have to endure a moment of torture while I am fixing their teeth. They would refuse to pay me for the work if I didn't do it absolutely painlessly. You see, I practice painless dentistry in my advertisements, so I always have to make good.

It is a mistake for anyone to assume that I employ cocaine, gas, chloroform or other dangerous anesthetics for the purpose of preventing pain. There is, however, my own discovery, is all I use, and it is perfectly harmless.

Just as soon as Tetrasthesia is applied to a tooth, the nerve in that tooth becomes insensible to all pain. Then the tooth can be extracted, ground down, filled, crowned, treated or extracted without causing the patient the least discomfort.

Tetrasthesia does not interfere with the heart action. Neither does it produce any disagreeable after effects. I have used it in all kinds of cases, but it has never once caused the slightest trouble.

I claim that my work is more durable than that of other dentists. I'll tell you why: No dentist can prepare a tooth properly when his patient is writhing in agony. He is forced to slight the most important part—the foundation work—and as the result, the whole job eventually proves bad. Having no pain to contend with I am able to attend to every detail in preparing and finishing a tooth so that nothing can possibly go wrong after the work is completed.

If you have lost some of your teeth, even though you now wear a partial plate or a bridge, you should learn how missing teeth can be replaced by my Rex Alveolar System without the aid of plates or bridgework. Any person who has genuine Rex Alveolar teeth in his mouth—not the worthless imitation so many dentists advertise—will tell you that they are almost equal to Nature's teeth.

You can come to me without fear of pain, no matter what has to be done to your teeth. I charge no more for painless dentistry than others charge for the painful kind. Besides, all my work is guaranteed.

Call and let me show you what I can do for you. It won't cost you a cent to consult me. Examinations and estimate free.

Hours, 8:30 to 12:30; Sundays, 10 to 12. Those who cannot call should write for a free book explaining my Tetrasthesia and Alveolar methods, and share of the patronage.

CLEVER AMERICAN ACTRESS SEEKS DIVORCE

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, Nov. 16.—May De Sousa, the clever American actress, who two years ago, married E. A. Rieu, of Rochester, N. Y., has not found married life the rosy state she imagined it. She has entered suit for divorce in London.

Her success in America was only a slight reflection of the fortune she created in Paris and generally in Europe. She is now filling an engagement in South Africa. She said that the case with her being able to make money seemed to strike a responsive chord in the heart of her husband, who concluded there was no use in two working if one could make enough for both. So he became a man of leisure. His wife said she could not provide for him, nor did she wish to, so he told him to go to work or home, where, any place so long as she was rid of him. She says that leisure had taken such a hold on him that he could not work again. Then she sued for divorce.

HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR AND MAKE IT SOFT AND BEAUTIFUL

A Little Sage and Sulphur Will Make the Gray Hair Vanish and Remove Every Particle of Dandruff.

Who does not know the value of Sage and Sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, Sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many hair specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Consequently there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature graying, than Sage and Sulphur, if properly prepared.

Many Useful Garments Are Distributed to Institutions

At the "ingathering time" of the Oakland branch of the National Needlework Guild of America, which took place during the first week of November in a vacant store on Broadway, over 1500 new garments or pieces of linen were exhibited, and then distributed to the following beneficiaries: Fabiola, Providence and Merrill Hospitals, King's Daughters' and West Oakland Homes, Social Settlement and Colored Home, Ladies' Relief, Associated Charities, Free Kindergarten, Fred Finch Orphanage, Detention Home, Anti-Tuberculosis Society and the "liver loon chests," there being now two of the latter, one established by the Oakland Club through the efforts of Mrs. L. P. Crane, district chairman of philanthropy of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, and who acted as the first chairman. This chest is now in charge of Miss Grace Trevor. A new loan chest has been recently established for the benefit of the Alameda County Anti-Tuberculosis Society.

In addition to the beneficiaries named, the officers of the Guild have a number of private cases whose needs are supplied from this yearly ingathering of garments, and of which no public report is made.

The Undenominational National Needlework Guild was started in Dorsetshire, England, in 1882 by Lady Wolverton, whose famous saying was "If only a little bridge could be thrown from the island of waste to the island of want, how both would be benefited."

MANY BRANCHES. There are at present 320 branches of the Needlework Guild in the United States. The Oakland branch of the guild was established twenty years ago by Mrs. Dr. Cornwall at the home of Mrs. J. West Martin, both of these ladies having been social leaders in the past.

Mrs. G. E. Whitney of Oakland was the first president. Mrs. J. H. Wilson, now honorary president, presiding here. The present president of the Guild is Mrs. J. B. Richardson of Piedmont.

The constitution of two new garments money constitutes a membership, and the collecting of ten to give two garments each constitutes a director, and five directors compose a section. A branch president is the head of ten or more sections. The section presidents of the Oakland branch of the Guild are Miss A. de Freymery, Mrs. J. H. Wilson, Miss Louise de Freymery, Miss Grace Trevor, Mrs. L. B. Everett, Mrs. Brook, Mrs. J. W. Reilly, Mrs. C. E. Knight, President of the Young Ladies' Guild, Mrs. Allen Babcock, Mrs. C. W. JUDAENS WILL HOLD FIRST OPEN SOCIAL

The Judaea Juniors, a young and prominent organization of this city, and the only one of its kind, are soon to hold an open social, the first since the club was organized. A good program is being arranged. Refreshments will be served and a large gathering will be present.

The committee acting are D. Glickman, Harry Schary and S. Berger. They are doing their utmost to make the affair the best yet. The Juniors were very successful in their booth which they had at the Judaea's bazaar and every boy worked hard so that by 1915 they may enter their new home.

They will hold an election of officers soon and an interesting meeting is expected.

The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put out an ideal preparation and Sulphur Hair Remedy, in which Sage and Sulphur are combined with other valuable remedies for keeping the hair and scalp in clean, healthy condition.

If your hair is losing its color or constantly coming out, or if you are troubled with dandruff or itchy scalp, get a fifty-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, use it according to the simple directions, and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in the appearance of your hair.

All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented. Agents, The Owl Drug Stores.

U. S. HELD UP AS AN 'AWFUL EXAMPLE OF DIVORCE

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

LONDON, Nov. 16.—This royal divorce commission, after three years of conjugal bickering, has brought in a report, or rather, two reports, showing hopeless incompatibility of temper among its members. The result has been to let loose a flood of discussion which almost drowned out the British war the European crisis and the defeat of the government on the Irish home rule question.

The public is as hopelessly divided as were the members of the commission. Everybody has an opinion to express and everybody is expressing it. George Bernard Shaw sums it all up with his usual cynicism when he says:

"The majority report of the divorce commission is not quite so idiotic as the minority, but the moral of both is: 'Don't get married.'"

After three years of solemnly talking hundreds of thousands of words of testimony the majority of the commission recommends that women should have the same rights as men in obtaining a divorce. Impossible, as it may seem to Americans, no woman in this country could obtain a divorce in England on the sole ground of infidelity, while a man on the other hand could obtain a divorce on this ground alone.

LITTLE INTEREST. Apart from this one recommendation the necessity for which would amaze anyone but an Englishman, the majority report is of little interest to Americans. It merely recommends that divorces should be granted on the same grounds and with the same ease as they are now granted in practically all American states except South Carolina.

The minority report, however, which opposes extension of grounds for divorce, holds up the United States as a horrible example against which all Englishmen and women must guard themselves if they are not to fall into the same hideous conditions as those which now prevail in America.

"In the United States the prevalence of divorce is notorious," says this minority report, which is signed by the Archbishop of York, Sir Wm. Anson, the historian, and Sir Louis Dilliball, the famous church lawyer.

"The outstanding fact is that in the case of the great English speaking American people, which has and for many years has had, divorce law largely similar to that which our colleagues would establish in this country, the number of divorces has now reached a figure which in proportion to the population is considerably more than double that of the number of divorces in any other country of the world except in Japan, where one in every six marriages is dissolved. So marked has been the decay of home life in modern times that a national league for the protection of the family was formed about thirty years ago."

BURLINGAME

NOW OPEN FOR SALE

EASTON ADDITION TO BURLINGAME NO. 7.

THE MOST ELEVATED PROPERTY IN BEAUTIFUL BURLINGAME.

This tract is now on the market and those who have indicated their desire to buy in the foothills should promptly visit the property and make their selection. Improvements include sidewalks, gutters and curbs of cement, oil macadam roads, etc.

A building restriction of $2500 insures a desirable class of residences.

The new electric line from "EASTON STATION" back into the foothills is now being constructed by the Southern P. Co., and will be in operation inside of sixty days.

The average running time from Third and Townsend to "EASTON STATION" is twenty-five minutes, or less than it takes to reach many parts of the west end of San Francisco, where a 25-foot lot will cost more than a 20-foot lot in "EASTON ADDITION NO. 7." And another great advantage is

NO FOGS OR FERRIES.

This accounts for the pronounced influx of transitory people—men whose business is in San Francisco, who have been looking for a desirable, settled suburb close to the city, quickly and easily reached and on the peninsula. We inspect the property, the improvements and our prices, in comparison with any high-class lots on the market, no matter where situated.

AND THE TERMS!

We aim to meet each individual case. Many prefer the monthly payment plan, and this can always be arranged. Of course there is a cash discount but we can probably adjust terms to meet your views.

HOMES BUILT.

There is a large class of prospective home buyers, persons who contemplate buying and building, but who find it inconvenient to pay cash. If you are paying a high price for a small, unsatisfactory home in town and would like to own a home of your own, let us talk it over. A certain number of houses will be built, perhaps we can arrange to build for you. Call at our office without delay if you want a home built on your own plans.

Report Has Depressing Effect on Wheat; Corn Suffers From Free Selling.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—Reports that country water stocks northwest were three times as large as they were a year ago had a depressing effect today on wheat. The opening varied 1/2 to 1/4 lower to bid advance. December at 4c off, touched 59 1/2 and then declined to 58 1/2.

Rumors that peace negotiations had broken down, and the possibility that the reaction was to a point lower than before, the close was weak at 58 1/2, 53 1/2 for December, a loss of 1 1/2 cts.
The market was rather dull and the weather. December moved up to 5 1/2, down 1/2 to 47 1/2, rallied 1/2 and fell back to 47 1/2. The market rallied a little with, but soon eased off. The close was steady, 1/2. December 54 1/2, net lower at 47 1/2, 47 1/2. The market was rather dull and the weather. December, which started unchanged at 52 1/2, 52 1/2, seemed inclined to keep within that range.

NO MORE RIBBON FOR FASHIONABLES

Feathers and Flowers the "Only Thing" for Women.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Ribbon, once so popular with the women of fashion, has to a great extent disappeared from her attire.

Women who used to wear hundreds of thousands of yards of ribbon in a season, now use only a few yards of gingham or narrow ribbon. Flowers and feathers are used instead. You may walk up the street and you will hardly find a woman with any but the thinnest bow in her hair.

"The hobble skirt has helped the decline of ribbon," said a dressmaker of a leading West End shop yesterday. "There are no more drenched and ribboned petticoats. Even children have not been wearing sashes or large hair ribbons as they used to do."

"Now that the draped skirt has come in, we look for a real for ribbons and also for lace for petticoats."

2000 ANGRY HOUSEWIVES WRECK BERLIN MARKETS

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—Angered at the continued high prices charged for meat, a crowd of about 2,000 housewives broke several of the largest of Berlin's public markets, looted and wrecked a large number of stalls, and engaged in a fierce bombardment of the butchers and apprentices with sausages, vegetables, fruit and such other missiles as the women could secure.

The first cause of the trouble was the sudden refusal of the butchers to put on sale supplies of Russian meat at the high prices prevailing.

ECZEMA CAN BE CURED TO STAY, and when I say cured, I mean just what I say—CURED and not merely relieved for a few days.

RAILROADS NEEDED TO DEVELOP NORTH

Full Industrial Possibilities to Be Realized by Building.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The full industrial development of inland Alaska is possible only by constructing railways that will furnish transportation to open ports on the Pacific. Though Alaska has long been clamoring for adequate transportation facilities, the general public outside the territory has only recently begun to understand that the opening of the mineral wealth and arable lands of this great empire is a matter of national importance. Many plans have been proposed for building railways in Alaska either by public or by private enterprise, and various measures are now before Congress.

Because of the general interest in this situation, a report issued by the United States Geological Survey entitled "Railway Routes in Alaska," by Alfred H. Brooks (Bulletin 520-A), has just been reprinted. This report briefly summarizes all the data available bearing on the location of a railway which shall connect Fairbanks on the Tanana, with one on the Pacific seaboard. The distance to be covered by the several routes varies from 350 to 600 miles. Experienced engineers have estimated the average cost per mile of constructing the line at $10,000.

A copy of this report may be obtained free on application to the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

Flashed Train With Shirts

Tearing his shirt from his back an Ohio man flagged a train and saved it from a wreck, but H. T. Alston, Raleigh, N. C., once prevented a wreck with Electric Buttons. "I was in a terrible plight when I began to use them," he writes, "my stomach, back and kidneys were all badly affected and my liver was in bad condition, but four bottles of Electric Buttons made me feel like a new man."

A trial will purchase you of their matchless merit for any stomach, liver or kidney trouble. Price 50 cents at Osgood Bros.

WOULD DEVELOP INTERIOR

Any one of the several proposed railways described in this report would render accessible the great resources of what has been termed Central Alaska, a quadrilateral area of about 200,000 square miles extending from the Pacific seaboard to the Arctic Circle. Central Alaska has produced from its placers, gold to the value of $75,000,000, its output in 1911 being over $9,000,000. It includes several auriferous lode districts and two important copper belts. One of these copper belts has been rendered accessible by a railway some 200 miles long extending inland from Cordova. Central Alaska also includes the high-grade coals of the Bering river and Matanuska fields, as well as very extensive deposits of lignite coal, in addition to its mineral wealth, which will justify railways, this part of Alaska contains much valuable agricultural and grazing land.

This publication not only summarizes data on topography and mineral resources, but also touches on climatic conditions, distribution of population, and arable lands, etc. It is illustrated by a carefully prepared map showing the distribution of mineral resources of Alaska. A list of government publications relating to railway routes in Alaska is appended.

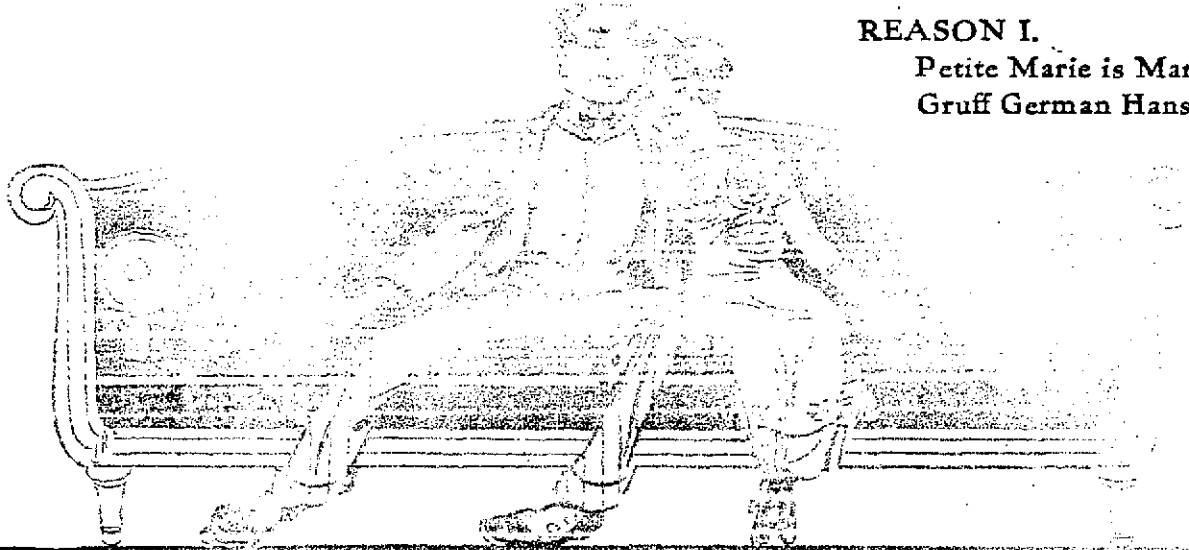

STOP!

Is All Germany Becoming French? The Kaiser Is Afraid It Is, Because: Germans Are Talking French, Going to French Dramas, Reading French Books, Passing Up the "Kaffeeklatsch" for Boulevard Tea and Shopping in the French Shops Which Have Invaded Berlin. "It Must Stop," Says Emperor William.

REASON I.

Petite Marie is Marrying Gruff German Hans.

REASON II.

The French modiste is supplying the Berlin Society Women with French Clothes.

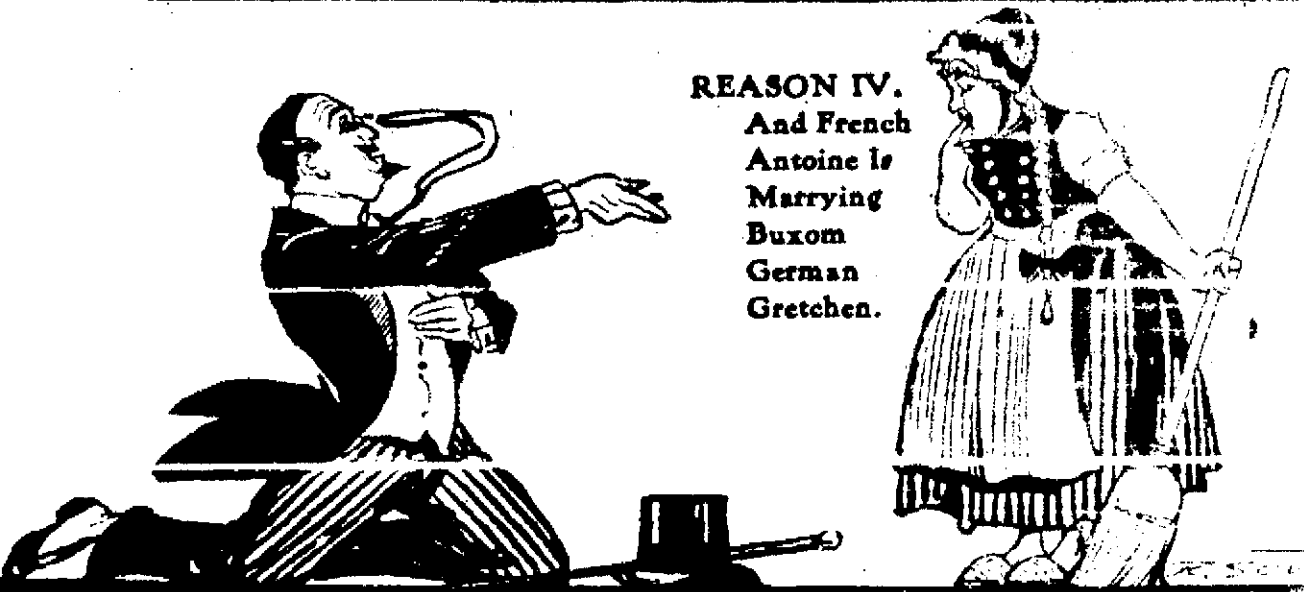

REASON III.

Bustling German Freda is Idolizing the French Novelist.

REASON IV.

And French Antoine is Marrying Buxom German Gretchen.

"Germany for the Germans" has always been the motto of the kaiser, and now that he has set himself the task of stemming the tide of French influence in his empire he will find it almost as hard a task as the proverbial one of sweeping back the sea with a broom. Here are some of the things he must counteract:

His subjects have adopted the great majority of French fads. The French language is extremely popular with the Germans. The French dances are fast replacing those of the fatherland. French foods are high in favor everywhere. French shops threaten the supremacy of the German shopkeepers. And the greatest of all—the pretty French Maries are flirting with and wedding the stanch German youths at such a great rate that the kaiser fears if something is not done the next generation will be half French. It looks as if the kaiser would have to change his motto to read: "Germany for the Germans—and the French."

FRENCH ideas are making themselves felt in Germany, and the German emperor is working hard to stem this influence. The German friuleins are falling in love with the gay French Antoinettes.

The pretty French Maries are flirting with and wedding the stanch German youths at an alarming rate. French dances abound in the cafés and theaters of Berlin. Everywhere one sees the French influence; Germans are crazy over the fads of the Frenchiest of the French.

Now the emperor has raised a restraining hand. It has been known for some time that he has felt this "invasion" keenly. It can be realized even by one who seldom gets right down and associates with the public and knows what is going on in the public mind. But the kaiser knows. He doesn't like French nor French customs, and it worries him to see his people adopting French customs so rapidly. Last year, when France and Germany had their swords almost drawn over the Moroccan question that France should surrender all rights in the Congo to Germany appeared as the real issue. The French in the Congo was only a small expression of Emperor Wilhelm II.'s opposition against many French social ideas that are rapidly making themselves felt all over Germany. The Germans never have wasted any neighborly affection on the French, but they do admire them for certain qualities. The emperor now feels that there is as much treason shown admiring certain qualities of the French as there is in having any affection for them.

Emperor Gives Orders on Language.

The French language is now popular with the Germans; there are many who speak it with as much ease as their own tongue. This is because French has always been considered the court language, or the diplomatic tongue of Europe. In the days of Louis XIV. more French was heard at the German royal court than the mother tongue. When the great French philosopher Voltaire was exiled from France he spent several years at the court of Frederick the Great at Potsdam.

The taking of Alsace-Lorraine, which was French territory, also has popularized the French language in Germany. Many of these old families have a strange affection for their native tongue, though any officer or soldier can be arrested if heard speaking in French.

The Emperor of Germany would like to bring the French language into disuse, as far as his people are concerned, but he still concedes its usefulness in business and for diplomatic purposes. Instead of forbidding the schools teaching it, he has had it put on the same basis as the English language, giving orders that they shall be considered of equal importance.

Next to the "fatherland" nothing means so much to the Germans as knowledge, especially scientific knowledge. In the last fifty years the great German scholars have had their eyes wide open to the experiments and discoveries in the laboratories of Paris. Their interest and enthusiasm was first aroused by Pasteur's important work with antitoxins as a cure for rabies.

Such German scientists as Koch and Behring have followed the work of Metchnikoff and the Curies with as much delight as if they were Germans working in their own laboratories.

Rivalry in Autos and Aeroplanes.

The German people have become deeply interested in mechanics in the last twenty-four years, as shown by the fact that during the last quarter of a century they have made more progress in this line than any other nation in Europe. Therefore, when French mechanics took to making automobiles the wealthy Germans commenced buying French cars, and many of the best French cars were sent to Germany. To check this trade the emperor at once took an interest in motor cars and uses them daily. His garages are filled with more than a dozen handsome machines, all of German manufacture.

The same thing happened with the aeroplanes when Blériot and a number of other French mechanics commenced to experiment. The Germans were the first people to show an active interest in their work. The Emperor of Germany saw this and ordered the buying of Wright aeroplanes for the army.

The German ruler believes he is well informed on many subjects, and one of these is fashions. He usually accompanies his wife on her shopping tours, whether they are selecting hats and gowns at home or abroad. Before entering a strange shop he is sure to ask the important question, "Is this a German, a Viennese, or a French shop?" If by any chance he makes a mistake, a hasty apology is made and they hurry elsewhere. The empress always wears gowns that are made in Berlin or Vienna. If a French shopkeeper should offer her the handsomest gown made in Paris for a present she could not take it, fearing that it would displease her royal spouse.

The only difference the Emperor of Germany ever had with his charming daughter-in-law, the Crown Princess Cecelia, was because she insisted on getting a large part of her trousseau in Paris instead of in Germany. She showed such determination on this point that royal gossip said that her romantic courtship might come to an abrupt ending. Since she is married she has learned to value her father-in-law's better judgment in these matters, and secures her clothes in Berlin and in Vienna.

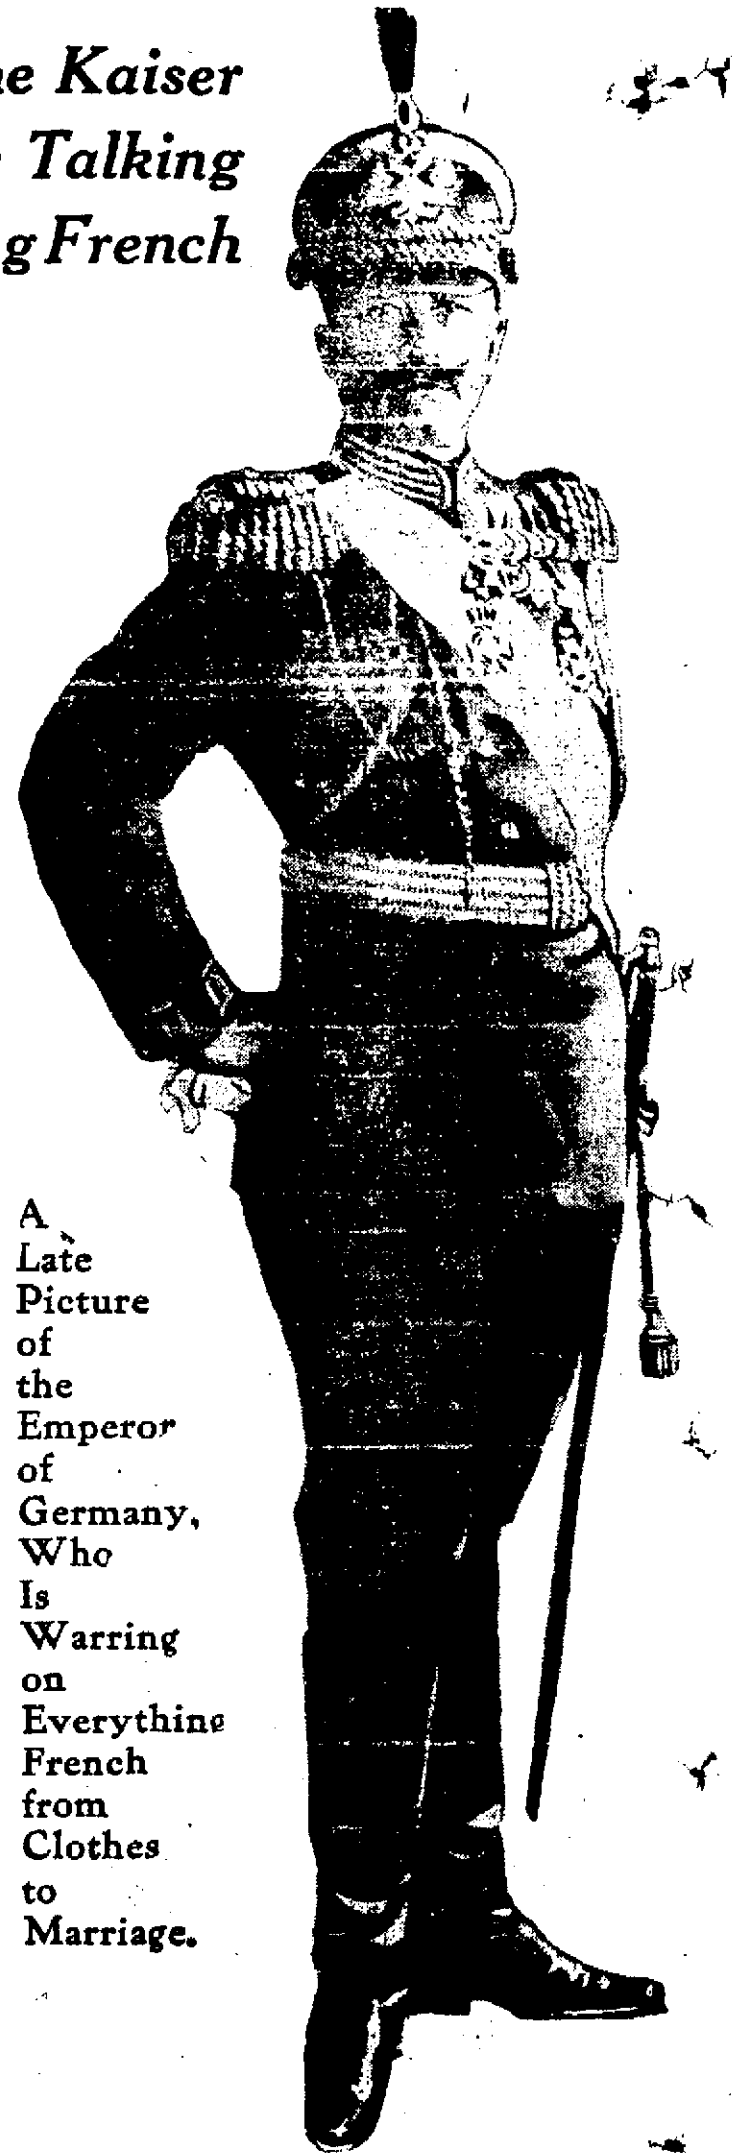

Afternoon Tea Is Found "Chic."

The Germans have a fine appreciation of art, whether it is native or foreign. Whenever they make a visit to Paris they spend much time enjoying the French composers and sculptors and visiting the theaters to hear the plays of Brieux and Bernstein. There are few artists in Germany who are more popular with their countrymen than are Händel, Beethoven, and Wagner.

Some years ago the German kaffeeklatsch was a favorite entertainment with the modern Teutons. This was characterized by a mound of coffee cakes and steaming coffee served in the midst of feminine gossip and a display of handwork.

But when the German women went to Paris on their semi-annual shopping tours they found that the pleasantest way to while away an hour or two was the "4 o'clock tea," which came originally from England. Now the 5 o'clock "coffee an lait" (coffee with milk) and beer have been disregarded for tea and toast. On a lovely afternoon or cool summer's day the Bois de Boulogne is thronged with fashionable women, many of whom are Germans, chatting and sipping their afternoon tea. They find it so much more "chic" than their own custom.

A Late Picture of the Emperor of Germany, Who Is Warring on Everything French from Clothes to Marriage.

It has become a fashionable part of court life; slipping over the teacups is considered a charming way of flirting and enjoying court scandal. When the emperor is at Potsdam his family and the crown prince and princess always have 5 o'clock tea on the lawn. If any mention is made of the fact, he is sure to explain that this is an English, not a French custom.

It is generally thought that French women are inveterate smokers because they learned the art from the Viennese. But they have made the custom so popular with the Germans that the most conservative and unassuming of them think nothing of smoking in the cosmopolitan hotels abroad, as well as in their restaurants and drawing rooms at home. The up to date German feels that there is no more harm in smoking a cigarette than the English and American women do in asking for the ballot.

Cupid Threatens to Merge Nations.

The Germans have become Parisianized to the point of preferring the French cuisine to their own. The dumplings and stendies of former days have been replaced by French salads and patisseries. When the Germans go to Paris they patronize the smartest of French restaurants. All the leading German hotels and restaurants keep the French chefs, in spite of the fact that the emperor shows a fondness for German and Austrian cooking.

This fondness for the French cooking is the result of Germans visiting French cities and resorts. In the spring and fall many of the smart German women go to Paris for a fortnight or more to do their shopping. During the winter they go to Cannes and Monte Carlo for roulette and the racing, and in summer they spend part of the time at Aix-les-Bains and Chamonix taking a cure and enjoying the gaiety of French resorts.

The old fashioned German hausfrau is a relic of the past. The up to date German woman looks after her figure as well as her home. This she does by taking a cure once or twice a year, playing golf and tennis, and importing the latest straight front corsets from Paris. She knows more than "kiche, kiche, and kinder."

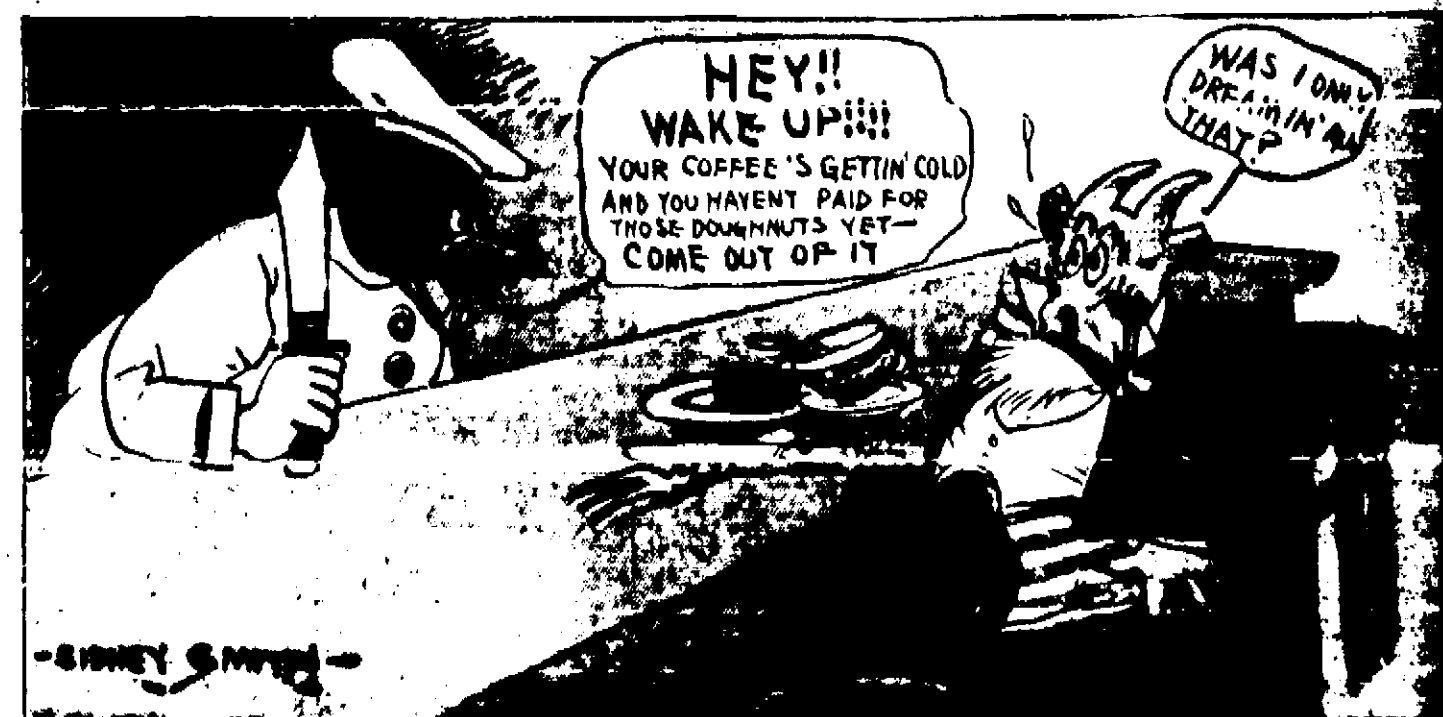

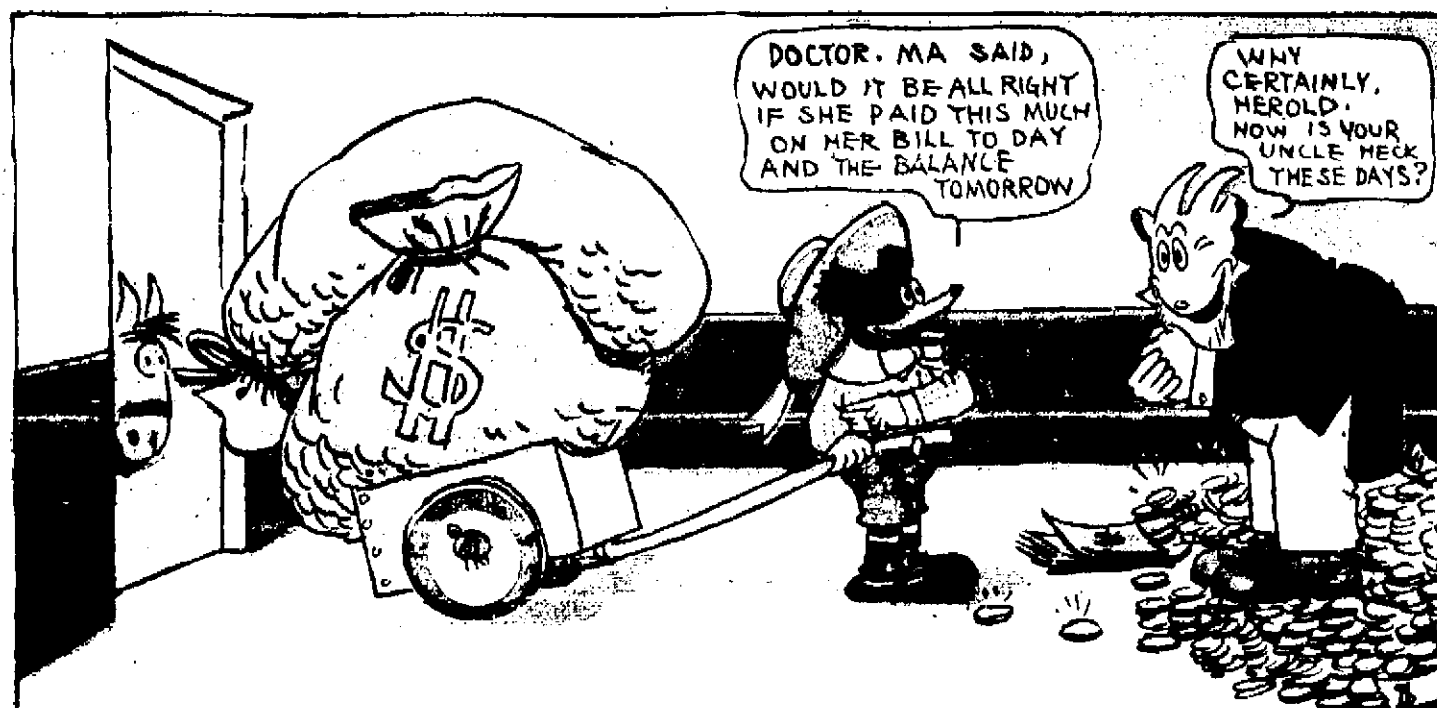

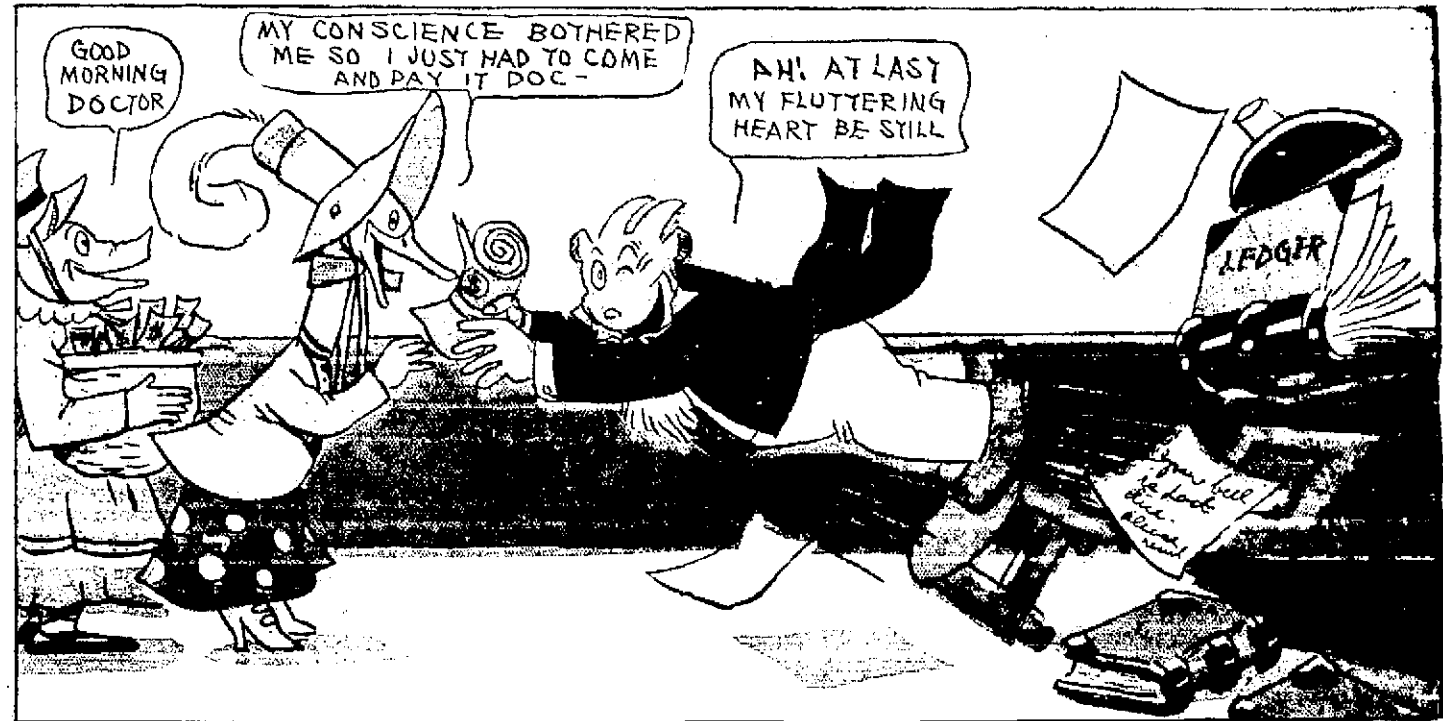

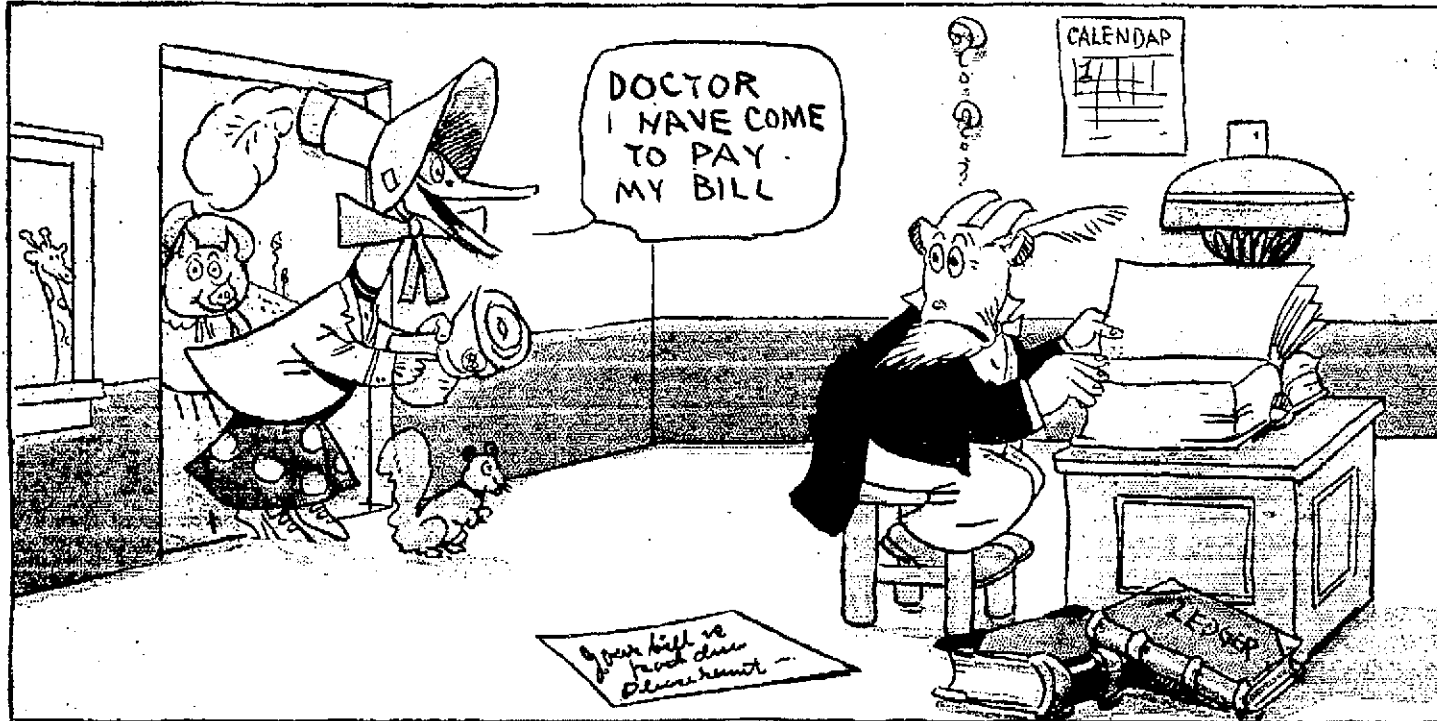

She enjoys handsome gowns and spends the time and money to get them. She is animated and interesting, full of lively repartee, and is often a real coquette. These tendencies show that in spite of battling with French ideas and French customs, the French influence is making itself felt in Germany.

And now we are told that the intermarriage of the German and French nations threatens to merge the two peoples as one in a given length of time. German girls are marrying Frenchmen among all classes at an alarming rate; French girls are becoming the wives of German business men and farmers.

This, perhaps as much as anything else, indicates a "French invasion."

A black and white woodcut illustration depicting a group of women in late 19th-century fashion. In the foreground, a woman stands on the left, wearing a large, wide-brimmed hat adorned with flowers and a long, dark coat with buttons. She is looking towards the right. Next to her, a woman is seated in a high-backed chair, wearing a similar large hat and a light-colored dress with a dark belt. On the right side of the foreground, another woman is seated in a similar chair, also wearing a large hat and a light-colored dress, looking towards the left. In the background, several other women are visible, some seated and some standing, all wearing hats and dresses. The setting appears to be an indoor room with a tiled floor and a wall with a decorative border. The style is characteristic of 19th-century magazine illustrations.
